The Economic Side of the Question Intelligently Discussed by the President of the California State Board of Trade.

In the discussion of the economic side of the irrigation question, the report of the President of the State Board of Trade, A. C. Chapman, is very pertinent, and it is not too much to say that it is one of the most valuable contributions to the subject that has been made in California.

It is not without its importance that the cost of irrigation by pumping plants is discussed. The cost of water is a factor of great importance in the irrigation of the desert, and it is not too much to say that it is one of the most important factors in the question.
