LOCAL BRIEFS.

The foundation to the Elks' clubhouse on State street is being put in.

Superintendent Whipple, of the county infirmary, has been notified by the county commissioners that she will be relieved from duty on March 10th. Her successor has not been named.

Mary A. E. Lyon, died yesterday afternoon. The twin sister to the infant died a few months ago. The sorely afflicted parents have the sympathy of the community.

Today the full flow of water in Parley's canyon was turned into the city's conduit and canal, the season in which Parley's Canyon Ice company is entitled to two-thirds of the water has expired with February, until November 10 next.

Much to the surprise of their parents and friends the marriage of Miss Louise Perkins and John H. Williams has been announced. The ceremony was a surprising element in the affair that the ceremony took place on August 23rd last.

Sheriff Naylor's office yesterday recovered a stolen horse and buggy belonging to Matthew Andrews, who notified the sheriff that the outfit had been taken from the Redwood road, over the river, last Tuesday. Sheriff Naylor traced the matter through Salt Lake and on to Ogden, where he obtained the officers, however, and hot on his trail and expect to capture the man soon.

Articles of incorporation of Rieger and Lindley, a new company, was today filed with the county clerk. The object of the new corporation is to deal in general merchandise within this State and elsewhere, with its general office in this city. The capital stock is placed at $50,000, which is divided into 10,000 shares at $5 each. Fred J. Rieger is president of the company, and owns 4,999 shares of the stock. Fred J. Rieger is vice president and owns 2,499 shares; Charles H. Lindley is secretary and treasurer, owning 2,499 shares, and three with John Burleigh and T. J. Nelson, each with two shares, form the board of directors.

The month of February just passed has been remarkable for the protracted precipitation during its period, only eight days on which neither snow nor rain fell. The precipitation for the twenty-eight days amounted to 1.77 inch, the normal being 1.23 inch, or .49 inch above the normal. Since January 1st the rainfall has been exactly normal, or .273 inches. The snowfall amounted to 11.2 inches, one inch above the normal. In 1898 no snow fell in February, but in 1899 the snowfall amounted to 22 inches, the heaviest February precipitation on record. There was an excess of 59 degrees temperature for the month, with an excess since January 1st of 233 degrees.

Rumor has it that the county commissioners are averse to granting bonds of the street car companies operating in this city a franchise on Seventh East street to Calder's park, and as the Rapid Transit company already has a road on that street south of Thirteenth South, the chances are that the Salt Lake line may have difficulty in securing what it desires. The reason for this state of things is, that the streets below Ninth South are only four rods wide, and consequently are not capable of accommodating two street car lines. The commissioners, it is said, favor granting the Salt Lake people a franchise on each other street to enable them to reach Calder's park. The matter will doubtless come up for settlement at next Monday's meeting.

DEBATED WILL CASE.

Old Controversy Being Aired Before Judge Stewart Today.

Yesterday afternoon the trial of the case of John Johnson, by his guardian ad litem, W. F. Gunter, vs. Emma Johnson, was commenced before Judge Stewart.

The plaintiff is the son of Peter Johnson, deceased, late of West Jordan, and issues involved in the suit are, it is alleged, still without execution of a deed covering thirty-nine acres of land by Peter Johnson to his wife just before his death.

The plaintiff claims that while the deceased was in the death bed, and weak in body and mind, the defendant, Mrs. Johnson, through undue influence, persuaded him to sign the deed in question, conveying all of the property referred to, to her, thus leaving her with nothing for her own share, and the only heirs of Mr. Johnson, thus entitling the boy plaintiff to one-half of the land.

Mrs. Johnson alleges by way of defense that the deceased was sane and of sound mind, and that she, Mrs. Johnson, kept the deed after it was made out, and threatened to rob her of the property, or would burn the deed, only delivering it to her after suit being brought for its return.

The plaintiff and Edward Sorenson, the latter a 16-year-old son of the defendant by a former marriage, testified that the deceased had sent for Schulson and requested him to make out the deed, conveying the property to Mrs. Johnson; that he told them he wanted to "put everything in their mother's name," and witnesses said they thought this action on the part of the father was all right. They further said their father told Schulson to take the document to the recorder's office and have it recorded.

The boys live with their mother, and their testimony was quite favorable to the defendant.

There is much bad feeling existing between Schulson and Mrs. Johnson. The latter recently filed a suit against him, claiming $20,000 for slander. It is alleged he made disparaging statements concerning her character. Mrs. Johnson's husband was not the father of her child, and that she had poisoned both of her former husbands.

For Incurability.

Ellen Andrews, charged with incurability, was this forenoon committed to the State industrial school at Ogden, by Judge Stewart. Mrs. Emma Andrews, mother of Ellen, Vansell, and another lady neighbor, testified that the girl ran away from home on last Thursday day, remaining away ever since; that her mother couldn't manage her while at home, and thought it would be to the girl's welfare to have her sent to the reform school. The girl is about fourteen years of age, and appears inclined to be rather reckless.

An Unsavory Case.

The trial of Tillie Williams, the notorious Commercial street woman, charged with stealing $75 from Ah Sing, a Chinaman living on Plum Alley, was commenced before Judge Stewart this afternoon.

The woman was arrested for the offense about January 13, 1901, and since that time has been in the county jail awaiting trial. This part of the court room set apart for spectators contained a motley crowd during the course of the trial. About twenty Mongolians, friends of the victim of the theft, were in attendance, to testify in behalf of the prosecution. Quite a number of colored people of both sexes were likewise present.

Ah Sing was called as a witness, and testified as to how the Williams woman purloined his money, containing the sum of $75. The Chinaman said he was leaning over a faucet, turning off the water when the defendant quietly put her hand in his loose trouser's pocket and "swiped" the money.

Mrs. Ruth King, a full blooded Chinaperson, acted as interpreter, and showed great familiarity with both the English and Chinese languages. The case was still in progress of trial when the "News" report closed.

A Light Sentence.

Henry Salm, charged with assault with a deadly weapon to do bodily harm, was up before Judge Stewart today, and upon the charge being changed to the lesser offense of simple assault, the defendant pleaded guilty, and waiving time, was sentenced to three months imprisonment in the county jail.

The young man is only 19 years of age, and this being his first offense, the court felt disposed to give him a light sentence. The defendant has been in jail for about six weeks, awaiting trial.

WARD ENTERTAINMENTS.

The dance given in the Third ward last evening was very enjoyable and fair. Those whose efforts secured the success were the Messrs Margaret McKee, Bertha Irvine and Rebecca Kane, Messrs. Calvin Buckwater, Ferguson, Cooper, E. N. Stringfellow and James Ball.

The officers and teachers of the Twenty-first ward Sunday school were tendered a banquet at the meeting house last evening. The program was a delightful one consisting of music and recitations by the Messrs Emma McIntyre, Alice Tuddenham, Annie Owen, Messrs. W. R. Douglas, Emerson Young and Curtis Bird, string quartet. An address was made by R. Leo Bird. The program was supplemented with some delicious refreshments, and dancing.

The old time character ball in the Eighteenth ward this evening promises to be one of the rare ward functions of the season.

A Good Cough Medicine for Children.
I have no hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says F. P. Moran, a well-known and popular barber, of Petersburg, Va. "We have given it to our children when troubled with colds, whooping cough, and it has always given perfect satisfaction. It is recommended to me by a druggist as the best cough medicine for children. It contained no opium or other harmful drug."

Are you sick? If so, investigate the merits of HERBINE. It is a concentrated medicine, the dose is small, yet it quickly produces the most gratifying results, digestion improves, the lips and cheeks lose their pallor, the eye becomes bright and the step elastic. Price, 50 cents. Z. C. M. I. Drug Dept.

A powerful engine cannot be run with a weak boiler, and we can't keep up the strain of an active life with a weak stomach; neither can we stop the human machine to make repairs. If the stomach cannot digest enough food to keep the body strong, such a preparation as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure should be used. It digests what you eat and simply can't help but do you good. F. C. Schramm.

CASES OVERLOOKING RESCUING PARTY.

Expected That the Smouldering Fire Will be Reached Tonight and the Bodies Recovered by Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL TO THE "NEWS"]

Kemper, Wyo., March 1.—State Mine Inspector Noah Young this morning reports that the rescuing shift is now within 125 feet of the fire, which is still smouldering. He expects to reach the blaze by tonight and get the bodies out by tomorrow.

Gases are overcoming the men at every foot of advance gained. All is quiet and not a soul can be seen around the mine entrance.

SEARCHING FOR THE DEAD.

Work Goes On by Rescuing Party—Inquest Held—Sad Stories.

Diamondville, Feb. 28.—Late this afternoon Dr. Wicks of Evanston, acting as coroner, impaneled a jury comprised of residents of Diamondville, and together they viewed the remains of the dead miners who perished in the mine horror of Monday afternoon.

The proceedings were of an informal character, consisting of going through the formality of viewing the corpses and then adjourning subject to call upon the coroner to make a report. The bodies were brought out just when that will be at this time problematical as it is the opinion of the experienced miners here that it will be impossible to get at the bodies before Saturday night, and perhaps not even then.

It is a week or ten days before they can be reached, or it may be tomorrow morning, but it is barely possible under the most propitious circumstances that they will be secured for several days to come. Such is the opinion of Superintendent Thomas Sneddon, who knows more about coal mines and their perils than possibly any other man on the scene.

BROKE INTO NO. 6.

This afternoon the shift broke through the "stopping" into the No. 6 south entrance at a point within 400 feet of where the fire originated. Just what has been their success, or otherwise, it is impossible to state at this time. The men are working at a point situated over a mile from the main slope (entrance) and when once they go in they remain there. The men who are taking in bags of sand, lumber, bulks of timber and regular iron, to carry the air with them and drive the noxious gases ahead. This is done by building a partition down the center of the section in which they are working so that the air will come down the intake on one side of the partition, pass around the left space in front of the temporary stopping (bulkhead), as the sailor would call it) and be forced out on the other side of the partition on the back entry to eventually, after passing through the mine, be forced out of the air shaft. When the air has been purified and the smouldering coal smothered in sand a rush is made for some ten feet ahead and the air is then heads once more advanced, the partition being taken down and the fire smothered. It is during these rushes—those long moments after the "stopping" has been removed and rushed ahead—that the heroic workers are in dire peril.

None realize it more than these hardy miners and Superintendent Sneddon. They could sit calmly down and await the time when the fire will eventually die out for lack of air, but they are not built of that stuff. There are bodies lying about the mine, and they have to be recovered over that fire at all costs.

While there are willing hands and stout hearts to do this work, these bodies are going to be recovered what may. None of the men who made up that party has a comrade lying dead beyond that fire. None of the miners has exchanged half a dozen words with one of those foreigners who lives and work in them beyond the fact that they were men who died at their posts, even if it was on account of their own stupidity and panic. But they are working just as hard as they can, and they live as though the bodies of their nearest and dearest blood relations were lying still in death.

In the meantime the fellow countrymen of the dead miners are conspicuous by their absence. Those who are near the mine, "the men are dead, kismet, it is fate; let someone else get them out." This statement sounds over-drawn, but such are the sentiments of the foreign element in the camp. Four men died on the job of the former fire in the mine, 28 months ago, some of them did act as heroes, there were just three of them.

After the four men had been given their time, one of the miners told a story of a Colorado mine horror in which he had participated. The dead of the mine and a delegation proceeded to his humble cabin to ask the widow whether they should bring the body home.

"What good is a dead husband to me?" came the response. "You killed him, bury him as best you can."

This story was followed by others equally as morbid.

The Diamondville English speaking miners have no abiding use for the foreigners, who, when in trouble, dumbly leave their solution to the Americans and do not stir a finger to help. If the English did not on the occasion of the former fire in the mine, 28 months ago, some of them did act as heroes, there were just three of them.

man behind him, who had held up of his belt in the darkness, a mild thump as a gentle hint to save his mind. In this manner on through the black tunnels these men went in single file. At stated intervals they would be down to get the freshest air, for carbonic oxide gas is light and rises to the top of the tunnel. Then they would rise again and stumble on in the darkness until their nostrils encountered the blessed fresh air and they were safe.

Recent experiments show that all classes of foods may be completely digested by a preparation called Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which absolutely digests what you eat. As it is the only combination of all the natural digestive powers ever devised, the demand for it has become enormous. It has never failed to cure the very worst cases of indigestion and it always gives instant relief.
