The "Strathelyde" Inquest. The bodies of the victims of the Strath-dyde disaster was concluded to-day. The jury, after an hour and a half's deliberation, returned a verdict of manslaughter against the officer is charge of the steamer Franconia, and expressed indignation against the officers of that steamer for steaming away without rendering any aid. The jury also censured the captain of the tug which, in answer to the Franconia's signals, went to her instead of to the wrecked yes.

Illness of the Sultan - The Suc Canal. The Times has a letter from Pera The Times has a letter from Pera, commenting on the Sultan's recent indisposition. The writer says that the most ominous rumors were spread about as to the gravity of the Padishah's illness, and speculation was aftoat as to what ithe people might be looking forward to should affairs come to the worst. The Sultan's scheme about altering the order of succession to the throng seems tan's scheme about altering the order of succession to the throne seems to have been abandoned, and the heir is not the Sultan's eldest son, but his brother.

In the House of Commons, this evening, the Marquis of Hartington asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer a question relating to the Suez Canal shares. In reply, Sir Stafford Northcote stated that Stokes and M. de Lasps were negotiating in relation to the modification of the Suez canal dues, but the new modifications modification of the Sues canal dues, but the new modifications could not operate until they were approved by the Khedive, the Sublime Porte, and the maratime powers interested; the negotiations were progressing very satisfactorily, and Stokes would soon return to Hagiand.
