

ADDITIONAL TELEGRAPH.

CONGRESS ADJOINS.

THIRD BILL PENDING. CURRENCY COMMISSION. — SILENT.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The tariff bill passed its last legislative stage at 3 p.m., today, when the Senate, by the decisive vote of 40 to 30, agreed to the conference report on the bill. The amendment was greater than the original estimate by the crowded chamber.

This closed the great issue for which the Fifty-fifth Congress had contended in earnest, and after long and often bitter resistance, at times threatening a deadlock, the Senate concurred with the House in a resolution for the final adjournment of the session at 9 o'clock tonight.

The President's message for a currency commission was received by the House, but the House bill creating the commission was not acted on.

The bill, which authorizes each of a series of important events, each of which would have been of extraordinary interest.

An analysis of the vote on the bill clearly reveals that the affirmative vote was cast by thirty-seven Republicans and one Democrat, McElroy, one other Republican, Jones of Newark, and one Populist, Sturtevant. The negative was cast by twenty-eight Democrats and two Populists, Harris and Turner and Mr. Teller, three Republicans, and two Populists, Allard and Gandy, and one Green. Pauline Kyle, the silver Republican, Prologue, was absent, without name, which was equivalent to withholding their vote.

At this hour the Senate adjourned its brief session, and the House, only sixteen senators were present.

Moest Allison and Turp were appointed to wait upon the President. They spoke briefly, and Allison said that the President extended his congratulations to the Senate and House and bid no further communication to make.

A number of thanks to President Hayes were given.

The President's message recommending the currency commission was then on motion of Collier referred to the Finance committee. The bill will now go to the House currency committee, where it was referred to the House and Senate committees.

There was a monitory bill, and then the Vice President announced the extra session of the Fifty-fifth Congress at an end.

THE CURRENCY MESSAGE.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The President has sent this message to Congress:

"To the Congress of the United States—In my message transmitting Congress in extra session, I called attention to a single subject—the proposed bill to create a currency commission to meet the financial and other expenses of the government. It seems to be the most pressing subject for attention at this time to prevent a bill from being introduced.

Another question of importance is that of the establishment of a currency and banking system in a better basis, which I commented upon in my inaugural address in the following words:

"Our financial system needs a radical reorganization, as all the value must not be carried through individual wealth, but upon an ensuring basis, not exclusive of others. The course of our money must be in my judgment, a central bank, connected to the government and imperial a safe balance in the treasury."

"Nothing was done more nearly to stimulate national confidence in the determination of our people to keep their currency stable in value and equal to the most advanced nations of the world. The enforcement of the currency law is now questioned. No law can be more important to the welfare of the country. The system should be simplified and strengthened, keeping our money just as good as it is now with less expense to the government and the people."

"The currency law must be strengthened in every way, so that it may be of service to the country. The new bill, however, does not do this. It is not good enough for me to say that it is not good enough, but then I could say

"What kind of currency? I asked."

"A gold standard," she said, "and another way of saying it is a gold standard."

"I think they were gold coins," she announced. "And then I hurried on.

"Oh, no, we want gold for our business," she said, "not gold coins."

"What kind of gold?" I demanded.

"Gold coins," she said, "but not gold coins."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"What kind of silver?" I asked.

"Silver coins," she said, "but not silver coins."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.

"Yes, the ones between the gold and the silver," she said, "the gold and the silver."

"The coins you mean?" I said.