

MAIN BODY OF LEAGUERS COMING

Big Contingent Will Arrive in Salt Lake This Evening.

TOMORROW AT SALT LAKE.

Program Arranged for the Visitors—Two Free Organ Recitals at Tabernacle Every Day During Stay Here.

This afternoon a committee of local Methodists left for Thistle Junction to meet the first regular delegation of Epworth Leaguers. Farley, Misses Etie Stalter, Clara Gilson and Lena Crome.

The train which arrives tonight will bear the stonemason Epworth League people, the strangers who have been arriving in this city during the past twenty-four hours being mainly tourists who have availed themselves of the cheap rates to make a trip across the continent. Tomorrow another committee will go down to Thistle to welcome the strangers and incidentally furnish them with copies of the Utah Methodist, which has issued a special number replete with information which will be of interest to the visitors. This committee will be comprised of: Messrs. Gresson, Plummer and E. B. Shepard, the Misses Vester Patterson, Lizzie Campbell, Clara Aiken, Stella Clark, Della Wake and Anna Barker. Messrs. C. A. Vincent, Dean Hamilton, J. H. Wilkins, E. B. Farley, A. B. Berkeley, F. E. Goodwin, O. H. Johnson, R. R. Stewart and W. A. Butz.

Already there is a press of strange faces upon the streets of Salt Lake City, and the hotels, restaurants and resorts are doing a thriving business. It is estimated that by Sunday there will be close upon 10,000 people from outside this state in the city. It goes without saying that the hotels will be taxed to their full capacity, at the same time the major portion will inhabit the cars in which they came west and they will be attracted back to the yards. Tomorrow will essentially be a big day and General Superintendent A. E. Welby of the Rio Grande Western has made all preparations for the successful handling of the heavy traffic.

The following informal program has been arranged for the entertainment of the visitors while here.

TWENTY TO ONE WAS THE SCORE.

Maccabees Undone by Griffin's White Wings.

A BIG BUNCH OF ERRORS.

Knighthood Wasn't in Flower This Morning at Walker's Field—Errorless Game by Salt Lake.

O the large and ludicrous score of 20 to 1, the White Wings sportively trimmed the Maccabees at Walker's field this morning. There was nothing to it but errors and bungling on the part of the Maccabees who had a lot of good playing by Griffin's proteges. Such a combination was destined to bring a huge cluster of runs, and it would have brought more had not the Salt Lake been kind and gracious. There was fraternal feeling everywhere, as there should have been in a game in which the Maccabees took part. It was the presence of the very atmosphere of good will that kept the score down from 43 to an insignificant 20 tallies.

The Maccabees made their only run in the eighth, and it was an earned score. It couldn't have been anything else the way the White Wings practiced this morning—without an error throughout the nine acts. Woods, a big, husky lad, with a dislocated eye-brow on his upper lip, lined a clean double after a bouncer from the left garden. Morton came next to the willow with a pretty little single and Woods crossed the threshold.

Then there was a knock-out. The 200 Maccabees who had loyally come out to the game without knowing just what to expect, raised bedlam for a few long moments. It was clear that after the seven innings which they didn't get a run for their money, the last thing they expected on this summery day was a tally. When it came they were overjoyed, and they left the grounds all spelled up as though they had won the game instead of having a bunch of 20 to their discredit.

The White Wings had a good time, and while they didn't seem to be making any effort to run up a score, still when it looked dangerous, they played pretty fast ball until the situation was no longer precarious. Billy Mack turned a hand-spring as he crossed the home plate. Fred Hawley caught a sizzler hot from the stick and stopped to take a bite out of it before tossing it over to the initial, and Prof. Williams was catching backwards part of the time. That's the way they went through the game without an error. If they show as much ginger on Sunday and play the game seriously, Mr. Clinton's guess of 32 errors will know they have been in the game. "The score," R. H. E. Salt Lake, 20 15 0 Maccabees, 1 8 15

He has about 11,000 bushels of corn now on hand from his Nebraska farm, and although offered good prices he has declined to sell. Mr. Ails says the present prices are higher than they have been for several years and it will have a ruinous effect upon many who are raising cattle and hogs. The drought is responsible for the advanced prices.

TWO CAVE-INS IN ALTUS TUNNEL

Hundreds of Tons of Rock and Earth Block the Big Bore.

NO TRAINS UNTIL TUESDAY.

Passenger Train Yesterday Had a Narrow Escape From a Smash-up—Engineer Saw His Danger.

There will be no train to Park City before Sunday, if then. The cave-in in the Altus tunnel yesterday is of such a nature that it will be impossible to clear away the debris and put in the broken timbers before that time. Chief Engineer Yand of the Rio Grande Western when seen this morning on his return from the scene of the slip, stated that in his estimation there were fully 100 car loads of dirt and rock to be removed. "There is a big force of men at work on it," he said, "and it will be cleared away in time to have trains running by Sunday. The gangs made good progress yesterday and this morning everything will be all right in a few days again."

The cave-in which is situated some distance in the tunnel was occasioned by the fact that the timber which supported a slide, the timbers buckled and the tunnel was blocked. Joseph G. Bywater, the engineer in charge of the passenger train yesterday, as is the custom, approached the tunnel very slowly and on looking ahead failed to see light through the bore. He promptly stopped his train and investigated the cause with the result that the train returned to Salt Lake yesterday afternoon upon instructions from the office of General Superintendent Welby.

The Altus tunnel is about one year old, is 1,100 feet in length and cost in the neighborhood of $100,000. It was heavily timbered, but owing to the nature of the soil the company now contemplates relining it with rock and cement.

ANOTHER CAVE-IN.

Later—Shortly before noon today the gangs of men working on the cave-in at the Altus tunnel on the Park City branch of the Rio Grande Western had a narrow escape from being buried under a second slide in the center of the tunnel. A gentleman who arrived in this city late this afternoon from the scene stated that the second cave-in is considerably worse than the first, and that it will not be possible to clear the line, providing no more timbers given, until late on Monday night. The cave-in is situated about a mile or more of the bore and several hundred tons of earth, rocks and gravel have fallen.

As there is no engine on the Park City side of the blockade, it is not thought that there will be any communication with Park City over the Western for several days to come. The company is now figuring upon the proposition of running a train to the tunnel and having the passengers in an out of Park City the rest of the way by team, or else sending an engine over the Union Pacific tracks via Ogden and Coalville so as to restore communication.

AMUSEMENTS.

The presence of so many Epworth Leaguers in the city is having a beneficial effect on the nightly attendance at the Salt Palace, where "Pinafore" is the bill.

Next week "Olivette" will be produced, with Miss Kirwin in the title role, and Lottie Levy Kahn, it is positively announced, will appear as the courtesan.
