UTAH'S EXHIBIT AT ST. LOUIS FAIR

Director General Whitaker Says
It Compares Favorably With
The Best.

PECULIAR DEATH OF LITTLE BOY

Ten Year-Old Youth Steals Horse and Saddle—Junction City News

Director General S. T. Whitaker, of the Utah exhibit at the world's fair, St. Louis, who has been home for the past week on business, left Ogden for St. Louis this morning. In conversation with a "News" representative, he said with reference to the fair that it is an immense exhibition, surpassing all other world's fairs ever held, but that it is not yet at its best, and will not be for several weeks. In his opinion the best time to visit the fair will be in September, when all the exhibits will be in their best and the weather will be very agreeable.

Mr. Whitaker has taken some more exhibits to the fair. One was furnished by the American Smelter & Refining company, a quantity of copper bullion. An exhibit has been collected for the fair by Thomas Judd and furnished by the ladies of St. George, which Mr. Whitaker says, is especially beautiful and attractive. It is a magnificent collection of Utah silk in its raw and manufactured state. The school exhibit, which was shipped May 17, will not be placed in the building until Mr. Whitaker arrives to superintend the work. He says that Utah's exhibit, while not so large as many others, compares very favorably with the best and is being examined with great interest by the visitors, especially the magnificent pictures of different parts of Utah.

SAD DEATH OF LITTLE BOY.

Rulon Alfonso Bingham, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellah G. Bingham, died yesterday at the family residence in Wilson Lane, after a two weeks' serious illness. Two weeks ago he went with his elder brother into the field, when he was suddenly taken with a pain in his right knee and had to be carried into the house, not being able to touch his foot to the ground. Three of Ogden's best physicians were sent for, but they have been baffled to know what was the trouble with him. He has suffered untold agonies, and though in health a fair, bright little boy, he wasted away to a mere nothing, the disease spreading to all parts of his body. His parents have the sympathy of the entire community. The funeral services for his remains will be held at the Wilson ward meetinghouse Friday at 2 o'clock. Remains can be viewed between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

BOY STOLE HORSE AND SADDLE.

Herman Dyer, 15-year-old lad, is in the confines of the county jail on a charge of larceny, that of stealing a horse and saddle belonging to Mr. Peterson of West Weber. The horse and saddle were at the barn in the rear of the sugar factory, where Mr. Peterson is fattening some cattle. The boy rode the horse away, took the saddle and left it to a young man named Steinhilber for 75 cents. He will no doubt be sent to the reform school.

BRIEFS AND PERSONALS.

W. W. Corey has returned to Ogden after an extended absence with Corey Brothers' contracting outfit. Catherine, the youngest daughter of Judge H. H. Rolap, is suffering greatly from rheumatism and brain fever. Her condition is very critical. Mary A. Jensen, the little infant daughter of Andrew B. and Jennie Jensen, died at the home, 3230 Washington avenue. Funeral tomorrow at 2 o'clock.

Tomorrow evening at Lester Park pavilion a farewell party will be given in honor of Prof. Alfred Nelson, of the Weber state academy faculty, who leaves in June on a mission to Scandinavia.

A LARGE NUMBER OF OGDEN PEOPLE

went to Salt Lake City last evening to see Maud Adams in the "Little Minister." James Baker was arrested on a charge of stealing a pair of pants from a second hand store.

ANNUAL REUNION OF B. Y. U. ALUMNI

Oration by Senator Smoot—Touching Original Poem from Pen of Miss Aretta Young.

BUSINESS MEETING—BANQUET.

Wedding of David Kinnear and Helen B. Bell—Garden City News

Special Correspondence.

Provo, May 25.—The thirteenth annual reunion of the Brigham Young University association, held yesterday in this city was well attended by members of the association, and many friends were present at the opening meeting given in College hall in the forenoon. The stage was beautifully decorated with cut and potted plants and flowers draped with the university colors, white and blue. On it were seated, in addition to officers of the association and members of the university, board and faculty, Senator Reed Smoot, President Smart of Wasatch state, President Chapman of Alpine state, and other prominent visitors. President J. R. Murdock presided, and in his address urged the members to become proficient in some special line of work. He congratulated the association on the advance of the Brigham Young University, and in this connection called attention to the need of additional teachers and buildings, and encouraged the members to be liberal in assisting the university, to the end that it might bring increased blessings to those in quest of education. Mrs. Tenie S. Taylor, one of the first officers of the alumni, whose husband occurred a short time ago, was remembered by an appropriate reference to her labors by President Murdock.

Prof. A. C. Lund rendered a baritone solo in his usual able manner. Miss Miriam Nelke read the following poem composed for the occasion by Miss Aretta Young:

Alumni day—the B. Y. U.
You've heard, and it is true,
That she has changed her darling name,
And sing the old song new.
What e'er her name, she is the same—
"I'll bear the echoes that
Up the fragrant breath of spring,
Sweet echoes from the past.

A bell you hear, 'tis very queer,
And yet, it is the same;
How oft it seemed in those dear days
To echo pure and true.
It calls them now, you know not how,
But sure you hear it ring.
For those who seek of Father, Todd,
For Sutherland and King.

It rings for Talmage and for Smoot,
For Robinson and Snow;
For Brimhall, Hinckley and for Lund,
For Bradley, that old key.
For Murdock, Nelson, and for all
Within the old days dear.
For those who greet, for those who mourn,
For those who come not here.

It rings a name—there is no blame—
Your lips will not repeat;
Oh, let it be where none may see,
To echo pure and true.
The hope of years, the fate of fears
Is folded in an hour.
A fancy ring, a memory sings
A song of world-worn things.

How soft and low the echoes blow,
From oft Time's distant shore,
Alluring all within her call.
The earth and sky are hushed,
The days of youth, when you forsook,
You'll seek the distant light.
That east its rays upon your path,
And made your future bright.

Ah! hark! Oh, hear! the music's near
His echoes grow greater—
Now soft and sweet, now loud and clear,
Dear names it brings, dear names it sings
Into a silvery chime.
And with you, upon the rolls,
Defiance flings at time.

A voice you hear—'tis very near—
From out the long ago;
For twenty years within your heart,
The earth and sky are hushed,
The voice you loved of him beloved,
He sleeps the sleep of death.
His voice is on your breath.

Good cheer, dear hearts, 'tis he imparts
A blessing for your lives;
He shows the faith by which to fight,
And grants the joy to come.
You oft may hear his voice.

"Senator Reed Smoot, who delivered the oration, took for his subject 'Joy.' He was of the opinion that he, with others, had not secured the portion of life's joys that was intended for him, because he had neglected to cultivate this attribute. Joy was defined as doing well the work God intended us to do; the eternal aim of nature was joy; obedience to physical, intellectual and moral laws was set forth as the one thing necessary to obtain joy, and the beauty of home life was eloquently portrayed. Right living and right doing, he said, were the keys to the treasure of joy, and the failure to realize it was occasioned by spiritual, moral, mental or physical disease or imperfect development.

Frederic Pietsch rendered a cornet solo, accompanied by the orchestra. President George H. Brimhall addressed the audience, referring to the oration of Senator Smoot, said that he was glad to see the students of the university, and that he was glad to see the students of the university, and that he was glad to see the students of the university.

The tree of life of each has thorns, fruits and flowers, and it rests with each which he shall gather. Dr. Maeser used to say, 'Lend your troubles to the schoolroom, when you go home at night, and take the joys of the day with you.' Now faces appeared before the speaker, referring to the old days of the academy, but the same spirit is here, in quality not changed, but in quantity increased. The speaker had ever felt, since his acquaintance with Karl G. Maeser and Abraham O. Smoot, that one of the great things he could do for the young men was to get him to live according to the spirit of the Brigham Young university, and he never feared to tell a man the needs of the Brigham Young university because if he responded to them he would be happier and his life more lovable from the act. 'The alumni were eloquently addressed by Senator Reed Smoot, who said that it might remain a great and lasting honor to its founder and to those who had labored so faithfully for its establishment.

Prof. A. C. Lund, in the absence of Willard Andelin, who was on the program for a song, rendered a piano solo, Miss Miriam Nelke gave an interesting reading from 'The Little Minister' in her usual artistic manner. Benediction was pronounced by O. W. Andelin.

BUSINESS MEETING.

After the general meeting a business meeting was held in which Senator Smoot, Chairman of the Maeser Memorial committee, made a report on the building previously contemplated to be erected by the alumni as a memorial to Dr. Karl G. Maeser, was not in the opinion of the committee, such a building should be erected as a memorial building, nor were the grounds, now vacant on the academy block, suitable for the building. The report was accepted and the committee authorized to continue its labors with a view to determining upon a suitable building site.

The revision of the by-laws was referred to a committee consisting of the officers to be elected and Professor E. S. Hinckley, J. B. Keeler and W. S. Rawlings.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: A. C. Lund, president; J. M. Brown, first vice president; Mrs. Annie Gillette, second vice president; Susan Taylor, secretary; Geo. C. Laney, treasurer. Executive committee, W. P. Ward and Mrs. Hannah Stubbs Jones.

THE BANQUET.

A fine banquet was served at three o'clock at the Hotel Roberts. Prof. A. C. Lund presided, and in his address urged the members to be liberal in assisting the university, to the end that it might bring increased blessings to those in quest of education. Mrs. Tenie S. Taylor, one of the first officers of the alumni, whose husband occurred a short time ago, was remembered by an appropriate reference to her labors by President Murdock.

"Those First Days," Augusta Winter, "Daisy Story," Prof. A. C. Lund, "At the Warehouse," Pres. Geo. Christensen, "Poem," Miss Annie Pike, "Reminiscences," J. B. Keeler, "Thurman," Short speeches were also made by Senator Smoot and others.

BELL-KINNEAR WEDDING.

A marriage license has been issued to David Kinnear, 42, of Provo, and Helen B. Bell, 34, of Castle Gate.

GARDEN CITY NOTES.

The Utah county baseball league, which is being organized, will consist of the Provo, American Fork, Spanish Fork and Payson teams.

The Provo Commercial club excursion committee, consisting of C. W. Barnes, G. A. Cluff and Hy Jensen, is at work to secure the state militia encampment for Provo again this year.

John C. Graham received an invitation from Miss Adams to attend the conference of the World dancing excursion, Good music and dancing in the famous Apollo hall, the finest spring floor pavilion in the west.

Miss Nelke and Prof. Lund, assisted by a number of their students, will give an entertainment in the opera house this evening.

C. O. Merrill has returned from Marysville. He reports quite an exciting time in that city, where he has discovered gold mines near Monroe.

William T. Sherman, Post No. 6, G. A. R., will conduct memorial services in Springfield this year.

An apple seedling apple company, to be known as the Idaho Seedling Apple company, will be organized here by Mr. Schese. The company will have a capital of $7,500, and the orchard will be owned by the Grand Junction company. It will supply Idaho with seedling apple trees, and its orchard will probably be located somewhere in that region.

The Sparks Drug company will occupy the Loose building, now nearly completed, on Center street, between Academy avenue and First West street, building and Adams will open a grocery store in the building to be vacated by the Sparks company.

Saves Two From Death.

"Our little daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and bronchitis," writes Mrs. W. K. Haviland, of Armonk, N. Y., "but when all other remedies failed, we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Our niece, who had Consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and today she is perfectly well." Desperate throat and lung diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as no other medicine on earth. Infallible for Croup and Colds. 50c and $1.00 bottles guaranteed by Z. C. M. I. Drug Store.
