THE WILSON-MITCHELL CASE

Trial by Jury Today Charged with Owning Burglar Tools.

The proceedings in Judge Timmony's court this morning were unusually interesting.
The case that occupied the attention of court and jury was that of the State vs. Henry Wilson and Lillie Mitchell, accused of having burglar tools in their possession. It will be remembered that on trial today, pleaded guilty on the 23rd inst. to the charge of owning burglar tools, and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the county jail.
The jury in this case was composed of R. C. Nielson, E. J. Jeremy, J. J. Gallagher and J. D. Wright. The defendants were represented by J. M. Hamilton, while Attorney W. T. Gunter conducted the prosecution.
Detective Gresham was the first witness examined. He stated, in answer to Mr. Gunter, that he arrested the defendants, and that the woman told him (Gresham) that Wilson was her husband. Witness further stated that he searched the room occupied by the accused and found several skeleton keys and a "jimmie." The last named implement was found on a ledge outside the window of the room, covered over with ashes. Detective Sheets identified the keys and "jimmie" as the articles found in defendant's room.

In cross-examination, witness stated that when he made the arrest of the woman, she remarked to him: "If it were not for us kind of people, you fellows would have no job." Sheets stated that when he went into the room, the Mitchell woman was on the bed smoking a cigarette.
Sergeant Ed. Janney was called, and his testimony corroborated that of Detective Sheets.
E. C. Cotterell related the part he took in the arrest of Lewis and Wilson.
"When Wilson broke away from the officer," said Cotterell, "I ran after him and caught him in an alley leading west from Teasdale's store."
"That was all witness knew about the case."

Otto Pathe a newshow, testified that he saw Wilson throw a watch away when Cotterell caught him. Witness picked the time piece up and gave it to Cotterell.
The last named witnesses were not cross-examined.
Mr. Gunter offered in evidence a letter written by Lewis and Wilson to the woman, to which Mr. Hamilton objected. Objection was overruled. Here the State rested and the case was continued until this afternoon.
The Mitchell woman was being cross-examined. She swore positively that she was the lawful wife of Wilson, that they were married in San Francisco in 1894.

A BELUCOSE SHOEMAKER.

Charges at Officer Gillespie with the Jail Poles.

"Hello! Police station? Well, send the patrol wagon and the police force to 854 east Fourth South at once; there's a man here trying to murder every body."
This pleasant bit of information was received at police headquarters about 6:45 last evening. The pressing demand could not be complied with to the letter, for the simple reason that Officer Davies and patrol driver Cannon were the only police officers at that particular hour.
The officers did not know what they would have to encounter, whether it was a gang of murderous daggers, "Jack the Ripper," or old Susan Tullidge on the rampage. But that made no difference to the gallant guardians of the peace and dignity of Salt Lake.
Armed with clubs the officers boarded the patrol. Driver Cannon on the box and the duplicate of the burglar run of a few nights previous was made.
The shoe bell proved to be a shoemaker named P. W. Brown. He had quieted down some when the officers arrived and offered no resistance when arrested. But the officers did not realize that they had an animated mass of nitroglycerine. The jag possessed by Brown was really an immense one. He didn't show his other self until after he was locked in jail-apartment No. 1. Half an hour later Officer Gillespie brought up from the depot Chas. Gray, a suspected catcatcher. The officer "catcatch" over to the bastille to lock him up. Then it was that the shoemaker loomed up in his true colors. He was unloading himself of a cargo of vituperative epithets that would turn a hackdriver or a London Cockney green with envy. Growing like a mad brute, Brown seized the jail policeman and charged on the big police man. But for the prompt action of the officer in slamming the door he would have been brained. The officer called for assistance to keep the other prisoners in jail. Gillespie then entered Brown's stronghold, grabbed him by the neck and gave him a kick that changed the geography of that bellicose individual's anatomy. He was locked in the room for solitary confinement in the basement where he whiled away the time in the vain endeavor to kick the door down, and howling, "There'll be three men less when I go to bed tonight."

As a cure for rheumatism Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the best remedy known. D. B. Johnson of Richmond, Ind., has been troubled with that ailment since 1862. In speaking of it he says: "I never found anything that would relieve me until I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It acts like magic with me. My foot was swollen and painful me very much, but one good application of Pain Balm relieved me."

STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Doctor Jordan Tells About "The Man With the Hoe."

CAUSES THAT PRODUCED HIM

Result of Culling Out the Best and Strongest Men for the Armies - England's End.

"The Man With the Hoe," was chosen by Dr. Jordan as his theme for last evening's lecture at the Assembly hall, and he dealt with the type presented by Millet in his famous painting and by Prof. Markham in his poem. The reason why such individuals made up the peasantry of France was because the best men in the land had all along been called out for service in the army, for destruction, leaving the inferior to till the soil, etc. What was true of France was also true of other nations in greater or less degree. The Germans, however, had avoided this. Germany was a military nation, but she avoided fighting unless the victory was sure. The fate of any nation which sent the flower of its manhood continually to war, crimsoned the rivers and reddened the land with the blood of the bravest and best, was sealed as surely as night follows day. England did not fight when she could accomplish the end sought for in any other way. The common people of England were superior to the same class a century ago, and it was due to the losses incurred on the field of battle. "There is no more doubt," said Dr. Jordan, "that the coming century will see the end of the British empire than that the present century has seen the end of Spain."
As to our own country, Dr. Jordan said our wars had been few. In the civil war about a million of the nation's best men were lost, but we did not miss them greatly. We did, however, miss the sons and daughters who would have been with us today but for that war.
"The Man With the Hoe" must not become a national type in America, as he was in Europe. The escape from that was in the cultivation of peace and the good old virtues of industry, sobriety and equality before the Almighty.

NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN.

Superintendent Oscar Van Cott, of Salt Lake is Elected President.

The business meeting of the State Teachers' association did not take a great deal of time yesterday afternoon. The work of choosing new officers being disposed of with dispatch.
Three candidates were placed in nomination for the presidency, Supt. Frank B. Cooper, of Salt Lake, Supt. Oscar Van Cott, of Salt Lake, and Supt. Porter E. Eaton, of Ogden.
Mr. Cooper stated that he had resided here but a short time, and thought the honor should certainly go to some one else. On the first ballot, however, he received 75 votes. Supt. Van Cott, 97, and Porter E. Eaton, 12. Mr. Cooper was elected, receiving 123 votes in the second ballot, while Porter received 104. The election was made unanimous.
For vice-presidents, Prof. Engle and Prof. Eaton, of Ogden, and Prof. Clark, of Salt Lake, Prof. Blocher, of Park City, and Miss Adelaide M. Holton were presented. The ballot resulted in the election of Miss Holton, the vote being as follows: Miss Holton, 97; Eaton, 84; Clark, 12; Blocher, 10.
The other officers were all quickly chosen, as follows: Second vice-president, Hilton Bennion, of the Southern Normal school; Prof. Albert Merrill, Logan, third vice-president; Albert S. Martin, Salt Lake, secretary; Frank Evans, Coalville, treasurer.
In addition to the election of officers these committees were named:
Auditing—Prof. Paul and Roylance of Salt Lake, Frank Evans of Coalville.
Resolutions—Prof. Martin and Bradford of Salt Lake and Engle of Ogden.

CONVENTION NOTES.

A delightful recital was given at the Tabernacle last evening in honor of the visiting teachers. The Tabernacle choir, under Prof. Stephens, gave three selections, while Lizzie Thomas-Eaton and Horace Ensign were heard in vocal selections and Prof. Daynes gave an organ solo.
The teachers have been very prompt in settling their association dues.
The cost of the convention at $300, a moderate figure considering the attractions presented.
The association reaped a considerable harvest from last night's lecture, although it was unattended. For the course of lectures was first arranged for, it was the intention to charge an admission fee, to at least one of them, but yesterday President Allison found that this would not be necessary as the association had all the funds it needed. Prof. Gilliam, the chairman of the finance committee, was not at the meeting when this was decided upon, and when the doors opened last night, he was immediately on hand and collected the admission fee from a majority of the audience before President Allison arrived on the ground to inform him.

CAPTURE AND ESCAPE.

Lew McCarty Caught in Colorado, but Gets Away Again.

Lew McCarty, an alleged cattle thief, for whose capture Gov. Wells some time ago offered a reward of $200, was apprehended one day this week in Montezuma county, Colo. Just as soon as Sheriff Jensen of Sanpete county received word of McCarty's arrest he started for this city to get the necessary requisition papers. Upon arrival here yesterday afternoon he found a telegram from his deputy in Montezuma advising him. The dispatch stated that McCarty had escaped from the officers the day of his arrest. This action on the part of McCarty, of course, rendered the getting out of requisition papers wholly unnecessary, and Sheriff Jensen had to forego the pleasure of returning home with the man he started out after.
McCarty was convicted in Mantel on August 2, 1895, of cattle stealing. He escaped from an officer before sentence had been pronounced. He is a son of old Tom McCarty, a well known character in Southern Utah. Sheriff Jensen returned home today.

Charles Kingston Talks of His Visit to Big Horn Basin.

PEOPLE VERY COMFORTABLE

No Snow in Basin—Plenty of Water from the Mountains—Soil is Very Fertile.

Charles Kingston, registrar of the United States land office at Evanston, Wyoming, is visiting the city after an extended trip to the Big Horn Basin, in north central Wyoming. Mr. Kingston's position has made him quite familiar with the arid lands of the West and gives added weight to the glowing accounts he gives of the prosperity of the settlers in the Basin. In the first place it never snows in the Basin, which is an extensive valley 100 miles long by 100 miles wide. The mountains all around this extremely fertile valley receive the snows of winter, which are thawed into plentiful streams of water during the summer. The altitude is about the same as Salt Lake valley, but although it is cold after a storm the people who live in their shirt sleeves the greater part of the winter. A great deal of stock raising is carried on in the Basin, but the fifty "Mormon" families in what is known as Burlington ward are engaged principally in farming, and are, Mr. Kingston says, about the only people who are making a success of farming. He was surprised to see the comforts of the people. Many of them have between 100 and 200 tons of lucern hay in stacks, and it is not uncommon to find upwards of 1,000 bushels of wheat in the granaries. The wheat and other grain grown there is of an excellent quality. Samples of wheat and of thoroughly matured corn were shown by Mr. Kingston, which are as good as any country can produce. One man, it is stated, raised 50 bushels of wheat from 1 1/2 acres of ground. Although there is plenty of water some little difficulty is experienced in places in getting it onto the ground owing to the deep ravines that have been washed out in the lapse of time. In some places these are 70 feet deep, but the united efforts of the people are fast overcoming this difficulty of getting the water to the land. Mr. Kingston knows of no place where a home can be secured and a living made more easily than it can be done in the Big Horn Basin.

CONGREGATIONAL CHINESE.

They Will Give Their Christmas Program This Evening.

The Congregational Chinese Sunday school and Christian Endeavor society will hold their annual Christmas exercises in the First Congregational church this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The entertainment is open to the public, which will no doubt be interested, because of the unique nature of the services. The best musical and literary talent among Salt Lake's population of the flowery kingdom, will be called forth, and one erstwhile heathen will tell how he became a Christian, and exhort his fellow countrymen to be an interesting feature.

BUSINESS AND REALTY.

By the terms of a sheriff's deed issued yesterday, William C. Hall became owner of a 4x10 rod tract of land in lot 4 block 64, plat A, the same being on fifth West, between First and Second South streets. The consideration was $5,777 1/2. The property was sold by the sheriff last April, the sale being the result of an action in which Benjamin F. Brown was plaintiff and Sarah H. Cannon et al defendants.

CALEDONIAN CLUB FUND.

To Raise Subscriptions for Families of Scots Killed in South Africa.

The members of the Salt Lake City Caledonian club are thinking seriously of taking up a collection for the benefit of the widows and children of the brave Gordon Highlanders and members of other Scottish regiments who gave their lives for England in the present war with the Boers. Fifty cents from each member will be required, and Scots everywhere in Utah will be asked to donate to the fund, no one person being expected to contribute more than fifty cents. When the kettle lads left Great Britain for the front there was tremendous enthusiasm on the part of the populace displayed. The hands played "Will Ye No Come Back Again," and very touching scenes. Many of the boys "will no come back," and while numbers of their countrymen in Utah and elsewhere do not approve of the Transvaal war, they purpose doing their share in helping the widows and children of their brave countrymen.

AN OLD LADY'S DISTRESS.

Arrives Here Where She Expected to Meet Her Son.

There was an old lady at the Rio Grande Western station today who stated that she had just come from Sweden in response to the request of her son, C. T. Bernstrom, who she says resides in this city.
The lady stated to an officer that her son sent for her and promised to meet her at the station but now she can learn nothing of him. She said that Bernstrom's P. O. box was No. 118, but inquiry at the postoffice failed to substantiate the statement.
Chief Hilton thinks that the old lady has simply arrived here ahead of scheduled time. She has a couple of children with her.
Later—The missing son finally showed up at the Rio Grande Western depot this afternoon and met his anxious relatives, who received him with open arms. The scene was a very affecting one.

PLAN OF TAKING CENSUS IN UTAH

Supt. Arthur Pratt Undertakes Work of Revision.

WOMEN AS ENUMERATORS.

Upwards of 750 Applications Received—Blanks Will Soon be Sent Out to Each One.

Superintendent of Census Arthur Pratt has received from the head office in Washington a plan looking to the dividing of Utah into 200 enumerating districts. Accompanying the plan was a request that the superintendent revise and correct the same before it is finally adopted by the head office. Assisted by Secretary of State Hammond Mr. Pratt set about the work today, expecting to have it ready, for transmission within the next few days. Upon receipt of the revised plan at Washington, and its adoption by the proper authorities, Mr. Pratt will proceed to appoint the enumerators, of whom there will be 200. In addition to these Superintendent Pratt will also have the naming of a number of special agents, whose duties will be to take the census of live stock, manufactures, etc. Salt Lake City and county will be divided into 66 census districts, eleven of them being in the county and fifty-five in the city. There have been no less than 750 applicants for the two hundred and some odd positions, about 100 being females. Blanks will shortly be sent out to all the applicants, who are required to fill them out, according to printed instructions, and return as soon as possible to Superintendent Pratt.
"Is it your intention to recommend the appointment of women to the positions?" asked a "News" man of Mr. Pratt today.
"Most assuredly I shall," he replied. "Of course," he added, "there are some districts where it would be impossible for women to do the work. I refer to those places that are scattered and sparsely settled, and where Majuba hills and miniature Transvaal donkeys have to be encountered and surmounted. Districts of this kind I shall appoint men to look after. But many of the districts of Salt Lake, Ogden, Provo and elsewhere, the ladies will receive due consideration."

PERSONAL.

Butte Miner: Henry Siegel of Salt Lake is in the city.

Butte Miner: Rev. M. J. Murphy, S. M. and Rev. E. P. Gueymard, S. M., of All Hallows church, Salt Lake City, are visiting in Butte, the guests of St. James' hospital. They will remain until January 6th.

W. B. Atherton of St. Anthony is in the city, and speaking of that shifty little town and the surrounding country, says that the valley in which St. Anthony is located is very fertile, and capable of producing large crops. Mr. Atherton says the bringing of the railroad to that place is bound to make it an objective point for immigration, and St. Anthony, he confidently believes, is destined to become one of the most important cities in the State. He says the railroad has taken all the teaming away from Market Lake. He thinks a man could make money up there, by building a few houses and renting them, for at present there is a great lack of vacant houses.

William Stanton, a civil engineer of South Milwaukee, is in the city en route to California. He is going to the American river in that State to superintend the construction there of a steam mining dredge, calculated to be able to excavate 2 cubic yards of earth per twenty-four hours. Mr. Stanton says he has heard of the project to send a steam dredger up to Cape Nome to excavate the sand under the water off the shore. He thinks this will be a paying scheme if they can stand the work. Mr. Stanton says the extension of canal work has given a great impetus to the manufacture of dredging and excavating machinery. A Canadian and Buffalo syndicate have organized to build a series of canals between Lake Erie and Montreal, and will bring into use the latest improved excavating machinery. The American railway companies, and Erie canal people are much alarmed over this scheme, as grain will now be shipped from Duluth via the St. Lawrence and canals to Montreal, for ocean shipment rather than by way of New York.
