

CITY ORDINANCE AIMS AT TRANSFERS

Canvas of Members of Council

Indicate That It Will Pass Tonight.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLAR FINE.

Direct Flight on New Rule Regarding Issuing Slips to Passengers Opened
By Atty. P. J. Daly.

Be It ordained by the city council of Salt Lake City, Utah:

Section 1—That every person, firm or corporation operating or maintaining a street railway or tramway within Salt Lake City upon whose system transfer and commutation privileges have heretofore existed, shall upon payment of each passage, whether by cash or otherwise, issue to the person so paying at any time upon request before such person leaves the car, a transfer for each passage so paid.

Section 2—Any person or corporation violating the provisions of the above ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be liable to a fine in any sum not exceeding $100, for each violation thereof.

Section 3—This ordinance shall take effect upon approval.

Tomorrow afternoon Salt Lake citizens should see whether Salt Lake's city council has any power to police the Salt Lake street car system to the extent of doing away with the more rigorous portions of the present transfer rules, prohibiting passengers from receiving transfers after paying their fares to the conductor.

A direct fight on the transfer rules will be opened in the council tonight, and a canvas of city councilmen this morning suggests that an ordinance drawn up by Asst. City Atty. P. J. Daly and reproduced above will pass almost unanimously, and with a good deal of emphasis. In expressing their opinions councilmen who use profanity to back up strong feeling used it at will, while those caring for less vigorous terminology went as far as their practice would allow in declaring in favor of the new ordinance.

The public feeling characterizing the past few days has worked out into a definite movement to determine what the rights of passengers are.

DALY'S EXPLANATIONS.

"I have worked on this ordinance for two weeks," explained Asst. City Atty. Daly this morning, "and I believe it will fully fit the case. The franchise is peculiarly worded on the point of transfers, and it is the fact that the rights of the people were not completely asserted that has kept people from filing suits in favor of carrying on the street cars, and damages for the humiliating treatment accorded by them in extracting an extra fare."

CHANGING PRECEDENT.

"In studying similar problems elsewhere I find that formerly the whole precedent and tendency of the legal decisions was in favor of carrying companies. In more recent years, however, the pendulum is swinging back, until there are now recognized rights which the companies must preserve to the people and the right to have a transfer for a fare is one of these rights that cannot be quibbled away."

Mr. Daly's opinion of his ordinance is that it will not interfere with the present transfer rule in so far as it operates as a convenience and not to deprive passengers from getting their transfers if not immediately demanded.

NO "RULE DAY" JUNE 1.

Federal Court Will Hold Sessions Each Monday Nevertheless.

Jury cases not yet being concluded, there will be no regular rule day next Monday in the federal courts. Sessions of court will be held, however, each Monday in the month, and all matters that may be "properly noticed" or are called up by agreement, will be heard.

BURLINGTON BUILT AGAIN

Construction of Two Mile Spur Cause Of Report This Time That
"Q" Is Coming.

The Burlington has been built into Salt Lake once more. This happens (on paper) about twice every year. It is now announced the Cheyenne-Fort D. A. Russell spur is to have two long extensions, one towards the north-west and the other towards Salt Lake. While everyone knows the Burlington is a dead end, no one seems to care for having the road built into the city during the night. The plan is now to run a spur from Cheyenne to Fort D. A. Russell, Wyoming. Cheyenne will be the junction point of one line to the immense undeveloped area to the north and the line across Utah territory and the rich area on this side. The very thing which started the Salt Lake story this time is the thing which spoils the story. The building of a spur from Cheyenne to Fort D. A. Russell is this time. It is explained by the newspaper-railroad builders that this spur is to have two long extensions. Seeing that Fort D. A. Russell is but two miles out of Cheyenne, most any extension would be long for this poor little spur. The Burlington has been built in from Cody, from Thermopolis and from other Burlington points in Wyoming. The Cheyenne extension was the only one left.

Seriously, a line from Cheyenne to Salt Lake would be one through miles of rich country. The Burlington wants to come to Salt Lake and Salt Lake wants the Burlington to come, but he who starts to fast until this double desire is fulfilled will be starved long before the final survey is made.

ALLEN THIEF'S VICTIM.

John A. Allen of 330 south State street, reported to the police this morning that some time last night a thief entered his place and stole a valuable Japanese vase and a pair of shoes. The police are trying to locate the property.

SOLD FOR TAXES.

Many Pieces of Real Estate Bid In by County at Auction.

County Clerk J. U. Eldredge, Jr., this morning offered for sale at the front door of the county courthouse about 100 pieces of real estate within the borders of the county on which taxes had not been paid. The sale was authorized by the county commissioners and was to have been by auction, but no bidders appeared and the sale property was bid in by the county for the amount of taxes due.

Mr. Eldredge says that anyone wishing to purchase this property, subject to the conditions of redemption, may do so by applying to the county assessor and paying the amount of the taxes and interest due.

Domestic Arts Exhibit Feature of Commencement.

One of the most convincing arguments for the introduction of domestic arts into our high schools is found in the large and splendid exhibition of needlework, plain and decorative, at the Lion House. The work is by students of the L. D. S. university. One room abounds in skirts, waists, and dresses, of all descriptions, all done by second year students. This year about 50 girls have taken this course, and as a result there are on exhibition 60 odd dresses, 150 waists, and between 60 and 70 undershirts. The department has been in the charge of Miss Barton. In another room, is a collection of articles made by first and third year students. These represent work from the most elementary, such as the back stitch, hemming, and patching, to the most artistic fancy work. Here is really a revelation of skill and beauty in decorative needlework. Recently Mrs. Widsoe brought back with her from Norway a celebrated handkerchief centerpiece, which she left at the domestic arts department for a model and which the students reproduced. This department is under Mrs. Ludeman, whose motto is hung about the room:

"Not how much, but how well done."

The hall of the Lion House is festooned with lines of art work, representing Mr. Fairbank's department. This has all been done by first year classes, of which there have been three sections. The character of the work done may be judged by the fact that there are on exhibit specimens from every student—about 125 pupils in all—representing illustrative drawing, charcoal drawing, rules of perspective, pencil, pen, water colors, and designing. All this is open to the public free of charge, together with the relic room, in which are numerous articles of historic value.

Last Saturday evening any one who might be passing the Lion House could not fail to hear those historic old halls resounding to junior and senior class songs. The occasion was the banquet which the juniors were giving to the seniors. All the members of both classes were present, together with Principal Christensen, Prof. Evans, and Mrs. Card. Speeches and songs were given during the banquet. The menu was: Fruit cocktail, banana salad, olives, croquette, bread and butter, and lemonade ice cream and cake and candy.

This evening the school will turn out to hear "Baccaccio" at the Salt Lake Theater. The program for the night the seniors at Barratt hall.

SLOCUM GETS THREE YEARS

R. A. Slocum, alias J. W. Bruce, was this morning sentenced by Judge Armstrong to serve three years in the state penitentiary at hard labor, for the crime of forgery, on one count, and of uttering a forged instrument on another count. Slocum forged a check for $400 on April 13, signing the name of G. A. Smith, superintendent, to the check and cashing it at the National Bank of the Republic. He secured the endorsement of J. E. Lewis to the check, and on his signature, the bank cashed the check. Slocum was at the time employed on the Judge building, where Mr. Smith was superintendent of construction. Smith carried an account at the National Bank of the Republic, and the check was not difficult to pass. Slocum signed his assumed name to the check, that of J. W. Bruce. He pleaded guilty to the charge and was given three years.

TO PLEAD WEDNESDAY.

Gust Duros and Gust Fontaines were arraigned before Judge Armstrong this morning, charged with robbery. They took until May 27 to plead. The two men are charged in the information with holding up and robbing Jacob Ringholz of $2 in cash and a $50 watch, on the night of May 12.

Joe Porter, charged with second degree burglary for the entering of room 65 of the Hercules, rooming house on April 20, said room belonging to him and containing goods belonging to Ross Jenkins and Joe Wilkinson, was arraigned and entered a plea of not guilty.

SUES ON CHECKS.

Gus Ling Brings Action to Recover
$535 from R. W. Sloan.

Gus Ling has filed suit in the Third district court against R. W. Sloan, to recover $535 alleged to be due on two checks made out by defendant to Theo. Nicholas and cashed by plaintiff on April 24 of the present year. Ling asserts that on the following day, April 25, he presented the checks named to the Utah Savings & Trust company, upon which Sloan had issued them, and the bank refused to cash them. He further asserts that he has made demand both verbally and in writing on defendant for the amount of the checks, and that defendant promised to pay him but has not done so, therefore he brings suit to recover the amount of the checks, $535, and costs of suit.

TO PUNISH DEMMING.

County Attorney Will Endeavor to Lengthen Term of Imprisonment.

Complaints will be issued from the office of the county attorney against Richard Demming, now serving a ten year term for his part in the hold up of the Albany saloon at the time of the killing of Officer Charles Ford on the night of Dec. 13, 1907, and who in company with Joe Sullivan set upon and beat Nick Preussing upon his arrival at the state penitentiary. Saturday, County Attorney Hanson says he will issue at least two complaints against Demming, one of which will charge him with attempting to break out of the county jail. He will also be charged with perjury in connection with the trial of Joe Sullivan for the murder of Officer Ford. Demming escaped from the hospital in his night robes when he was supposed to be unconscious and was captured at Baker City, Oregon, and brought back for trial. During the Sullivan trial Demming testified that the officers told him if he would get Sullivan out of the county jail, he, Demming would be given his freedom.

REFEREES IN BANKRUPTCY.

Elmer E. Corfman, Utah county, Charles Baldwin, Salt Lake county; J. M. Leavelle, Sevier county, and George Christensen of Sanpete county, have been appointed referees in bankruptcy. They will have offices at the state court building, and will act for two years from May 25. Bonds of $500 in each instance were filed. Judge Marshall signed the appointments, the idea being to distribute the offices of bankruptcy referees as conveniently as possible throughout the state.

DEATH OF MRS. OSTLER.

Well Known Utah Woman Succumbs
After Illness of Long Standing.

The many friends of Mrs. Henrietta Richards Ostler, wife of Oliver R. Ostler, of 720 north Second West street, this city, were pained to learn of her untimely death, which occurred at the residence yesterday morning.

Mrs. Ostler, daughter of Henry P. Richards and Minerva Empey Richards, who are among the oldest and most respected residents of this city, Mrs. Ostler was born June 11, 1854, in the Fifteenth ward of this city.

Mrs. Ostler was a member of the Salt Lake and Ogden or Ogden Short Lane in a few minutes' ride from this city. The range has been laid out for all ranges up to 600 yards. The targets are placed in front of natural obstructions, a low line of sand hills, and the ranges face in a direction that gives an ideal light upon them at any time after 9 o'clock in the morning. The slope from the marksmen to the targets is gradual and not severe and the range, though not going back to what are termed the extreme distances, is the best ever afforded guardsmen.

BIG MATCH IN VIEW.

Interest is keen in target work this year, for soon after conclusion of the annual encampment to be held in Wyoming this year, a team of 18 men, the best marksmen in the national guard, will be selected to go to Camp Perry, O., to take part in the national rifle match in competition with picked teams from the army, navy, national guards of other states, semi-military organizations and clubs from many parts of the United States. Handsome trophies are offered and the Utah team, though competing for the first time in these matches, feel confident of giving a good account of itself. Particularly in the outside districts there are many marksmen of ability and in this city there are several experts who will make good use of the opportunity to represent the team to attend the great match.

GO TO MANEUVER CAMP.

During the past week many other items of importance have been announced in connection with National Guard affairs. The definite announcement that the state troops will participate in the great maneuver camp at Fort L. A. Russell, Wyo., was received by the Utah National Guard. The Utah National Guard in Wyoming, while greatly benefited from a military standpoint, was admitted to have been a rather severe undertaking for the men. It was the intention of the state soldiers from this city to the Wyoming camp ground and back that taught the officers of the guard much in the matter of transportation. The soldiers learned very probably learned at the cost of much ill feeling among the men. However, when conditions became better known, the soldiers learned that the most concerning affairs explained to them, this dissatisfaction was overcome and instead of dreading the camp this year it is looked forward to with much interest. The announcement of the camp has come two months ahead of time. This insures ample time for preparation. The last camp was announced only three weeks before time for departure. This, it is seen, is a great improvement.

MAN WANTED SOMETHING.

She claimed that she had ordered the man out of the place for non-payment of rent and was holding his trunk until a statement was made. She claimed that Brown entered the place for the purpose of stealing. No arrests were made.

FIRE IN APARTMENT HOUSE.

There was a $25 fire at an apartment house, owned by Mrs. John James, 47 Center street, this morning, caused by defective wiring. The blaze was confined to the apartments occupied by E. R. Smith and before the fire was extinguished by the fire department, had damaged the building to the extent of $150 and the contents of the apartments. The contents are both covered by insurance.

SHEPHERD ROBBED.

A sheep herder giving the name of Nicholas Wade, reported to the police this morning that last midnight he was held up by three men on First South and Commercial street and robbed of $21 in cash, a pair of field glasses, a silver watch, a knife and a silverline watch. When he reported the alleged hold-up, Wade was under the influence of liquor and talked in a rather rambling manner. He stated that he would go out, get a new set of teeth and then return and tell his story. The police are rather in doubt as to the accuracy of Wade's statement.

NATIONAL GUARD ON TARGET RANGE

For First Time in Utah, Militiamen Will Practise On State Ground.

INTEREST IN ENCAMPMENT.

Assurances That Unpleasant Incidents
Will be Avoided is Received as Pleasing News.

For the first time in the history of the state, a rifle range leased by the state is being used for the development of marksmen in the National Guard of Utah. Heretofore the target butts and range at Fort Douglas have been used on Sundays by the guardsmen and this was quite a drawback to the production of efficient marksmen, one day each week being the only opportunity afforded for practice, and during every other day of the week for the guardsmen to practise on other days.

Adj. Gen. Wedgewood, Maj. Williams and Lieut. Barratt of the national guard completed yesterday the preliminary work on the new range, which is located at the stockyards crossing and will be reached by the Salt Lake and Ogden or Ogden Short Lane in a few minutes' ride from this city. The range has been laid out for all ranges up to 600 yards. The targets are placed in front of natural obstructions, a low line of sand hills, and the ranges face in a direction that gives an ideal light upon them at any time after 9 o'clock in the morning. The slope from the marksmen to the targets is gradual and not severe and the range, though not going back to what are termed the extreme distances, is the best ever afforded guardsmen.

SOME VERY ODD RULES.

Transfer Regulations Work Hardship
On Workmen in Changing Cars.

Editor Deseret News:

Salt Lake City, May 25, 1908.—There seems to be considerable dissatisfaction with the peculiarities of the rules of the street car company relating to transfers. I wish to call attention to a rule recently enforced requiring transfers to be made at special points. For instance, if a party coming up State street wishes to take a car west of Main street, he must go north as far as First or Second street, before he can transfer to the westbound car. This works a hardship to many of the men working at the shops on the west side of the city. The company, but a few days ago, had a rule that a man could take a car at Seventh street, walk two blocks and take the Poplar Grove car, all within their transfer time and to do this the company had to pay a fine of from 15 to 20 minutes in their journey besides which the company now haul them 10 to 12 blocks each time more than they had to when the transfer was allowed. The absurdity of such a rule is apparent from the mere statement of it. Friction may occur in all business and consequently trouble, but there is no need for any one to put up a hunt for trouble. In fact, I take it, and the people generally take it, that some one connected with the company has thought out a scheme by which to obtain for the company two fares for one ride. But employers of men ought to know that if they encourage them to rob the public, the employees are liable to make use of that schooling in robbing their employers, too.

DIFFERENT FROM OTHERS.

The camp will be different from the others, in that all troops participating will rendezvous at the same time, several thousand men being thrown together for the first time. The National Guardsmen will be drilled with regular troops and the willing citizen soldier will be given an opportunity to learn tricks from his professional brothers in the regular military. The infantry companies of the militia will be maneuvered with regular infantry, the batteries of guardsmen with regular artillerymen, cavalry with regular cavalry and so down the line. There will be engineer troops on the ground to construct bridges, wagon roads and do other engineering just as if actual war were in progress in the peaceful Crow Creek forest reserve, a spot naturally ideal for maneuvers. The only thing to be desired in the war is a large body of water, but all other conditions which might be met in actual conflict are found within the monster reserve. There are mountains of great height, forests, plains, picturesque valleys, canyons and well drained ground for bivouac—everything that might be desired for a camp ground. The water found in the excellent quality and its source pure mountain springs, the water flowing through channels where pollution is almost impossible. A major general of the regular army and its command war of the regular encampment and it is expected that upwards of 10,000 men will be brought together for the instruction.

SCHOOL FOR SIGNALISTS.

One of the interesting features of the camp will be a school for members of the signal corps. Three companies of 150 men each of regular signal corps are to be at the camp and the signal troops of the militia are to be thrown in with these troops in small classes for instruction in the use of late signal appliances. During the camp, actual practice in signaling at night with lanterns, flares, rockets, searchlights, long range lanterns and other means will be given. Army balloons will be in use, long dispatch, telephone and buzzer lines operated and the signalists of the militia taught in detail the professional work of transmitting intelligence rapidly under conditions of actual war. This work is recognized as being of great importance to an army and an effort will be made to bring the militiamen up to a high standard in this work. The instruction will be given by the regular signal corps and will be continued in the organization last week.

VICTIM OF AN OPTICIAN.

Kersey H. Nowler Says He Was "Treated" by "Fake Spectacle Fitter."

Salt Lake City, May 22, 1908.

In looking over the "News" of the 21, I saw an article about fake opticians written by W. C. Brown. I would like to say a word on the subject, because I am one who has been taken by this same W. C. Brown, who has been writing about some one else doing the fake business and by the way he writes, I would judge that he is a competent man, and understands his business, because we know the trustees of the schools and also the teachers are too shrewd and wide awake to allow a man to test the students eyes unless he had passed the examination and was entitled to practice. Since I got my glasses from the would-be Dr. Brown, I have learned that he cannot pass the glasses he sold me, therefore is not a reliable man to do business with, which I have learned to my sorrow for the glasses he sold me were worthless. I do not know the man he refers to, but all people having work of this kind done, should demand to see the certificate which the state board gives to all who pass the examination, and if they cannot produce it, brand them as impostors. I have heard that W. C. Brown speaks of had asked him to show his certificate granting him permission for the glasses he sold me, he had discovered that Brown was the faker, and one whom every one should look out for.
