I deeply regret that business engagements of importance to me require my presence here during your conference, Please enroll me amongst those who will strive at our national capital and elsewhere for irrigation of our arid lands. Already settlers have homesteads and occupy these portions of public domain which are tillable, and If the great West is to continue to grow in population and wealth, the arid sections must be irrigated. So many ef-forts have been made at Washington to induce Congress to make appropria-tions that I almost despair of assistance from that direction, unless it be way of appropriation of arid lands to states in which they are located, with requirement that such lands be made roductive of agriculture or grazing by irrigation within a given number of years. I believe that if we work to-gether to this end we will achieve our object. Comparatively few men Congress represent states in which are arid lands, and even those directly which interested, have been unable to agree upon a plan or plans for action by the federal government. A large majority of Congress are naturally indifferent. If the lands are turned over to the states in which they are located, each state will proceed upon lines best adapted to its own conditions. I will them in adjacent towns.
