WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—At his grandest reception the British minister never had a larger crowd than was there this morning. Neither Lord Sackville nor any member of his family were present to receive the callers. They were barred out of a large portion of the house. The main hall, ball-room and dining room were thrown open to that part of the public having cards of admission. The master of ceremonies was the auctioneer. The assembly was impelled, partly from curiosity and partly from a desire to purchase something that once did service for a British minister. A large number of Washington's society people who want something paid high prices for the glassware and china. The auctioneer stood in the immense hall room, with China and glassware on tables against the wall. Hundreds of people could not get near enough to see what was being sold, but there were plenty of buyers who didn't seem to care especially what they bought. Even three old china covers the dishes to which covers were broken or lost were bid for quite actively. Many people will show their regard for Lord Sackville by their collection of mementoes. Some who did not care especially for china-wares waited in the dining room where some valuable and attractive paintings, embroidery, bric-a-brac, etc., were sold. Among the items were a silk court dress, finely embroidered, worn during the time of Louis XVI, some antique brocade of the time of Louis XV, and some dress-goods old and new.

This morning a large number of Johnson's friends went to the jail and took Arnold, saying they intended to avenge the death of their friend and neighbor. Since their departure nothing has been heard from them, but it is reasonably certain that Arnold has been lynched.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The rumor of a disastrous steamship collision was extensively circulated in shipping circles this evening. They claim they cannot sell coal to advantage now, as the market is over-stocked and coal is selling for five cents a bushel, the lowest for many years.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Parnell commission resumed its sitting. Attorney-General Webster, counsel for the Times, complained of the difficulty experienced in bringing witnesses from County Kerry. He called the judge's attention to an article in the Kerry Sentinel (Edward Harrington's paper) which stated:

"The judges composing the Parnell commission are showing signs of spots now, although at the opening of the inquiry they appeared to be spotless. The judges were creatures of a conspiracy entered into by the government and Times and were manifestly united. We veil their prejudices."

The Attorney-General appealed to the court to take action in the matter as such publications tended to defeat justice and amounted to the grossest contempt.

Reid, in behalf of Harrington, complained that no notice of a charge of this character had been given them and it was absolutely impossible to make answer at present. He asked that the matter be adjourned until tomorrow. Presiding Justice Hannan and the attorney-general agreed to this and the matter stood over.

Examination of witnesses was resumed.

Farmer Culloty, of Castle Island, County Kerry, testified that because he served notices on tenants in 1882, two men visited him; one of them struck him with a spade and the other shot him in the leg. The leg had to be amputated. He was afterwards boycotted. On cross-examination he said the quarters of the nearest branch of the league were six miles distant from his farm. He considered rents throughout Kerry too high. He denied that the two men who attacked him were relations of a servant girl whom he wronged.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 20.—This morning the committee on law submitted a report recommending amendments in accordance with Powderly's recommendations. It is intended to carry the "one man" power which he advocated. It provides for a general master workman, a worthy foreman, a general secretary, a treasurer, a general director of woman's work and a general executive board. The latter consists of four members besides the general master workman and the general co-operative board shall consist of two members besides the general worthy foreman. All except the general executive board and the general co-operative board shall be taken from the floor of the assembly and when elected shall serve two years. This is a reduction of two members in each board, besides the union of the officers of secretary and treasurer. But the place where most appears is the article which provides that the general master workman shall be chairman ex-officio of the general executive board and shall, as far as practicable, submit to the general assembly the names of eight persons from which the general assembly shall select four members, this to be done as soon as possible and at the same session at which the general master workman is elected.

It further provides that the general worthy foreman shall be ex-officio chairman of the general co-operative board, and that he shall submit to the general assembly four names from which they shall elect two who will constitute that board.

After debate the report was adopted. The afternoon session was taken up by the committee on law with minor changes of the constitution, contrary to the recommendations of Powderly. The is unchanged. The general master shall hereafter fill all vacancies of the board by appointment, this being a new power added to the office. It is now proper for any member of the general executive committee to approve the report of the secretary or treasurer, although that was formerly permitted only to the general master workman. The general assembly so desiring may hereafter declare vacant any place on the board, and it can do so without at the same time expelling the officer so removed. Before an appointment, organizers must pass a proper examination.

The same committee reported the approval of Powderly's denunciation of the provisional committee.

The mileage committee reported the total mileage of the general assembly to be $89,289 miles, and the amount to be paid, $795. By an informal vote all decisions of the general master workman since the general assembly a year ago were approved.

T. D. BARRY

tonight issued a formal open letter to the delegates. He says:

"In violation of all law of knight hood and justice, you have denied me a fair trial or an opportunity to be heard in my defense, and by your action placed yourselves in full accord with the unlawful and unwarranted action of the general executive board whom I had charged with irregularities, and who being unable to answer my charges and being afraid to meet me, resorted to all sorts of intrigue to overrule the constitution and to deny me a fair trial, such as is guaranteed to every Knight of Labor. Your action is contrary to all law and decency. You have outraged justice, lowered your manhood and misrepresented your constituents by your vote, and you depend on false reports and burying your actions in silence. On your return home, as has been done after past sessions of the general assembly, this time your constituents will be given the truth by those who have the courage of their manhood. Since you have refused to give me an opportunity to defend myself, I now publish a few charges I have made, and defy you or those by whom you are sustained by your votes to prove them false."

He goes on to enumerate the charges already published. He proposes to agitate until the general assembly of the K. of L. adjourns. He will then put out his organizations and look after the formation of his new order, which will be called the Brotherhood of United Labor.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Constable McCarthy testified that he searched the house of Nannie McMahon, who was treasurer of a branch of the league, and found a number of papers.

Other witnesses from Kerry were then examined, all of whom attributed the outrage in that county to the instigation of the League. A laborer named Williams stated that he had been fired at by the Moonlighters and said that a placard had been posted in various places offering £500 to anyone who would shoot him and his employer, who had taken an evicted farm. On cross-examination, however, none of the witnesses succeeded in connecting the League with any of the outrages referred to.

Sir Charles Tupper then read an article from the Kerry Sentinel denouncing the outrages.

Lydia Curtin was next called, and described the boycotting of her family and the murder of her father.

Counsel for the Parnellites read a circular issued by the League denouncing the treatment of the Curtins.

Near the hour of adjournment Mr. Reid, in the absence of Sir Charles Russell, appealed to the opposing counsel to bulk the outrages to which they wished to refer and to cease giving such evidence in detail. The inquiry threatened to run long enough to ruin anybody if the present method was continued.

Sir Henry James declared the Times

was equally anxious to limit the time and expenditure.

Justice Hannan said there must be an honest effort to shorten the work of the commission. He considered there had been enough detail of outrages, and other branches of the inquiry ought to be proceeded with.

WATERLOO, Iowa, Nov. 20.—About a dozen evictions from the Des Moines River lands have been made by the federal authorities. At one place horns were blown by the farmers as a signal that the marshals were coming. The settlers responded by coming out to defend their homes with force, but scattered at the sight of guns. LONDON, Nov. 21.—Great excitement was occasioned this morning when it was reported that another woman had been murdered and mutilated in Whitechapel. The police immediately formed a cordon around the premises. An enormous crowd rushed to the vicinity in which the crime was said to have been committed. It was learned another murder had been attempted upon a low woman by a man who accompanied her to her lodgings, but in this instance his work was frustrated. According to the woman's story the man seized her and struck her once in the throat with a knife. She struggled desperately and succeeded in freeing herself from his grasp. She screamed for help, and her cries alarmed the man. He fled without attempting further violence. Some of the neighbors who heard the woman's screams followed the murderer about 300 yards, when he disappeared. The woman says she is fully able to recognize the man and gave a description of him to the police.

THE POLICE THEORY.

LONDON, Nov. 21, 1 p. m.—After investigation, the police are of the opinion that the attempted murder in Whitechapel this morning was not the work of the man who committed the atrocious murders in that vicinity recently. No arrests have been made. The excitement among the people continues.

ANOTHER THEORY.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Further investigation by the police shows that the Whitechapel woman who reported this morning that she had been attacked by a man is a prostitute of the lowest order. She suffered only a slight abrasion of the skin on the throat. The police place no credit on her story of the attack; they believe she inflicted the injury herself while drunk.

£500 FINE.

At the meeting of the Parnell commission today, Reid, counsel for Edward Harrington, stated that Harrington did not choose to adopt the course he advised relating to the article abusing the commission which appeared in Harrington's paper, the Kerry Sentinel; therefore he (acid) was not in a position to say anything.

Justice Hannan asked Harrington if he had anything to say.

Harrington replied that he had no statement to make except that he would accept the responsibility for what appeared in his paper.

The judges retired and Harrington conversed unconcernedly with his brother Timothy until their return. In ten minutes the judges reappeared. Judge Hannan said he regretted that Harrington refused to adopt Reid's advice. It would be wasting words to indicate how serious was the contempt of court of which his paper had been guilty. It was necessary that the authority of the court should be maintained, therefore such things must be stopped. He then fined Harrington £500.

TAKING TESTIMONY

was resumed. George Curtin gave the details of the murder of his father. After the murder of his father the Curtin family were boycotted. Their servants were compelled to leave their service. Curtin testified that he was a member of the league when it was first organized. His father was vice-president of a branch. Witness had no reason to believe that the league was implicated in the crime against his family. Various branches of the league had denounced the murder of his father.

Norway Fitzman deposed that in June, 1887, a letter signed by a man named Dowling, secretary of a branch of the league, was received by her father requesting him to attend a meeting. Her father did not go. After this the people's demeanor toward her father changed. He obtained police protection.

The witness gave in detail the facts in connection with the shooting of her father while on his way to Listowel fair. Her father and uncle had disagreed respecting the farm on which her father resided. The people sided with her uncle. She knew the league had been suppressed in County Kerry.

A Counsel for the Parnellites, read an article in the Kerry Sentinel, condemning the murder of Fitzmaurice, regretting that the League had been suppressed, and the beneficial effects and lost thereby.

The people here are greatly excited over the matter, and Parsons' arrest was all that saved him from being mobbed. He will be tried tomorrow for assault, false imprisonment and cruelty.

Parsons was released on bail this evening and will appear tomorrow. He alleges the Pole had been showing signs of insanity and that he was going to send him back to New York. The Pole and his friends refute this assertion and tell a story of Parsons' cruelty which has created great excitement. The Pole says he has had to work since last spring from early morning till late at night, while Sundays he was kept at work in the barn. He had been promised $12.50 per month, but never received a cent, and had very poor food.
