EVENING NEWS.

Wednesday, - - June 22, 1887.

CORRESPONDENCE.

BYRAM HINTS.

BYRAM, June 20th, 1887.

Editor Deseret News:

This town that once boasted its many home enterprises under the fostering care of co-operation, is now practically at a standstill. About one hundred and fifty of her able-bodied citizens are off railroading in a distant Territory and the improvements of their homes left to some future time; while the many resources of the place that were once partially developed are left to go back to their normal state. Crops are looking well, but the extremely dry weather is beginning to show its effects on the growing crops. There will not be much fruit here this year; apples, pears and plums are allmost a failure.

The diphtheria that has been raging here, is now under control and the quarantine raised. It has interfered with the day and Sabbath schools and taken many a bright flower from the households.

In this, like most of our Utah towns, there is a vast number of young people of both sexes, and means must be devised to create employment for them, as it will not do to let the muscle and brain of our youth go to build up other places while our towns are yet undeveloped, and this surplus labor could be utilized to advantage if only directed and fostered by endeavoring to create industries that would develop their talent and give employment to their hands.

Good water can be got here for motive power to drive machinery of different kinds and talent is in abundance to manipulate it, only waiting to be developed. The great question is the capital upon which to work; now there is plenty if people could only be educated to use it, and to co-operate together for the mutual benefit of the whole community. Some say that co-operation is a failure, but to my mind, it would not be a failure even if it did not ever declare a dividend, if it only gave employment at remunerative wages to a number and paid its way. It would thus be better for us and the town than to have our young men going from home for employment at low, degrading work and amongan element that tends to destroy their morals and corrupt their lives.

The agricultural resources of the country are yet but partially developed, and though low prices have prevailed for our products, yet they are more remunerative to us in the end than the earnings of those who seek employment on the railroad, for their efforts tend to improve the soil and to develop our resources at home, while the employment abroad tends to encourage importations and the use of foreign commodities. Every place should be endeavoring to make business in its own limits by creating labor for the young; then stagnation will not be found in our midst, but all will be employed and trade flourish and morality be on the increase until the purity and industry of the youths of Utah will be an example to the world.

CULLED FROM LATEST EXCHANGES.

—The sheepmen of Montana are making vigorous efforts to have the sheep from Oregon, California, Idaho, Washington and Utah quarantined. When Gov. Leslie returns he will have the wool growers in pursuit of him urging him to proclaim this quarantine. It is said that one band of Idaho sheep gave the scab to 40,000 in Gallatin County.

—Albert Hooper committed suicide at Spring Hill, Montana. He arrived from California on the train on the 16th, to visit his brother, who had been working near that place. Deceased was very low with consumption and while propped up in bed he shot himself through the heart with a revolver. A singular part of the tragedy was the fact that the brothers were twins and were 28 years old that day.

—The Cheyenne Sun says the members of the Cheyenne Club and the members of the Laramie City Club have subscribed $500 with which is to be purchased a gold cup, to be hung up as a prize in a race between Wyoming bred running horses. This race is to be given in September next. It will be in all respects a gentleman's race, and the owner of each horse entered will be obliged to mount him. It is probable that far more interest will be excited over this race than over any equestrian contest which has ever stirred lovers of horse flesh in Cheyenne.

—Edward Harrison, of Oxford, Idaho, has sunk two or three artesian wells on his ranch to the depth of 200 feet. In the first of these he has a flow of water and gas in sufficient quantities to supply heat and light for his house which he is going to utilize as soon as he can do so. In the second one he struck a log of wood at the depth of 200 feet and had to stop, but will drive another down deeper soon, and see what he can find. The Caldwell brothers have a well 140 feet that flows aoout 50 gallons per minute which answers for an irrigation stream on one of their meadows.

—Ex-Governor B. F. Potts, of Montana, died at his residence in Helena on the 17th. Since last autumn he had been suffering with a trouble at first supposed to be bronchial or pulmonary consumption, but which finally developed into aneurism of a main artery of the chest. Early in the spring he went east to consult eminent medical authority but the best thing that could be done was to recommend what is called the "rest treatment," which involved strict quietude and a very meagre diet, the application of which reduced him to almost a skeleton. Thereafter it was proposed to build up the system when the aneurism had subsided. This treatment was pursued at his own residence under the supervision of local physicians. But all efforts were unavailing to save him and death supervened as stated.

Why am I a Jew?

In less than one year my people will enter the thirty-third century of its separate existence as a nation, and now you ask me why am I a Jew! Certes, the reason must be strong, since the same reason has animated my ancestors all these centuries.

Why am I a Jew? Because in the spring moath of the year 2448 a.m. my fathers went forth from Egypt as a nation designed to march in the van of human progress, called into existence only for the mere purpose of leading, as the first-born of God, his other children of earth to him, the Father of all.

I am a Jew because I believe that the Jew is a necessity to the world. I am a Jew because I recognize the role of my nation to be that of the servant of God in ministering to mankind's greatest wants. I am a Jew because I understand and acknowledge that my people has no other logical reason for its existence on the stage of history, in the face of tempests, changing scenes, "wars, alarums and excursions"—in the face of all ethnological law and historic experience—except as that conservative principle without which progress becomes unreal and evanescent, and civilization unstable.—The North American Review.

WATER OF THE DEAD SEA.—Just at dawn we dismounted on the narrow, pebbly beach of the Dead Sea. The water of this memorable lake is almost motionless and is transparent to a great depth. The taste is very salt and acrid, far beyond that of the ocean, and it is very irritating to any mucous membrane with which it comes in contact. This is due to the large amount (25 per cent.) of sodium, potassium and magnesium salts it contains, which also prevent animals or plants of any kind living in it and give it a specific gravity so high that we did not sink lower than to the shoulders when standing erect in it. The human body floats without exertion on the surface, and can only be submerged with difficulty, but swimming is unpleasant, as the feet have too great a tendency to rise to the surface.—Detroit Free Press.

DYSPEPSIA

Up to a few weeks ago I considered myself the champion Dyspeptic of America. During the years that I have been afflicted I have tried almost everything claimed to be a specific for Dyspepsia in the hope of finding something that would afford permanent relief. I had about made up my mind to abandon all medicines when I noticed an endorsement of Simmons Liver Regulator by a prominent Georgian, a jurist whom I knew, and concluded to try its effects in my case. I have used but two bottles, and am satisfied that I have struck the right thing at last. I felt its beneficial effects almost immediately. Unlike all other preparations of a similar kind, no special instructions are required as to what one shall or shall not eat. This fact alone ought to commend it to all troubled with Dyspepsia.
