MARK MURPHY'S LAST RUN.

BY WM. T. SHAFFER,

(Editor of the Uinta Chieftain.)

The express train was late in arriving;
The tempest had held it back;
The wind was howling and driving
And packing snow on the track.

Shades of the night were gath'ring;
And the storm rose wild ahead;
When "All aboard," came the warning,
"The C. P. is waiting," 'twas said.

Then Mark Murphy stepped to his station
In the cab of the engine—his pride,
And the drivers responded in motion,
As he opened the throttle-valve wide.

Serene at his old post of duty,
To which he was always so true,
His heart bore a reflex of beauty,
Of loved ones, waiting he knew.

Thro' the canfions soon he would pass,
And the light of his home would see;
The wife of his bosom caress—
With children share greetings of glee.

As the train moved out of the station,
It gathered steam very fast;
The wheels made rapid rotation,
As out of the village it passed.

Men watched from the hotel veranda,
Till the view was lost in the storm;
Then the dining-hall being quite handy,
Went in where 'twas cozy and warm.

A feeling of peace and contentment
Stole o'er us by the fire's ruddy light;
And none of us there had presentment,
Of the horror just out in the night.

But who is it comes up the railway?
With a lantern he hurries along;
Now he stops in the hall-way;
Surely, there's something gone wrong.

What is the story he's telling
That makes the men hold their breath?
Wherever he speaks, all the laughing
Is changed to the stillness of death.

The train is wrecked at the junction,
Only a mile or two down.
The cars are piled up in confusion,
We're needing help from the town.

Out in the storm and the dark,
Men ran to the Almy switch;
We were thinking of Engineer Mark,
And hoped he was not "in the ditch."

Our hope was of briefest duration,
And soon turned dark, like the night;
As we made our hurried notation
By the aid of a lantern's dim light.

There lay the broken switch bar;
The engine had gone down the bank;
Also the baggage and mail car,
And underneath these lay the tank.

The engineer, Mark, was missing;
He did not respond to our call;
The snow on the fire-box was hissing,
And the storm hovered o'er like a pall.

We had no need to search farther,
And the glimmer of hope all sank,
As we found the remains of our brother
Resting peacefully under the tank.

Oh! merciful God, why is this?
You have taken the best of all.
The question was answered in stillness,
Yet clear as a conscience call.

The answer that came, with our pardon,
Was warm with the purest of love:
"We gather our own from the garden;
There's a place for good men above."

Evanston, Wyoming, Feb. 14th, 1887.

SAN JUAN STAKE QUARTERLY CONFERENCE.

The San Juan Stake quarterly conference was held at Bluff on the 26th, 27th and part of the 28th days of February, 1887.

Present on the stand—Of the Stake Presidency, F. A. Hammond and counsel; Bishop J. Nielsen and counsel, of Bluff; Bishop G. Halls and counsel, of Mancos; Bishop Burnham and counsel, of Burnham, and Counselor G. Burnham, of Moab wards; besides a fair representation of Saints from each ward and branch.

The wards and branches were represented by their respective officers to be in a growing and prosperous condition and that there had never been a time since the San Juan Stake was organized that the Saints felt better and more determined to live their religion come what would.

President Hammond and counsel occupied most of the time in instructing the people, pointing out their various duties and exhorted them to live nearer to the Lord and keep His commandments. The Spirit of the Lord was poured out abundantly upon them and they pointed out the duties of Latter-day Saints in so clear and concise a manner that the weakest of the weak (in faith) could not help admitting the force of their remarks.

The general and local authorities were unanimously sustained. The following brethren were called to locate new settlements: F. J. Jones, James and N. A. Decker, C. B. Walton, Jr., Parley R. and Willard Butt, and John Bell, to locate at North Montezuma. Frank Farnsworth, John and Wm. Rogerson and W. Bills, to locate in Indian Valley. John Allan and sons to locate at South Elk, all in San Juan County, Utah.

The Y. M. M. I. A. held their conference Sunday evening, February 27; the Relief and Y. L. M. I. A., Monday morning, the 28th. Much good and valuable instruction was given to the young at both conferences.

The weather was beautiful, health of the people good and we had a very enjoyable time, one long to be remembered by the Saints in this Stake of Zion.

CHAS. E. WALTON,
Stake Clerk.

Latest Type of the Maxim Machine Gun.

It will be remembered that Mr. Henry M. Stanley was compelled, a short time ago, to abandon his lecturing tour through this country, and was recalled to take command of an expedition in relief of Emin Pasha, the successor of General Gordon, who is at present supposed to be beleaguered by hostile Africans near Wadelai, not far from Lake Albert Nyanza. Before leaving England he provided himself with one of Mr. Hiram S. Maxim's automatic machine guns.

The gun made for Mr. Stanley weighs 40 pounds, the swivel on which it is mounted weighs 16 pounds, the tripod without the shield weighs 50 pounds, and the shield weighs 50 pounds. The gun may be detached from the tripod, which may be folded with the greatest facility. The seat slides back, drawing the strut with it, and the whole thing folds up.

The action of the gun is automatic, each cartridge being discharged by the recoil of the shot preceding. The cartridges are placed in a belt, and the empty shells are thrown out in front of the gun. The rate of fire is about 600 times a minute. With the shorter and smaller cartridges, such as are used in the U. S. army, the rate of firing would be about 700 shots a minute. The rapidity of the fire is such that at a thousand yards range twenty bullets will strike the target after the gun ceases to fire, while by giving the gun a very high elevation five hundred rounds may be discharged before the first bullet strikes the ground.

To prevent too great heating a water tank is provided, from which the water is fed through the casing around the barrel. The amount of heat thus generated is about 1½ units for each discharge, and a thousand rounds will evaporate more than a pint of water.

The gun is mounted pivotally, to admit of considerable latitude of range, and it may be turned very readily in any direction. The shield is raised as a protection against arrows and spears. The top and bottom hinged sections may be lowered and raised, however, to provide a double thickness against bullets.

FEARFUL DISCOVERY IN A HOVEL

THE NEVADA BANK DEAL—DEATH OF CAPT. EADS—SENATOR SHERMAN, ETC., ETC.

Singular Scenes.

NEW YORK, March 10.—The will of Mr. Beecher was read this afternoon in the presence of the family. It is probable that it will not be filed for probate as one of its main provisions authorizes the members of the family to settle among themselves the division of what there is left. The chief feature of it is that Mrs. Beecher is first provided for. The contents of it will not be known unless the will is probated, as it is the wish of the family that no publication of its contents should be made.

To-night the Beecher residence was brilliantly lighted, and everything around the house was made as bright as possible.

MRS. BEECHER

had been in her late husband's room a great portion of the afternoon looking over his papers. It seems a delight to her to be near where her husband spent much of his time. The members of the family were dressed in bright clothing as though going to church on Sunday and everything around was made as bright and cheerful as possible in accordance with the often expressed wish of Mr. Beecher in case of his death.

Hundreds of people called during the day and left cards, including Henry George and

REV. DR. MCGLYNN.

The church to-night until 11 o'clock, was more crowded than during the afternoon. The line of people waiting to view the remains extended from the church to Fulton Street, nearly three blocks, and one block down Fulton.

The Tribune, estimates that Mr. Beecher's earnings during his life time were $1,000,000, of which $500,000 was as pastor, $300,000 as lecturer and $200,000 as an author. One of his leading parishioners estimates his estate at $100,000, his farm at Peekskill was worth $50,000; an insurance of $25,000 on his life, and his house in Brooklyn.

An Anarchist Funeral.

CHICAGO, March 10.—Oscar Neebe, the anarchist, to-day selected Paul Grottkau and George Schilling to deliver orations at his wife's funeral service in Miller's Hall, Sunday. Grottkau was Spies' successor as editor of the Arbeiter Zeitung and was a prominent figure in the riots at Milwaukee last spring. Schilling is the noted local socialist agitator and ward politician. Nothing of a religious character will enter into the ceremonies. It has been decided that the procession will only accompany the corpse to the city limits. Chief of Police Eberhold says no special arrangements have been made regarding the proposed demonstration. He understands that "it is not to be a affair." The Central Labor Union members say they will use the regulation banner of the various societies composing the organization. Should they do so there will be no absence of red flags, for the societies and their 12,000 members are almost without exception radically socialistic and their hunting is of the most vivid crimson. Each society is providing itself with a band of music for the occasion. Sheriff Mason to-day decided that Neebe should unmanacled be allowed to accompany his wife's corpse to the cemetery guarded by a single deputy.

RED FLAG

The Railroad Deal.

PHILADELPHIA, March 10.—Leading executive officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company say they have not been consulted in regard to the Baltimore & Ohio deal.

BALTIMORE, March 10.—Robert Garrett this afternoon virtually admitted to a prominent Baltimore man that there was considerable truth in the newspaper talk of the big railroad deal. He would give no definite idea of the particulars of the scheme, but from his remarks the inference was drawn that the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has become a factor in the syndicate that is to control something like reaching from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, and probably from New York to the extreme west. It is generally believed that the biggest railroad deal on record has been or is about to be made, and that the passage of the inter-state commerce bill hurried the affair to a settlement. Mr. Sully has been active in arranging the details of the scheme, and he is the only one positively known to be connected with it. Opinions differ as to whether a single share of the Baltimore & Ohio stock has been or will be transferred, but the belief is gaining ground that the deal involves not only the road itself, but also its telegraph, express and sleeping car interests.

A NATIONAL RAILWAY,

The wildest sort of talk is daily indulged in, but no actual facts can be obtained from any one in a position to know ANYTHING ABOUT IT.

Many are inclined to believe that the stock (17,000 shares) held by the John S. Hopkins trustees, or at least a considerable portion of it, has been placed under the control of the new syndicate, but 32,000 shares held by the city of Baltimore cannot be touched without a special act of the city council; 30,000 shares left in trust by the late John W. Garrett can be disposed of, as the will did not forbid the sale, but simply advised that it be held in trust for twenty years.

Mr. Garrett to-day told a gentleman at the merchants' club that he might rest assured that whatever was done would be for the best interest of Baltimore, but further information he could not give now. From this it was inferred that the scheme was not fully consummated and that important developments might be effected in the near future.

Horrible State of Affairs.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 10.—The Denmead family have for years furnished gossip for the people of New Brunswick. They were eccentric and wealthy, and lived in squalor, in a wretched hovel under ground. For the past two months rumors relative to the condition of Mrs. Denmead have been flying about. It being utterly impossible to secure an entrance to the hovel, owing to the fierce conduct of Samuel Demeat, no one solved the mystery till to-day. A warrant for the arrest of Denmead was issued this afternoon upon the complaint of Mrs. Brundage, of Piscataway, and Chief of Police Fowiatt accompanied by officers, reporters and relatives of Denmead's, proceeded to the hovel. On reaching the door they were confronted by John Denmead, one of the brothers, who attempted to prevent their entrance, but he was easily overpowered. As the door opened a assailed the nostrils of the party. John Denmead, seeing that resistance was useless, procured a light and led the way into a rear room, where, upon the bed, lay the dead bodies of Cornelia and Robert Denmead, horribly decomposed. When asked why the fact of his relatives' death had not been made known, John Denmead said: "Me afraid they would be taken away from us." Officers were placed on ghard at the hovel, and John and Samuel Denmead were taken into custody. John says they ooth died five weeks ago, and that he wanted to have them buried and put out of the way, but Samuel would not listen to it. When Samuel was taken into the washroom to be given a bath he fought like a tiger. The coroner's jury will meet on Monday.

FRIGHTFUL STENCH

The Nevada Bank.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 10.—Referring to the special dispatches stating that the Nevada Bank was engineering a great wheat deal in Chicago, the cashier of that institution to-day said to an Associated Press representative: "The Nevada Bank is not interested in any way in the present upward movement of wheat. Many of our customers are handling Chicago wheat, and this I suppose," he said, "has led to the belief that the bank was operating on its own account."

Mr. Dresbach, one of the most prominent grain dealers, and president of the Produce Exchange of this city, being interviewed said: "The talk about the Nevada Bank being behind the movement in wheat in Chicago, is nonsense. The whole truth of the matter is, Chicago wheat, until lately has been unusually depressed, and buyers here, seeing a to purchase in Chicago at what they considered a low price, did so. This was one cause for the rise. Another was, that the stock on hand here was much lighter than anticipated and holders are not at all disposed to let go. This was clearly shown March 1st. On this day it is customary to assess a tax on all wheat in the warehouses. The consequence is, large quantities change hands shortly before the date mentioned. This year, however, there were very few transactions of the kind." Still another reason assigned by Mr. Dresbach for the upward tendency of the market, which he considered a perfectly healthful one, was that the prospective crops were yet in danger; that, with the lack of late spring rains, a large proportion of the crops would prove a failure, as the rainfall in many places was late and resulted in late-sown seed.

To-day's market was weaker, closing two cents under yesterday's.

Sherman and Party.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 10.—Senator Sherman and party arrived here this morning. They leave this morning for Stanford, en route to Tampa and Havana.

Senator Sherman said to a Times-Union reporter this morning: "I want you to correct an erroneous impression. While at breakfast this morning I saw in the Washington Star a long article setting forth the object of my trip to Florida and stating that it was purely a political trip. The fact is that I have not heard politics mentioned since we left Washington. We were tired of it. When Congress completed its work we made up a party and started down here simply for recreation. I am out of politics just now. I do not want politics to enter my head for two weeks. I will not say a word about politics until I reach Nashville on my return. Then I will take up my political string again and will hold to it for some time."

General Sherman expressed himself agreeably disappointed by the condition of the railroads in the country and by the many signs noticeable everywhere of improvement since his last visit.

Death of Capt. Eads.

NASSAU, March 19.—Captain Jas. B. Eads died here on the 6th instant of pneumonia.

KEW WEST, Fla., March 10.—It is impossible to get any further particulars relative to the death of General Eads. The dispatch which chronicled the fact was received here from Nassau by the steamer Lizzie J. Henderson, to-day, and forwarded by the Associated Press agent at that point. There is no telegraphic communication with Nassau, and no one on board the vessel which brought the intelligence knows anything about the matter.

Railroad Rumors.

CHICAGO, March 10.—The announcement was made to-day that the joint western classification committee had taken important action in establishing a double classification on live stock. In several western states railways are forbidden by law to limit their liability except as set forth in the official classification. To avoid this, two classifications have been made, one establishing a high rate when live stock is transported at the carrier's risk, and the other much lower when transported at the owner's risk. This will enable the roads to meet the liability clause and arrange their tariffs accordingly.

A CIRCULAR

issued to-day by the Chicago, Santa Fe & California Railway Company (Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe extension) states that Emmons Blaine has been appointed general freight and passenger agent of the road. He will enter upon his duties April 1.

The various railroads to Council Bluffs and Omaha are indulging in considerable rate cutting of all classes of freight from Chicago. It is claimed here this evening that the tariff rate cut off 25 per cent. Quite a large amount of traffic is going forward, shippers seizing the opportunity to dispose of as much freight as possible before the new tariffs go into effect.

De Lesseps.

BERLIN, March 10.—De Lesseps was the guest of Emperor William at supper yesterday evening, and sat at the table reserved for the Emperor and Empress, both of whom conversed freely with him during the repast, and bestowed upon him marked attentions. Crown Prince Frederick William, during the supper, reminded De Lesseps that he (the Prince) assisted in the ceremony of opening the Suez Canal in 1869. Empress Augusta again received De Lesseps to-day.

Indian Outrages.

PHOENIX, Arizona, March 10.—The Morning Gazette publishes an account of Indian depredations in Superstition Mountains. The victim was a rancher named Reaves, whose mutilated body was discovered by scouts, who were pursuing the renegades. The scouts overtook the renegades in camp, when a fight ensued. All the renegades' horses and equipments were captured. One scout was wounded. The news was brought here by a stage driver, who says the Indians were nine in number, and made for the Tonto county. The troops are in pursuit. These Indians are without doubt the San Carlos Apaches, and will probably be killed and driven back to the reservation by the military.

The Liberals.

LONDON, March, 10.—Gladstone has informed his party that he himself will lead the opposition to the coercion bill in Parliament. The liberals will continue their efforts against the bill until Easter, maintaining, in the meantime, an active agitation throughout the country.

The Mail and Express' London: Mr. Schnadhorst, to whom a testimonial of ten guineas was presented last night for his services to the liberal party, stated privately that he is well satisfied with the rapid progress which home rule is making among the rank and file of the liberal party. He believes the liberal unionists, if they don't unite with Gladstone, will soon cease to have any following at all.

Dr. Gatling, the inventor of the Gatling gun, lives in an unpretentious but comfortable house near Hartford, and goes but little into society.

Young Men and Single Life.

It is undoubtedly true that a single life is not without its advantages for some. There are hundreds of young men, as there are a like number of young women, to whom a married life would be unsuitable and unwise. It is an inexcusable sin for any young man of hereditary ill-health or deformity to assume marriage, and to such a one single life has advantages, even though it holds out few pleasures. But that young man who is possessed with every bodily and mental equipment, and marries not, fails in one of the most palpable duties of life. He deprives himself of life's most refined and exalted pleasures, of some of its strongest incentives to virtue and activity, and sets an example unworthy of imitation. Nothing has, or should have, a greater refining and moralizing influence to a young man than marriage. If he remains unmarried, he lays himself open to alluring vices that have no place in his eye or mind when his attention and affections are centered upon a devoted wife. Marriage changes the current of man's feelings, and gives him a centre for his thoughts, his affections and his acts. It renders him more virtuous, more wise and is an incentive to put forth his best exertions to attain position in commercial and social circles. It is conceded that marriage will increase the cares of a young man, but who would not encounter if he remained single, but it must be granted, on the other hand, that it heightens the pleasure of life. If marriage, in some instances within our knowledge, has seemed to be a hindrance to certain success, the countless instances must not be forgotten where it has proved to be the incentive which has called forth the best part of man's nature, roused him from selfish apathy, and inspired in him those generous principles and high resolves which have helped to develop him into a character known, loved and honored by all within the sphere of its influence. Matrimony, it is true, is chargeable with numberless solicitudes and responsibilities and this all young men should fully understand before entering upon it, but it is also full of joy and happiness that is unknown to the bachelor.—Brooklyn Magazine.

Nazography.

La Science en Famille says that a new journal is soon to appear as the organ of the science of "nazography."

Nazography, says the author of the system, permits of divining the character, habits, and inclinations of people by a simple inspection of their noses.

According to this system, the nose should be as long as possible, as this is a sign of merit, power, and genius. Example: Napoleon and Cæsar, both of whom had large noses.

A straight nose denotes a just, serious, fine, judicious and energetic mind; the Roman nose, a propensity for adventure; and a wide nose with open nostrils is a mark of great sensuality. A cleft nose shows benevolence; it was the nose of St. Vincent de St. Paul.

The curved, fleshy nose is a mark of domination and cruelty. Catherine de Medici and Elizabeth of England had noses of this kind. The curved, thin nose, on the contrary, is a mark of a brilliant mind, but vain and disposed to be ironical. It is the nose of a dreamer, a poet, or a critic. If the line of the nose is re-entrant, that is, if the nose is turned up, it denotes that its owner has a weak mind, sometimes coarse, and generally playful, pleasant, frolicsome.

A pale nose denotes egotism, envy, heartlessness. The quick, passionate, sanguine man has a strongly colored nose of a uniform shade. With the drinker the shade becomes more pronounced toward the tip.

Italy wants to borrow 3,500,000 lires. As this is a very busy season with newspaper correspondents we are afraid this country can't oblige her.—Burlington Free Press.
