The elegant suite occupied by the Commercial club presented an animated appearance last night on the occasion of the reception tendered to Frederick Warde by the Press and Commercial clubs. In addition to the members of the two clubs who were present there was a number of invited guests and a most enjoyable time was the result. The program was informal, and consequently was all the more interesting.

Gray dawn had commenced to tint the mountains ere the guests, some of them, wended their way homeward. After a buffet lunch with punch bowl attachments had been discussed Wil-liam Igleheart, president of the Press club, rapped on the big table with a carpenter's hammer, somewhere about midnight, and proceeded to introduce Fisher S. Harris as master of ceremo-nies, who made a most happy cifort. Mr. Warde then spoke and expressed his appreciation of the reception. Among the interesting numbers of the reception were a violin solo by Mr. Skelton, accompanied by Prof. J. J.

McClellan, solos by George D. Pyper and John S. Critchlow, the Squires quartet, also a ping pong game between John S. Critchlow and Robert Fitzsimmons. Frederick Warde then re-cited "The Seven Ages of Man," and told several of his best stories. There was a large attendance and everyone voted the stag party an un-qualified success. The music for the occasion was furnished by the Grand orchestra, while the club rooms were handsomely decorated with palms and cut flowers furnished by Mr. Mitchell.
