

BRITISH LOSSES WERE OVER 2,000

Estimates Now Made of Spion Kop,
by English Papers.

GEN. BULLER TELLS OF 1,300

Losses of the War Reported to Date are 9,658 Men.

London, Feb. 1.—The supplemental list of casualties in the morning papers, making 1,300 reported thus far from Gen. Buller's operations north of the Tugela, the Daily Chronicle estimates that the total exceeds 2,000. The 40 per cent of Spion Kop is greater than any British force ever suffered, except possibly at Albuera, Spain, 1811.

The admiral has warned all half-pay naval officers to hold themselves in readiness for service. This, with the fact that able seamen not thoroughly experienced, have been withdrawn from the channel squadron, is taken to indicate the early mobilization of the reserve fleet, especially a division.

At a meeting of the house of commons yesterday a resolution expressing absolute confidence in whatever the government thought necessary concerning the war in South Africa, was adopted by a vote of 191 to 10.

Mr. Chamberlain has called another meeting of the cabinet, which will meet Friday afternoon to consider the situation. Public spirits are at very low ebb.

A book has been published containing a quantity of correspondence relating to the defense of Natal. It contains urgent letters and telegrams sent to the British government, and is as early as May last up to the date of the battle of Spion Kop. It is a very interesting and valuable book.

The Natal ministry are more alarmed, and on September 6th more reinforcements were ordered to Natal. The correspondence shows that the British government was not fully aware of the situation in Natal, and that the British army was in a very weak position.

Mr. Chamberlain, in a further dispatch to the Morning Post, which describes the recrossing of the Tugela, says: "The army is exhausted, not rested, Gen. Buller will persevere and will come right in the end."

The whole method of the nation is to the Morning Post, which describes the recrossing of the Tugela, says: "The army is exhausted, not rested, Gen. Buller will persevere and will come right in the end."

The Portuguese authorities are at the present time exercising strict surveillance. The governor has notified the consuls that the Portuguese army is in a very weak position, and that the British army is in a very strong position.

The latest advice from Ladysmith shows the existence of better conditions than generally believed. The British army is in a very strong position, and the Portuguese army is in a very weak position.

The possibility of Gen. Buller making another dash appears to depend on the exact position of Gen. Buller's army. The British army is in a very strong position, and the Portuguese army is in a very weak position.

The possibility of Gen. Buller making another dash appears to depend on the exact position of Gen. Buller's army. The British army is in a very strong position, and the Portuguese army is in a very weak position.

The possibility of Gen. Buller making another dash appears to depend on the exact position of Gen. Buller's army. The British army is in a very strong position, and the Portuguese army is in a very weak position.

The possibility of Gen. Buller making another dash appears to depend on the exact position of Gen. Buller's army. The British army is in a very strong position, and the Portuguese army is in a very weak position.

The possibility of Gen. Buller making another dash appears to depend on the exact position of Gen. Buller's army. The British army is in a very strong position, and the Portuguese army is in a very weak position.

WHAT AILS YOU!

Is It Your Kidneys? Try This Test and See.

Why ask a physician to find out whether your kidneys are diseased. Take a glass tumbler and fill it with urine. If there is a sediment after standing twenty-four hours, your kidneys are sick. If you have a desire to urinate often, a pain in the back, or if your urine stains linen, you should at once take Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, as delay is dangerous. There is no question about its being the best and surest medicine in the world for any and all diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and of the urinary passages. Rheumatism, Dyspepsia, constipation of the bowels, and the sicknesses peculiar to women. It quickly relieves inability to hold urine, and the necessity of urinating often during the night. It stops that scalding pain when passing urine and corrects the bad effects of whisky and beer.

It is sold by all druggists at one dollar a bottle. You can have a trial bottle and pamphlet of valuable medical advice sent free by mail postpaid, by mentioning this paper and sending your address to the Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y. The publishers of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this liberal offer.

position, had his head taken clean off by a shell. To the amazement of his comrades, the headless trunk quietly rose, stood upright a few seconds and then fell.

A dispatch to the Times from Pietermaritzburg, dated Sunday last, says: "Col. Thornycroft had a narrow escape last week. He went to meet a Boer force of 100 men, which was a party, but having become suspicious, he told the Boer commander that he would not permit. Both retired and the Boers fired a volley, the colonel only escaping in consequence of the Boers' bad shooting."

The war office has issued an additional casualty list of the battle of Spion Kop, January 24th, and of the engagements at Ventersburg, January 17th and 20th. The additional list numbers 120 men killed, 201 wounded and 61 missing, a total of 382. With 174 additional casualties being for the fighting at Ventersburg, the total loss since the beginning of the war is placed at 9,658 men.

Field Marshal Lord Roberts authorized the representative of the Associated Press to say that as a result of his inspection of the hospital service here, he is perfectly satisfied that everything medical skill suggests for the benefit and comfort of the sick and wounded has been done. He is satisfied the home authorities are sending out all the nurses who will possibly be required.

Brought Home in Irons.

San Francisco, Feb. 1.—Daniel Moran, 18 years old, a San Francisco boy, was shipped on the transport Thomas at New York under the name of Pollard, was brought home in irons. The officers say he was mutinous, threatened to kill the captain, assaulted two officers and was taken to the hospital. He is being held in irons, and the charges, however, are denied by the man.

SENATOR HANNA'S JUDGMENT.

Bryan Will be Nominated for President, but Not Elected.

New York, Feb. 1.—Senator Marcus A. Hanna, chairman of the Republican national committee, was at the Waldorf-Astoria last night. H. C. Payne, national committeeman from Wisconsin, was asked whom he favored for president. McKimley's running mate to be nominated at the convention. Three weeks ago he said he was in favor of a New Yorker whose political life is ended. Mr. Payne said last night he had talked with this man and that now he no longer regarded him as a possibility.

"But we western men," he added, "think the nomination should go to New York."

It was suggested that there was only one avowed candidate in this State. "Do you favor Lieut. Governor Woodruff?" was asked.

"I must refuse to discuss the matter any further," said Mr. Payne with some emphasis. Hanna was asked what he thought of the statement made by William J. Bryan that he would stick to the sixteen to one policy. He reflected a moment and said:

"Ask John M. Allen, of Mississippi."

"Ask John M. Allen, of Mississippi," said Mr. Allen. "It is my guess that sixteen to one is a sure winner. We have other cards up our sleeve, and it is those other cards that Senator Hanna is talking about."

Death of a Miser.

Salinas, Cal., Feb. 1.—John E. Whitworth died at Chular on January 25th, apparently in poverty. Since then $15,000, contained in a box and cans, has been found under the floor of his cabin. Bank books showing that he had $13,000 on deposit were also found. He was ranchman for David Jacks, the millionaire land owner.

Given Up

to die several times, yet I am spared to tell how I was saved," writes Mrs. A. A. Stowe, 237 N. 4th St., San Jose, Cal. "I had valular heart trouble so severe that I was pronounced 'gone' two different times. The valves of my heart failed to work properly, and circulation was so sluggish that the slightest exertion produced fainting. There is no hope," said my physician, so I decided to try Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and the result I consider miraculous. I am satisfied it saved my life."

DR. MILES' Heart Cure is sold by all druggists on guarantee first bottle benefits or money back. Book on heart and nerves sent free. Dr. Miles Medical Company, Elkhart, Ind.

KENTUCKY HAS TWO GOVERNORS

Majority of Legislators Say Goebel is Elected, and He is Sworn In.

WOUNDED MAN YET ALIVE.

Issues a Counter-Proclamation in Response to Governor Taylor's Orders to the State Guard.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 1.—At 1:10 o'clock this (Thursday) morning Mr. Goebel was asleep. His physicians retired and nobody is in the sick room except the nurses.

At 11:30 o'clock he was better than at any time during the day. He was then resting comfortably, no unfavorable symptoms had appeared, and it was announced that he would unquestionably get through the night in good shape.

All yesterday the shadow of the death of Mr. Goebel hung over the Capitol hotel. His strength began to fail him late in the morning. The bustle and excitement of the morning, which despite all precautions, penetrated into his quiet room, had a most serious effect upon him. An noon it was declared that he could live but a short time, and at 1 o'clock it was said death was upon him. The halls and stairways were filled with people who sat in silence excepting to hear at any moment that the end had come.

The afternoon wore away, however, and as evening drew on he seemed to gain new strength and appeared distinctly better. He was not at the moment unconscious, and never did his courage abate for an instant.

He called for a clergyman during the afternoon, and Rev. P. F. Talerford and Frisbon Chaplain Wallace were twice with him. Later, a friend residing a short distance in the country came in and remained for an hour at his bedside.

The physicians declared there was nothing that could have kept him so long but his wonderful nerve and will power. They gave absolutely no hope, and said that death at the farthest could not be further away than a few hours.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 31.—William Goebel was, shortly before 9 o'clock to-night, sworn in as governor of Kentucky and J. C. Beckham, a few minutes later took the oath as lieutenant-governor. The oath was administered to both men by Chief Justice Hazelrigg of the court of appeals.

TAKING THE OATH OF OFFICE.

As soon as the last man actually needed had affixed his signature to the statement, word was sent to the residence of Chief Justice Hazelrigg of the State of Kentucky, and thence to the Capitol hotel, passed directly up stairs to the room of Mr. Goebel and administered the oath of office. Mr. Goebel was propped up with pillows, and was able to raise his hand only with the greatest difficulty. He listened to the words of Judge Hazelrigg.

When the oath had been given Mr. Goebel sank back exhausted, the effort having been almost too much for his strength. There were in the room at the time the oath was administered, besides Mr. Goebel and Judge Hazelrigg, Arthur Goebel, brother of the wounded man, Mrs. Wach, his sister, and Percy Haley, his campaign manager, and two or three intimate friends.

Mr. Goebel was unable to say anything regarding the matter, but the contented smile on his face bore strong witness to the pleasure that he felt.

Immediately on leaving the room where the oath was administered, Mr. Goebel, Judge Hazelrigg went to an adjoining room where he swore in Mr. Beckham as lieutenant-governor. This done, he returned to his home. Judge Hazelrigg declined to make any statement concerning the matter in which the oath had been conferred upon the Democratic contestants.

"A majority of both houses of the legislature declared for them," he said, "and when I was asked to swear them in, I was not left with me to administer the oath of office. The proceeding was of course entirely legal and proper. I would not have done as I did had it been otherwise."

ACTS AS GOVERNOR.

Mr. Goebel, as soon as he was assured that he was legally governor of Kentucky took prompt action regarding the military arm of the service. Two orders were quickly prepared for his signature, the first of which discharged Adj. Gen. Daniel Collier from office and appointed Gen. John B. Castleman of Louisville as his successor. The second was directed to the commander of the militia now stationed in this city, directing them to return to their homes. Word was at once telegraphed to Gen. Castleman to appoint him, and he is expected in the city tomorrow morning.

There is possibility of trouble in the matter of the control of the State troops. The regulars in the militia are being reorganized, and are for the most part made up of Republicans and personal followers of Taylor. It is not certain whether they will obey the order issued by Gov. Goebel, and acting for them to do so will almost certainly result in trouble. Some of the officers intimate tonight that they would not obey the order to leave, although they were careful to not say so in specific terms.

Twenty-six members of the house and senate signed the statement, which included some strong criticism of the actions of Gov. Taylor in adjourning the legislature and preventing it from meeting by the use of militia. The house and senate will make another effort to meet tomorrow, but the Democrats say they do not expect any trouble. If they are prevented by the militia from entering the hall, they will meet somewhere else. They say that no violence will be offered to anybody, although the members of the legislature are advised that the troops are acting illegally.

It was announced by members of the militia tonight that the soldiers now under arms here, about 300 would obey the orders of Gov. Goebel. It is not expected that they will attack the comrades, but they will refuse to obey the orders of Gov. Taylor, and take their chances of court martial.

The Democrats had a unique plan for getting the legislature tonight, which would have been carried into effect had they not succeeded in securing the necessary signatures to the Goebel and Beckham statement in the evening. Frank Stevens played "A Poor Relation" the night before last tonight, and it was the intention of the Democratic representatives and senators to go to the entertainment one by one. At the end of the second act Speaker Trimble was to go upon the stage, call the legislators to order and adjourn the majority report of the contesting boards. The scheme would have probably been carried to a successful issue had the Democrats decided to attempt it.

Extreme vigilance is practiced by all the guards around the State house grounds tonight. The orders are more strict than they have been at any time heretofore, and nobody without a uniform is allowed inside the grounds. All passes issued earlier in the day were taken up, whenever presented.

Feb. 1.—At 3 o'clock this morning it is denied that Gen. Castleman has been appointed adjutant general. Senator Goebel is reported as asleep. All is quiet at the Capitol hotel.

SAYS HE SHOT GOEBEL.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 31.—James Sutton, sheriff of Whitley county, who came here from Frankfort last night, is a prisoner in the county jail. At an early hour this morning at the Victoria hotel Sutton went up to the office of the clerk, brandishing two revolvers. "I am the man who shot Goebel," he said, "and I will never be taken alive."

The hotel manager promptly sent for the police, and on the appearance of the latter Sutton ran up stairs to the third story, and when he thought he was about to be captured opened a window and leaped out. He alighted on his feet, was uninjured and ran nearly a mile before he was arrested. The police believe Sutton is either a completely unbalanced mentally, or that he knows who shot Goebel. An effort to interview him after he was lodged in jail proved unsuccessful. He lay in a dark corner of his cell and refused to say a word.

1st contestee, for the office of governor, and between J. W. C. Beckham, contestant, and John Marshall, contestee, for the office of lieutenant-governor. He decided said contest in favor of the contestants in each case, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was then and there legally elected governor of the commonwealth of Kentucky, and adjourned in each case a report signed by more than half the members of each house, which was in the case of William Goebel, had received the highest number of legal votes cast at the November election, 1899, and was