People who are always wishing for something new should try the neuralgia

Devotion to public opinion was evinced by a lady aged eighty, who recently married a man of a corresponding appropriate age, because, she said, "he comes about my house so much, if I don't marry him people will talk."

How does that look, ch?" said a big-fisted Wall street man to a friend, hold-ing up one of his brawny hands. "That," said the friend, "looks as though you'd gone short of scap."

A gentleman did not always agree with his wife, nor she with him. On one occasion she summoned a physician, declaring that her husband had poisoned her. The husband loudly protested his innocence, and offered as a clincher this test: "Doctor, open her right here on the spot; I'm willing."

"I'm not used to begging," said a lit-tle girl to a lady of whom she had ask-ed aims, "because only two weeks ago my father was a merchant." "Why, child, how could you be reduced to poverty so soon?" "My father took a bad bill at his peanut stand and it ruined

The old notion that odorous flowers are injurious to the health seems to have been quite overturned by some recent experiments. It is found that flowers with powerful perfumes, such as the hyacinthe, heliotrope, mignonette, etc., develop large quantities of czone, which are of great hygienic value in the purification of the air in marshy districts.

Up at a Pennsylvania town, they had many years ago a bank that was seized with a prevailing epidemic. The premonitory symptoms, in the form of a run, alarmed the officers, as they saw the bills coming in and the silver and gold flowing out. Pat came in with the rest, and pulling out three ten-dollar bills, begged the favor of three gold eagles for the same. The President of eagles for the same. The President of the bank was standing by, and said to

"Why, those bills are better than the specie." "Be sure! and, by Jabers, it was wanten you to have the best, my darlin, that I brought 'em to yer's."

And taking the gold he walked away, quite content with letting the bank have the rage.
