IMPORTANT TO THE TRAVELING PUBLIC.

It is the duty of all persons before starting on a journey to ascertain by what route they can reach their destination with the least trouble, and if there are two or more roads leading to the same point, to decide which is the safest and most pleasant to travel.

We take pleasure in stating, that the CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY is the oldest, and several miles the shortest, route between Omaha and Chicago. Within the past two years the road bed has been put in admirable condition, and almost the entire line has been re-laid with steel rails.

The Depot in Chicago is centrally located, and as the trains arrive there thirty minutes in advance of all other lines, passengers can always be sure of making Eastern connections.

Close connections are made at Chicago with the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, Michigan Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago, Kanakake, Line and Pan Handle Routes, for all points EAST and SOUTH-EAST.

If you are going to Chicago, or East, you should, by all means, purchase your tickets by the Old Pioneer Route.

The Chicago and North-Western Railway will find on all through trains Pullman coaches, new and magnificent Day Coaches, and the best Smoking and Second Class Cars now on any road in the United States.

Particular information, with maps, time tables, etc., may be had at any of the Through Ticket Offices in the West, or upon personal or written application to J. W. Jones, Ticket Agent, Salt Lake City.

Sudden Death of Heart Disease.

How common is the announcement: "Thousands are suddenly swept into eternity by this fatal malady. This disease generally has its origin in impure blood filled with irritating, poisonous materials, which, circulating through the heart, irritate its delicate tissues. Though the irritation may at first be only slight, producing a little palpitation or irregular action, or dull, heavy, or sharp darting pain, yet by and by the disease becomes firmly seated, and inflammation, or hypertrophy, or thickening of the lining membrane of the valves, is produced. How wise to give early attention to a case of this kind. Unnatural throbbing or pain in the region of the heart should admonish one that all is not right, and if you would preserve it from further disease, you must help it to beat right up to the time of such a remedy as will remove the cause of the trouble. Use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery before the disease has become too seated, and it will, by its great blood purifying and wonderful regulating properties, effect a perfect cure. It contains medicinal properties which not only speedily upon the tissues of the heart, bringing about a healthy action. Sold by all first-class druggists."

HEART DISEASE CURED. ROCKFORD, S. P. Ind., February 1st, 1874.

Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: About two years ago I was afflicted with a disease of the heart, which at times created a pressure around it, almost causing suffocation. I saw an advertisement of your Golden Medical Discovery, recommending the same as a cure for disease of the heart. I bought half a dozen bottles of it, and after using three bottles I was entirely relieved and am now enjoying good health.

Gratefully yours, VITUS KILLIAN.

If you are blue, weak and dumpy, go out for air and wash it is the more than whole bottles of medicine.

Grand Jury Empanelled.—In the Third District Court this morning in addition to the sixteen grand jurors obtained on Monday, three of the seven additional ones then drawn from the box answered to their names, as follows: Leopold Arnshtein, H. W. Despain and John W. Snell. The remaining four had not been served. The two first mentioned answered satisfactorily the questions of the District Attorney, but John W. Snell, owing to having conscientious scruples against finding indictments against parties charged with polygamy, was challenged and excused.

This made the jury number eighteen, as follows: James Lawson, Rinaldo Mowry, James Bond, Frank Hyde, Louis Hayes, Abraham Cook, Thomas Latimer, Martin K. Harkness, Alexander Mallory, Gleason H. C. Gibbs, Joseph Weir, John McDonald, Samuel Russell, Luman A. Ensign, W. W. Chisholm, James G. Bryant, Leopold Arnshtein, H. W. Despain.

The District Attorney stated to the Court that as the inside limit, according to the statute, for the number of grand jury was sixteen and it is outside twenty-three, as about thirty had already been drawn, and eighteen obtained, he moved for the empanelment of the latter number, without asking for any additional drawing.

The eighteen gentlemen composing the grand jury were then ordered to stand upon their feet, when they were sworn by the clerk.

Judge McKean then charged them, in substance, as follows: He did not intend occupying much of their time, intending to say but little, and that in a general way, without entering into details. In the administration of justice, under the law, the machinery used and the mode of procedure were different. Parties deeming themselves aggrieved in the matter of character or property could obtain redress by entering suit, and carrying it to a final issue without the intervention of a grand jury. When a crime had been committed, a wrong perpetrated upon society, upon the nation, state or territory, the party charged with its commission could not be placed on trial for his life or liberty until the charges had first been investigated by a grand jury, acting for the people. It was not the duty of a grand jury to examine witnesses and evidence favorable to the party charged, but on the part of the people, and when the jury was satisfied that the evidence was sufficient strong to cause them to believe that the person should be put on trial and have an opportunity of answering the charges before a petit jury, the grand jury should find indictments for any crime of which they thought him probably guilty.

It was the duty of the grand jury to inquire into crimes of every kind and grade, from murder to petit larceny. It was unnecessary for the Court to give details of the various crimes into which it was their duty to examine; when the evidence that crimes had been committed was brought before them, the District Attorney would inform them regarding the law, prescribing the character of various crimes. It was not necessary that the eighteen gentlemen should be unanimous in their conclusions, twelve of that number concurring on any matter before them being sufficient for the finding of indictments. When evidence was brought before them they could examine, discuss, and compare, and in this way form their conclusions.

Some months ago the Court delivered a charge to a grand jury. It had been prepared with deliberation, and he still held to the sentiments and principles embodied in it, and when the foreman of the jury he was now addressing was selected he would hand him a copy of that same charge.

No people could be happy, nor their lives, property or even posterity after them be safe where the laws were not enforced. No matter who it is that violated the law, he should be indicted by the grand jury, and if unable to explain away the charges before a petit jury, he should be punished as the law directs. When in cases there are mitigating circumstances it was for the Court to take them into consideration, and temper the punishment accordingly, so far as the law would admit; and where the clemency of the Court did not sufficiently extend, the pardon of the Governor could be interposed in cases of infractions of the Territorial laws and the pardon of the President of the United States in cases involving violations of the statutes of the United States.

The happiness of their fellow citizens depended much on the manner in which the grand jury performed their duty. Why waste that foreign capital was more readily invested in the western States and Territories than in Mexico? It was because, comparatively, there were better and more equitable laws and rigorously enforced in the former than the latter; but still there was room for improvement here; therefore let those who violated the laws suffer the consequences.

The Court then ordered that James G. Bryant be foreman of the grand jury for the March term of the Court, and the jury retired to their room, in charge of the bailiff, Captain Dennison.

Artistic.—Our enterprising townsman, Mr. C. R. Savage, and Mr. Alfred Lambourn, intend starting on a trip to Southern Utah to-morrow morning, both on professional business bent. Mr. Savage will add to his already excellent and extensive collection of views of Utah scenery by obtaining a number of new ones in the south, a part of the country which is constantly growing in interest, and likely to continue and increase in that direction. Mr. Lambourn will sketch some of the interesting scenes, with an eye to making future paintings of them.

The two will go to the end of the Utah Southern line by rail, and will do most of the remainder of their traveling by stage.

The Utah Pomologist and Gardener for February, comes to hand, full of entertaining and useful matter upon subjects of interest to every citizen. Here are some extracts:—

"Fruit buds are swelling and showing color of bloom. Almonds and apricots will be in bloom by the 25th, and peaches by the 1st of March."

"Gentle rains have fallen occasionally through the Winter, insomuch that wild plants, flowers and forage promise an abundance and early."

"Frost.—We are still having frosts every night, yet the weeping willows are coming out and the crocus, violet and some other flowers are showing bloom."

"Mezzquit Flat.—We are informed that a party of our citizens have been down and secured, by survey, the above body of land, which they expect soon to occupy by settlement. We are glad of this, for, if we are not mistaken, oranges, lemons, almonds and figs will flourish there."

"A Smelter Coming.—We learn that Mr. Williams has ordered a smelter for the Grand Gulch mines, and that he will soon start out to have all ready on the arrival of the machinery. Look sharp—there will be money afloat soon; who will be ready with the wherewith to get it?"

"A rich vein of copper, immensely rich and extensive, has been located by a fortunate company on the Fairview."

"Weather.—The range of mercury has been from 50 to 70 degrees in the shade since the 1st of February."

The News Weekly.—The Dispatch News Weekly for to-day, March 3, has sixteen pages and eighty columns of interesting reading.
