

MORE GEO. COULD RUMORS ARE RIFE

Surveys Said to be Being Made
West of Salt Lake.

VIA DEEP CREEK TO COAST.

Latest Story Comes From Denver to Effect That Engineers Are Working on the Project.

The rumors which have been going the rounds of the press during the last ten days to the effect that the Gould interests will extend the Rio Grande Western through to the coast have taken a new turn.

Heretofore Senator Clark's road has been supposed by some to be one of the links in the Gould trans-continental scheme.

In an Associated Press dispatch, however, it is set forth that the proposed line will tap the Deep Creek district and push west to San Francisco.

The dispatch states that the Denver News this morning says: "Surveys are being made and rights of way secured in the district west of Salt Lake City to San Francisco, by agents representing George Gould and his associates, which indicate that within another year the Rio Grande system in Colorado and Utah and the Gould connections east of this state will, together with a new line west of Salt Lake City, form a great trans-continental route to rival the Union Pacific and Santa Fe roads."

The route of the proposed new line west of Salt Lake will be from Salt Lake across the desert through Eureka, Nev., to Walker pass, then beyond to the Kern river, up the Huala valley to San Francisco. The line will be through forty miles of desert in Utah and Nevada, including eighteen districts in the Deep Creek, Utah, vicinity. The survey across the desert in Utah leading to Walker's Pass in the Sierra Nevada range is 1,500 feet higher than any other pass in the upper country.

DEVOR GOES TO DENVER.

Promotion for Colorado Midland
Traveling Passenger Agent.

U. S. Devor, traveling passenger agent for the Colorado Midland, with headquarters in this city, leaves on this evening's train for Denver where he will enter upon his new duties as traveling auditor for the Midland. The announcement of his appointment which involves a promotion, will be read with pleasure by the friends of the young man. He succeeds T. J. Madison who enters the same train for Denver on Monday in the capacity of chief clerk.

U. S. Devor, or as he is more familiarly known among his many friends as "United States," has been connected with the Midland since the past five years, prior to which time he was for thirteen years in the employ of several big systems, among which being the Great Northern, Pennsylvania, Nickel Plate, Three I's and the Big Four. He came to this city in the capacity of traveling passenger agent under General Agent Donnell, October 1, 1900.

CREWS HAVE HARD TIME.

Storm Causes Much Inconvenience
To the Railroads Generally.

Storm reports received by the Oregon Short Line and the Rio Grande Western indicate that the train crews on both systems have had a hard time of it last night and early this morning. While steam has been kept up on the snow plows in case of emergency there has as yet been no call to bring them into requisition. Last night it was reported that the train crews on the Short Line the mercury stood 29 below zero and the train crews had a hard time to keep from getting frost bitten. In Idaho there was a bad blizzard raging this morning, but despite these drawbacks the trains were all on time.

On the Rio Grande No. 3 got in at 9:30 this morning instead of 10:35 last night. No. 5 was annulled while the other trains from the East were all from three to six hours late. This was no fault of the Western for the delay was occasioned by a freight running away on Tennessee Pass on the D. & R. G. Passengers on this morning's belated train are the authority for the statement that the train left the depot and piled up in a heap, throwing the fireman into a tree, where his body hung.

To Stop Discrimination.

New York, Jan. 25.—Counsel for the New York Produce Exchange are, in co-operation with a committee of the exchange, preparing a bill for presentation to the legislature designed primarily to stop railroad discrimination against the port of New York. The committee on freight rates discrimination of the exchange has for nine months been investigating the proposed plans for restoring the ground lost to this port and is of the opinion that the railroads are largely responsible. The bill which will be introduced at Albany will greatly enlarge the powers of the state railroad commission, giving to that commission the power to execute its own recommendations. At present the commission can investigate and recommend, but has no legal power to enforce its opinions.

Another Colorado Road.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 24.—The Florence, Victor and Cripple Creek Railroad company has been incorporated here to build a standard gauge railroad between Florence and the Cripple Creek district. The officers are: J. P. Collins, president; Frank Truby, vice president; W. B. White, treasurer; G. Wilkes, secretary. They have announced that construction work will begin by June 1.

Will Connect at Sioux City.

Sioux City, Iowa, Jan. 25.—The Journal says: It is learned that plans for a connection of the Burlington Railway system and the Great Northern—Northern Pacific systems, at Sioux City are being developed.

The plans provide for an extension of the Burlington's Schuyler Branch to Sioux City and the building of the cut-off from Schuyler down the Platte Valley to the Burlington's main line to the West. Construction of the extension and the cut off will begin early in the spring.

From Soap to Nuts.

The following story illustrates one of the many reasons that induced the Burlington railroad to change the system of operating its dining cars from the fixed price per meal to the a la carte plan, whereby the passenger orders what he wants at a committee of what he orders. Under the old plan some travelers had the idea that it was necessary to order a very elaborate meal in order to get the worth of their

You know you get full value for your expenditure, because we set the price at which this article is sold. Our effort is for your satisfaction and we want you to have the best baking powder in why we make a feature of putting this excellent article on the market at the low price for which we sell it.

HEWLETT BROS. CO.

Three Crown is sold and guaranteed by all grocers at 25c. a pound. Ask for it and refuse all substitutes. money, and the hero of this little anecdote was among that number. After seating himself in a Burlington dining car, it is related that he ordered three kinds of soup, with celery, radishes, pickles, two kinds of fish and two varieties of meat. After disposing of this array, the stranger found that he had almost reached the limit of his capacity, but still had an unsatisfied longing for pie. He called a waiter and said in a hoarse whisper, as he pointed to the menu card: "Say, mister, if it ain't again the rules, I'd like to skip from that to there."

SPRINK AND RAIL.

The Burlington meeting seems to have fallen in line with the Central Pacific. It was again adjourned yesterday.

The Rio Grande system has received the consignment of calendars for this year. The design is the same as that instituted by George W. Heintz last year.

The Colorado Midland agents who were in attendance at the meeting in Denver early this week are now going over the system accompanied by some of the traffic officials in a special train.

The passenger department of the Rio Grande lines has issued some handsome booklets setting forth the scenic attractions of the route for the benefit of those who contemplate attending the convention of Federation of Women's clubs at Los Angeles during the week commencing May 1.

President H. G. Burt is quoted as authority for the statement that a branch line will be built this year from Walcott, or some other convenient point on the main line of the Union Pacific in Wyoming to the towns of Grand Encampment and Saratoga.

Southern Idaho Mail: A new pass to Thunder mountain has recently been discovered via Challis creek and an excellent trail is now being opened that way. By this route Thunder mountain is only 150 miles from Mackay, which makes it positively the nearest railway approach to the new Eldorado.

It is said that within the next few days the incorporation of the Milford & Beaver Railroad company will be filed with the secretary of state. Before the end of the year work of construction on the road from Milford to a point five miles beyond Beaver will be completed. There is a good chance that the railroad will be completed and in operation before Jan. 1, 1903.

It is unusual for any railroad to handle 20,000 young cattle for one concern inside of seven months, hauling each an average of four hundred miles, not crippling a single head, and getting each shipment to its destination on schedule time. Yet this is the record made by the Burlington in the last seven months of 1901 for the American Live Stock & Loan company of Denver. The cattle were shipped from points in Texas, Arizona and New Mexico, to Montana, Wyoming, and the Dakotas.

Dyspepsia

What's the use of a good cook if there's a bad stomach, —a stomach too weak properly to digest what is taken into it?

The owner of such a stomach experiences distress after eating, nausea between meals, and is troubled with belching and fits of nervous headache —he's dyspeptic and miserable.

"I have been troubled with dyspepsia and have suffered almost everything. I have tried many different remedies, but could get no relief until I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. After the use of this medicine I could eat without distress, and today I am as well as ever, but I always keep Hood's Sarsaparilla on hand." Mrs. J. A. CROWLEY, Canby, N. Y.

"My stomach was weak. Reading how much Hood's Sarsaparilla had done other people, I was encouraged to try it. My stomach soon grew stronger and now I can eat almost anything. My husband and I take Hood's for our blood in spring and good results." Mrs. A. J. GREGORY, East North Yarmouth, Me.

FATHER AND HIS TWIN BOYS.

Former Promises to Care for Them
In Two Weeks.

WILL FIND THEM A HOME.

Court Allows Him Time to Try and Save Them From Being Sent To the Reform School.

Leonard Hilpert, the father of the twin boys Charles and Albert Hilpert, charged with incorrigibility, appeared in Judge Stewart's court this morning in answer to the summons of the court. Mr. Hilpert said he was willing to take the boys and care for them and would send them to school, if allowed a couple of weeks to find a suitable person to take charge of them. He has no wife at present and is living at Bountiful with his two oldest boys. He stated that he had contributed to the support of the two youngest boys and that he had visited them often and that they had complained to him of the cruel treatment of their step-father, Chris Auger.

The boys were again examined and stated that they were willing to go and live with their father and if given an opportunity would go to school and not continue their practice of truancy. The court continued the case for two weeks to allow Mr. Hilpert an opportunity to find a suitable place for the boys, after which time they will probably be turned over to him instead of being sent to the reform school.

Decision Reversed.

The Supreme court this afternoon in the case of Mary E. Chienkemp, respondent vs. Union Pacific Railroad company, appellant, reversed the verdict in favor of the plaintiff as given in the district court for $4,250. Mrs. Chienkemp sued for damages for the death of her husband at Uintah and the court rendered the verdict above mentioned. This is the verdict now set aside by the Supreme court which remands it to the lower court for re-trial.

In Favor of Faust.

Judge Morse today handed down a decision in the case of W. G. Nebeker vs. H. J. Faust, Jr., in favor of the defendant. Plaintiff sued the defendant for $225 for commission on the sale of real property, claiming that Mr. Faust agreed to pay him one-half of any amount he might sell the property for in excess of $1,500. Mr. Nebeker stated that in his complaint that he sold the property for $2,250 to A. W. McCune but that the defendant refused to pay him his commission. Judge Morse decided that the plaintiff was not entitled to any commission and ordered judgment entered in favor of the defendant.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

Health Board's Report for the Week
Just Closing.

The report of the board of health for the week ending Jan. 25 shows the report of the birth of eight male children and eleven female. Fifteen deaths were reported of which nine were males and six females. Three bodies were brought here for interment and four were shipped to other points for burial.

There were forty cases of scarlet fever in quarantine at the close of last report. During the week six new cases were reported and fourteen released, leaving thirty-two cases in quarantine in the city of diphtheria there were seven cases reported during the week, four released and one case died, leaving seventeen cases in quarantine, an increase of two over last week. There are now five cases of typhoid fever known to the health department, four of which were reported during the week covered by this report. Twenty-six cases of measles were reported, which shows an increase of ten over the previous week. Four cases of chickenpox were reported against none last week. No new cases of smallpox were developed since the last report, and there is but one case now in quarantine.

ELDRIDGE RECITAL.

A stormy night, and probably the advanced prices of admission were causes which resulted in the comparatively small audience which greeted Mr. Harold Eldridge at his recital last night. Mr. Eldridge was accompanied by Prof. J. J. McCallan, and the program rendered delighted those who were present to hear it, one of the charms of the program being that the numbers with the exception of "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" were new to the majority of the hearers. The program was divided into three parts, the first entitled "Irvingdram" A Song Cycle, by Alexander Von Fleming, consisting of a half dozen charming melodies, the second—the Prologue from Wagner and Kipling's "Danny Deever," with music by Walter Damrosch, and the third a number of ballads including "The Slumber Boat," "All For You," "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," "Banks of Allen Water," and "Ode to Bacchus." The numbers were all especially suited to Mr. Eldridge's fine voice, the only drawback to his rendition being a suggestion of the "musical" in his manner of expression. The musical part was artistically rendered, and each number met with applause, the "Irvingdram" idyll, "Violets," and "Danny Deever" being exceptionally effective.

MAJOR DOWNEY HOME AGAIN.

Salt Lake Officer Back from Philippines
After Four Years.

RETURNED LAST EVENING.

Has Very Little Love for the Philippines
—The Most Accomplished Liar in The World.

Major George F. Downey returned home from the Philippine Islands early last evening after an absence of nearly four years, having left here as a volunteer paymaster on May, 1898. Since his departure his friends have noted with pride and interest, his good fortune and have noted with pleasure his marked success. About a year ago he was appointed major and paymaster in the regular army and has become one of the most popular officers in the service. When seen today in his father's home on South Temple street, he was wearing a look of health that was hidden under a very happy smile.

"You cannot imagine how it seems to be home again," said he. "Everything looks beautiful and inviting despite the snow and indeed that, too, is a welcome change from what I have been experiencing for the last few years. I have always had a great fondness for army life and I think I would never be content out of service. While none of our officers look upon duty in the Philippines with much enthusiasm I have, you would think, little cause for complaint, for the reason that I was not sick a day while in the islands. This is a remarkable record in view of the abundant sickness that has prevailed there and although I was very fortunate as to my health I have no desire to try it again. I will frankly confess I have little love for the Philippines. They are the most accomplished liars I have ever met. They are past grand masters in the art. Some of them are bright, and very polite, but no faith can be placed in the average native. Some of them profess great admiration for the government of the United States and affect to be delighted with the prospect of being under our government, but I don't believe them when they say it."

When the morning dispatch, containing General Whelan's statement that 50,000 men would have to be maintained in the islands, was shown Major Downey, he expressed some surprise. "I haven't had a glimpse of the islands for over six weeks," said he, "but when I left, I was told that I had started out on what promised to be a very active campaign and I was of the opinion that within a very little while the insurrection proper would be over. Not that the fighting would be at an end, but that most of the trouble would come from the Ladrone, the outlaws of the mountains of Luzon, who dash down upon a village, loot and kill and are away again. They practice their depredations upon any one they can surprise or overpower, not caring for their victims are natives or soldiers. They are nothing but bandits and their strength lies in the almost inaccessible country to which they flee. It is impossible for our soldiers to follow them. But we are receiving much aid from the natives, who hate these Tagalos with a most deadly hatred and they almost go wild with delight when any of the latter are killed. But this formidable band of desperadoes is constantly being augmented by the insurgents whose crimes have been so enormous that they dare not surrender and therefore join the outlaws as a means of protection."

Major Downey affirms that the conditions have greatly improved in the Philippines since the advent of Governor Taft. He looks upon the latter as one of the strongest men in the United States, and relates that no man ever set foot on the islands that he so loved as he. He has evinced a wonderful breadth and clearness of comprehension and within an incredible short time he was the master of the situation in the islands. He was on the Tientsin, Grant, the same ship that Major Downey came over in and the two enjoyed an intimacy that the major declares is one of the most highly prized experiences of his career.

The transport brought home 1,200 men, including 400 natives, 400 Chinese, 400 Japanese, and 400 others. The boat stopped at Nagasaki and it was there that Major Downey says he witnessed one of the most inspiring spectacles of his life. The harbor contained three German battleships, three Russian battleships, and one or two English. "And if there was ever a time I was proud of our navy," exclaimed the major, "it was then. The Brooklyn was there, the only representative of our navy in the harbor and it did the same thing when we passed the English and German ships and their crews would crowd the deck and cheer and cheer. But the climax was reached when we came up to the Brooklyn, and the American flag, the crew on the Brooklyn was distributed all over the ship, the jacks were cheering like madmen and one of them was doing a cake walk on a beam that was only about six inches thick and suspended out over the water. It was a time for the gods," and as Maj. Downey continued his thrilling narrative his eyes lit up and flashed as if he were again in the harbor at Nagasaki. "I tell you," cried the major, "when Uncle Sam's boys are under such influences as that scene inspired they are invincible."

That momentous event occurred on New Year's eve, and after the cheering was over the transport sailed out to the mouth of the harbor and anchored for the night. At midnight the Brooklyn trained its flashlight on the Grant and her band struck up a national air. The band on the transport returned the compliment and after they both had played a number of pieces they joined in the Star Spangled Banner and again the air over Nagasaki was set vibrating to the strains of the Yankee music and the cheers of Yankee lungs which all but waked the dead. The major said he would not forget that occasion though his life were thrice as long as Methuselah's.

The major recounted many other scenes and incidents of the islands, that were both humorous and pathetic and added that his experiences were of incalculable value to him, but he did not care to go through them again. He will visit here for a few days when he will go to New York and Washington. Then he will return for two or three weeks after which he will return to the headquarters of the department of the Colorado at Denver to act as chief paymaster on Gen. McArthur's staff.

CARD OF THANKS.

MAJOR YOUNG HONORED.

Appointed a Member of West Point
Visiting Board.

(Special to the "News.") Washington, D. C., Jan. 25.—Representative Sutherland was informed by the war department today that Major Richard W. Young would be appointed a member of the board of visitors of the military academy at West Point.

The friends of Major Young will be highly pleased to know that he has been, or is about to be appointed, to this position. It is a place to which only the most distinguished citizens of the Republic are named. It is purely an honorary office and carries no monetary remuneration with it beyond the necessary expenses being paid by the government.

It has been known for a considerable time that Major Young had modest aspirations for the position, and he was very strongly endorsed for it by distinguished Americans both in and out of the army. One of these endorsers was Gen. Elwell S. Otis.

The visiting board will probably have more to do this year than at any time for a long period past as this is the centennial year of its founding. It is the body that passes upon all matters connected with the policy of the institution and which outlines such changes as are necessary for its welfare.

GLASMAN CASE MONDAY.

Ogden Judge Will Render Decision at That Time.

(Special to the "News.")

Ogden, Jan. 25.—Arguments were finished in the Glasman case this afternoon when County Attorney Halvorsen made the last argument against the mayor. He said he did not agree with Mr. Henderson that Glasman should be let off easily. He should be punished according to his offense. The court will render its decision on Monday morning.

This morning Dr. Condon was the first witness called. He testified that he was the officer in charge of the pest house, and that the process of disinfection in use there was always most thorough and effective. On the discharge of a patient formaldehyde was liberally used, and the floors were painted and the dishes washed in water as hot as could be had.

Sanitary Inspector Powers and Glasman also testified along the lines already published. It appears the latter on being spoken to about going into the pest house said he was willing to take such chances as he would be subjected to although he claimed to have contracted at the standard office.

The arguments in the case then commenced. Attorney H. H. Henderson leading off for the state and saying it was perfectly apparent that Mayor Glasman had violated the laws of the state, and that he should be punished accordingly. Counsel then asked for a heavy fine or imprisonment in the penitentiary but he did ask for the imposition of a penalty that would prevent the city executive from breaking into the pest house again.

City Attorney John D. Murphy argued that Mr. Glasman as mayor of the city, had the right to visit and inspect all places where, in his opinion, sanitary matters required looking after.

County Attorney Halvorsen followed for the prosecution after which the court took a recess until this afternoon.

JOHN KIRKMAN ILL.

Visited With Paralytic Stroke While
Dressing This Morning.

The many friends of John Kirkman will be pained to learn that that gentleman was smitten with a stroke of paralysis as he was dressing this morning in his bedroom. Dr. Richards was hastily summoned and after attending to the patient he expressed himself of the opinion that he would partially recover, so as to be able to get around again.

John Kirkman has been a familiar figure around the Tilling office for the past thirty years, for the major portion of which time he has held a clerical position. Last August he was placed in charge of the retail department and until this morning he has been at his post every day. Mr. Kirkman is a member of the High Council, also treasurer of the Tenth ward association and for a number of years has been the choir leader in that ward. He emigrated to Utah from Manchester, England, in 1856. His many friends in this city and state will wish him a speedy recovery from his affliction which has visited him in this his seventy-second year.

GUN ACCIDENT.

George Ady Hurt in Provo Canyon—
Death of Old Citizen.

(Special to the "News.")

Provo, Jan. 25.—George Ady, an employee of the Teluride Power company, met with a bad accident yesterday which undoubtedly will result in his losing his right hand. It appears he was out hunting in Provo canyon when he accidentally fell over a cliff, at the same time his gun exploded with the result that his right hand was badly lacerated. He was brought into Provo where he was attended to by Dr. Robinson. Later he was placed on the train for Denver, and it is thought that he will have the shattered member amputated there.

Judge Booth will hold court at St. George, February 3 in place of Judge Marionette, who will be at Nephi on that date.

Robert Wimmer, an aged resident of Salem, died at that place yesterday at the ripe old age of 88 years. The funeral will take place on Monday.

The result of the first ballot was the election of the following seven men to serve on the board: W. H. Clark, 53 votes; H. W. Doscher, 49; J. S. Bransford, 44; J. Oberdorfer, 44; C. E. THE SNOW STORM IS GENERAL.

White Mantle Over Utah and the Western Country—May Have Zero Weather Tomorrow—City Street Car Service Blocked.

And the snow descended and the blasts came and beat upon the town last night and this morning; but towards noon the skies partly cleared up and a thaw set in where the sun could reach with its beams. It was threatening all day yesterday, and at 9 p. m. began snowing quite heavily. The snow let up at midnight, but began again before daybreak, only to cease about 9:30. It blew a cold, raw gale from the northwest most of the morning, and the bulletin from Washington said, "Cold wave; temperature will fall to zero or below by Sunday morning." However, in view of the mild weather of this afternoon, the fulfillment of this prediction is regarded as doubtful.

The entire precipitation in this city for the storm was 1.7 inches of snow, or .37 inch of water. The barometer took an immense drop at 1:30 this morning reaching 25 inches, the lowest limit reached at this altitude for several years, but by 1:30 this morning had climbed up .27 inch. The wind reached a velocity of forty-four miles an hour from the northwest, but by 7:45 a. m. had slowed down to thirty miles. The storm was general over the country west of the Mississippi Valley except Texas and Oklahoma. The snow fall at Ogden was 6 inches, at Provo it was 1 inch, and at Logan by noon it was 1 inch and still snowing. It was galesighing in Ogden and Salt Lake this morning and the school children are making merry on the hillsides both in town and out.

The street railway had a very hard time of it this morning. The wheels blew the snow over the rails as fast as the car wheels rubbed it off and the entire system was for the time deranged. The big snow plow and sweeper "Snowbird" was out bright and early. George Guiden the brusher of his high ship through the misty mazes of the flying snow, and had the tracks cleared off after a few hours hard work. It was as dizzy a morning for running on time as the railway company ever had, and many people called down town early in the morning, had to wait. The snow is welcomed by the farmers and stockmen, only they would like to see more of it.

GRAND RIVER SURVEY.
