The Largest Number of People Ever Seen in this City at One Time.

INPRESSIVE AND APPROPRIATE DIS-COURSES.

The morning of Friday, July 29th, 1887, dawned on a day of sadness in Utah, on the occasion of the funeral services over all that was mor-tal of President John Taylor, the beloved and honored leader whose beloved and honored leader whose life's interests, for over half a century, had been devoted to the great cause in which the Latter-day Saints are eng aged, and who, for forty years, has that pertained to the interests and shared in this Territory, the labor of establishing a great commonwealth.

With the appearance of daylight vehicles loaded with people could be BToe body was placed in the open space in front of the stand, so that the people could pass in single file on each side. The coffin in which it was enclosed was made of Utah pine, in accordance with the wish of the deceased, and was stained and polished until it resembled mountain mahogany. It was tastefully ornamented with silver counselor; that we have lost one of trimmings, there being an entire ab" sence of display. On the sliver breastplate of the coffin was inscribed in neatly engraved lettering:

PRESIDENT JOHN TAYLOR. Died July 25, 1897. Aged 78 years, 8 Mos. and 24 Days.

The footplate was also a sample of beautiful workmanship. On if was engraved:

> HOLINESS TO THE LORD. REST IN PEACE.

The Tabarnacle was draped in mourning, the organ and stands being covered with crape. In the front of the organ was an excellent steel-plate engraving of the deceased. The stands were decorated with beautiful flowers, tastefully stranged. On the Sacrament stand, in the centre, was a fine piece of foral ornamentation, on which was inscribed:

HAMPION OF LIBERTY. On a sheaf of wheat near by was the inscription,

WELL DONE, GOOD AND FAITHFUL

While the throng of visitors was passing through the building, Prof. J. J. Daynes played a number of appropriate selections on the grand organ. At 12 o'clock, the time appointed for commancing the services, the buildlog was filled to its utmost capacity. The stand of the First Presidency was unoccupied. On the next were seated Apostles Lorenzo Snow, Franklin D: Richards and Heber J. Grant, and Daniel H. Wells, of the Counselors to Smith, President Augus M. Cannon, of Salt Lake Stake; President 4.0. Smoot. of Utah Stake; and Patriarche Lorenzo mediately in front of the stand. At 15 minutes past 12 the congrega-

structions of President Taylor regarding the manner is which his funeral should be conducted, as follows:
