WASHINGTON, 18.—Shipperd, of the Peruvian Co., was one of the most disgusted men that ever appeared before an investigating committee, this morning, when he was notified after refusing to answer the question put to him by members of the foreign affairs committee, that his further presence was not desired. He had evidently expected to be treated as an object of importance, and perhaps brought before the bar of the House for contempt. He had prepared a mass of stuff to lay before the committee, regarding his treatment by ex-Secretary Blaine, and that he evidently hoped would again direct public attention to his grievances. Blaine convicted Shipperd by his own testimony, and by that of six other witnesses, of being a consummate liar, and Shipperd naturally did not want to be relieved from attendance on the committee until he had a chance to reply.

LONG BRANCH, 18.—A bulletin was posted on the authority of Capt. R. Mitchell, of the wrecked steamship Pliny, warning people against using coffee which came ashore from the ship, because it had been poisoned by hides which were saturated with arsenic, and stowed away in the same part of the vessel with the coffee, and soaked with water that had entered. Thousands of bushels had been carted away by the people in the neighborhood, and they are greatly excited over the statement.

The purpose of the Society is said to be the defeat of the Catholic democratic candidates for office. The exposure is made on the authority of one of the members of the society who gave their secret away.

WASHINGTON, 20.—The unanimous decision of the District Supreme Court on the question raised by the defense in the Guiteau case will be announced on Monday. The Post to-morrow will give the following as the points of the decision.

The court will broadly sustain the position taken by the district attorney, that the jurisdiction is complete where the fatal blow was struck, without regard to the locality of actual demise. The court holds that the bullet fired at the President by Guiteau on the 2nd of July last was the cause of his death, and that the trial could only have been held in Washington; that the death of the President in New Jersey, except as affected by local statute, could not change the jurisdiction. The assassin had not been in New Jersey, had committed no offense against New Jersey laws, and the mere fact of the victim being removed to Elberon to prolong life or save it, if possible, could not be made to affect the character of the crime.

The court will claim in addition there are grounds on which the jurisdiction as the exercise might be maintained if it were necessary to decide the case.

First—That this is the United States court, with all the powers of any circuit court of the United States.

Second—That this is a judicial district, and that under a provision of the law, when a crime is begun in one and completed in another district, the offense is complete in either.

Third—That the murder being an offense in this district against the United States, and the removal of the President to New Jersey did not take him beyond the jurisdiction of the government against which the offense was committed.

NEW YORK, 20.—The Times says: What are we doing in the Phoenix Park case? Why, we are doing better than those who have filled the papers with balderdash for several days lately, said Inspector Barnes yesterday. We are in an intelligent position in regard to it, and I don't mind telling that we have what we call a good end to it, that is to say, we have been and are working on a track that promises much. We are not going to communicate what we are doing or what we do, but when we have accomplished what is to be done, the public will know of it and not before. The wholesale arrests in England and Ireland are serious mistakes, and have done a great deal to spoil the case. It would appear that they are working in the dark, and very badly too. The English Consul, if he has any information about the tragedy, has kept it to himself. What information we have has been gleaned from other sources. When the news that the deed had been committed reached this city, a number of men met in a hall up town on the west side. They were all Fenians and desperate ones too. Since then they have been active, and probably ere long we will hear of another startling execution. They mean business, and intend to carry on their desperate and mysterious warfare, and with them the end justifies the means. They are silent workers, and all determined men. They have all been shadowed, but as they are shrewd fellows but little progress has been made, however. We are doing our best and awaiting developments. If the Dublin police have any better description of the men suspected, than that published, it is strange that they don't forward them to this city, or if they are in possession of the British Consul, it is odd that he doesn't send us a copy of them for our guidance.

The Mercury of to-morrow will publish an article concerning the opening, within a few days past, of an intelligence office for the supply of Mongolian labor in every shape and style. The enterprise is undertaken by a Celestial named Jin Sang Yung, and he has established his office at 70 Seventh Avenue. The enterprising Chinaman secured a copy of the city directory, and through this he transmitted his business cards to every hotel and boarding house in the city. In reply to questions, he said he supplied house workers, farm hands, china decorators, embroidery work and furniture workers, cigar makers, shoe makers, and a few others. He asks for house hands, waiters, etc., $30 to $35 per month with board and washing. He did not furnish female help and all his hands to supply the demand came from San Francisco. When he gets orders he sends to San Francisco for Chinamen to fill them. He said he would send on Monday cards to Long Branch, Saratoga, Newport and Coney Island. He has opened negotiations with a large trading concern in California to meet the requirements of his establishment.

CHICAGO, 20.—Some mysterious proceedings were had in the Federal Court to-day when James B. Doyle, the convicted counterfeiter, was brought in for sentence. It was intimated that potent influences had been at work and that he would not go to the penitentiary. The event justified the statement of Judge Bangs, the prisoners counsel, who said to the court that he had learned through authority that the Washington authorities desired the sentence suspended for a time, at least, and the prisoner admitted to bail. District Attorney Leake said the Attorney General had instructed him to withdraw his motion for the immediate sentence of Doyle, which he accordingly did. The court refused to reduce the bail, but it is believed Doyle will be released before midnight.

sales at the morning session aggregated 950,000 barrels.
