WALTER A. WOOD,
IMPROVED HARVESTING MACHINES
FOR 1884.

THE "WOOD" IMPROVED IRON FRAME TWINE BINDER IS MORE simple in construction, has fewer parts, and is the most perfect automatic Self Binder ever put upon the market. Upon the following points we challenge comparison: DURABILITY, SIMPLICITY, EASE OF MANAGEMENT AND ADJUSTMENT, LIGHTNESS OF DRAFT, CERTAINTY OF BINDING, SECURITY OF KNOT TIED.

Milwaukee, LaCrosse, Sparta, Madison, Fort Howard (Green Bay), Wis., Winona, Owatonna, Mankato, Minn., Cedar Rapids, Des Moines, Webster City, Algona, Clinton, Marshalltown, Iowa, Freeport, Elgin, Rockford, Ill., are amongst its 800 local stations on its lines.

Among a few of the numerous points of superiority enjoyed by the patrons of this road, are the DAY COACHES, which are the finest that human art and ingenuity can create; its PALATIAL SLEEPING CARS, which are models of comfort and convenience; its PALACE DRAWING ROOM CARS, which are unsurpassed by any; and its widely celebrated the like of which are not run by any other road anywhere. In short, it is asserted that IT IS THE BEST EQUIPPED ROAD IN THE WORLD.

All points of interest North, Northwest and West of Chicago, business centres, summer resorts and noted hunting and fishing grounds are accessible by the various branches of this road.

It owns and controls over 5,000 miles of road and has over four hundred passenger conductors constantly caring for its millions of patrons.

Ask your ticket agents for tickets via this route, AND TAKE NONE OTHER. All leading ticket agents sell them. It costs no more to travel on this route, that gives first-class accommodations, than it does to go by the poorly equipped roads.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

SYNOPSIS OF REMARKS MADE AT THE TABERNACLE.

President George Q. Cannon addressed the congregation. He read the 4th chapter of Malachi, in relation to the coming of Elijah to turn the heart of the fathers to the children and the heart of the children to their fathers, before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the Lord. Referred to the dedication of the Logan Temple and the great rejoicing over its completion, and contrasted, comparatively speaking, circumstances surrounding those who had labored so faithfully to build it, and the troublous times experienced by those who, in the midst of mobs and oppression, erected the Temple at Nauvoo. Still this people had not been free from assault and the influence of combinations for their destruction, things which no ordinary faith of man could have endured and persevered under. Unusual faith had been required and exhibited, for the building of temples was an important branch of the work of the great God, and would naturally excite opposition from the Evil One whose aim and desire was to retard the work.

The two great forces which had been arrayed against each other from the beginning had been brought out prominently in this day, ever since the inception of this work, and the Savior's words had been fully exemplified: "I came not to bring peace but a sword, and a man's enemies shall be of his own household." Our destruction had seemed imminent many times, but through the blessing of God we had survived. The work had increased even as a spark, which is seemed at first as if one puff of wind would blow out, until its blaze now illuminated the horizon and it was watched with interest from afar.

The promises made for this work were as marvelous as their fulfillment had been. Men wondered why we believe in it and in the mission of Joseph Smith as a prophet. To him it had always seemed extraordinary that reasonable men could doubt the truth of these things or fail to accept them, for the evidence in their favor was overwhelming. An unlearned boy had enunciated doctrines which could not be contested by scripture nor by all the learning of the age, and had kept up an organization that was acknowledged to be the most perfect and magnificent that was known. The world said these were the works of man, but Joseph Smith gave the glory to God, and testified that they were revealed to him from heaven through the ministrations of Angels.

The speaker read Joseph's account of the visit of the angel Moroni, and commented on the remarkable statement made by him, that the boy Joseph's name should be had for good and for evil among all people," when it seemed so unlikely of fulfillment and yet had thus far been so wonderfully fulfilled. This Prophet foresaw and predicted with accuracy the growth of this Church with all its trials and persecutions. He deceived none with the idea of exemption from hardship. The Elders were told that they must expect persecution as the inevitable consequence of preaching the Gospel, and they in turn told the people that they must be willing to lay down life itself, if need be, if they embraced the Gospel and lived true to its teachings.

The Elders were sent forth as gleaners to glean the grapes after the vintage was over and were taught that they must not expect great conversions among the Gentiles—that such things were reserved until the Gospel should be taken from them and be sent to the House of Israel. Fifty-four years had proved the truth of this. This people had been gathered by small handfuls, and in many instances had been prepared and were waiting for the light when it came to them. Such was the case with President John Taylor and President Woodruff. His own experience in the Sandwich Islands had taught him that there was greater faith among the Polynesian races, who, like the Lamanites, were of the House of Israel, than among the Gentiles, and they accepted the Gospel with less difficulty than the Saints who were gathered from among the Gentiles who had much of gentile blood in their veins.

The speaker now adverted to the prophecy of Malachi, in relation to Elijah's coming, which was a most remarkable one in view of these days of unbelief. He did not know how the Christian world, with all their antipathy for and unbelief in new revelation, would arrange for the coming of this prophet, who was to be sent before the great and dreadful day of the Lord. But it was the testimony of the Latter-day Saints that he had come. He here read the account of the vision of Joseph Smith and Oliver Cowdery in the Kirtland Temple, wherein they testified and bore record that they saw the son of God and that among other glorious personages, Elijah appeared and delivered to Joseph the keys of turning the hears of the fathers to the children and the hearts of the children to their fathers.

It was an easy matter to make such a statement, but not so easy to foretell accurately the results that would follow, but this Joseph Smith had also done. The building of temples in which ordinances might be and were being performed for the salvation of the dead, was one result, and the extraordinary interest awakened in regard to genealogy, especially in New England, where the ancestors of many of the Latter-day Saints dwelt, was another proof that Joseph was a prophet, that Elijah had come, and that the hearts of the children were turning toward their fathers. The speaker proceeded to show the beauty and glory of the doctrine of vicarious action by the living in behalf of the dead, so grand and merciful compared with the Christian doctrine that the greater part of the human race were to be damned eternally, and referred to other prophecies of Joseph Smith which the wicked by their acts had fulfilled or were fulfilling, and thereby unwittingly proving him to have been an inspired man.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE OLD NUISANCE.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 26, 1884.

Editor Deseret News:

You likely remember the agitation about a year ago regarding the erection of an oil warehouse by the Standard Oil Company on the southeast corner of block 100, plat A, of this city. At that time the inhabitants and property-owners in said vicinity, by petitions to our City Council, protested most earnestly against the erection of an oil warehouse on the site named, which was followed by a city ordinance designed to obviate, to some extent, the the anticipated danger attendant upon storing such large quantities within the limits of the city. But said ordinance has never been enforced, and therefore, so far as any good has resulted therefrom, might just as well never have existed.

Parties interested in the matter supposed that the police would take notice of the violation of said ordinance and thereby be instrumental of bringing offending parties to justice, the same as for infractions of any rule or regulation of our city government. But, not failing, an individual or two notified what was supposed to be proper authority that the ordinance in question was being violated with impunity, still, as yet, nothing has been done to prevent it so far as can be seen by the public. The result of this is that people living in that vicinity have been and yet are in constant apprehension of danger of the possible, not to say probable, explosion of the large quantities of oil that have been stored in said warehouse. They have felt and yet feel that their rights have been unnecessarily trampled upon, and their property has been greatly depreciated by the erection and subsequent use of said warehouse.

An agent or employee of the Standard Oil Company managed last winter to the effect that the city authorities had located said warehouse on its present site, and that the litigation was an important part of the Standard Oil Company's regular business, they purposed staying just where they are, etc. Can it be possible that our city authorities feel themselves powerless to protect the rights of the people when menaced, yea, trodden upon, by such aggressive and dangerous influences? And if so, where are the people to look for protection? Some may plead commercial necessity, but said warehouse could well enough have been placed where it would not have injured anyone, where the Oil Company would not have been inconvenienced to the extent to justify adding a particle to present price of oil. And besides, the founders of this city did not journey the many hundreds of miles to this then uninviting region solely to [illegible] for the operations of soulless corporations. Again, they prospered pretty well and were not without oil to burn when the latter was hauled by ox teams across the plains; therefore a few rods outside the settled portions of the city need not have left us altogether without light.

Your correspondent is confident that with perhaps an individual exception or two, the City Council had no desire or expectation in the least to assist any powerful party towards oppressing the people of this city, but possibly they allowed their obliging dispositions to be taken advantage of, by being unduly hurried into some sort of action that a little caution and reflection would have made impossible.

Respectfully, 47ER.

TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS and DISORDERED LIVER.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, a feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. PRICKLY ASH

BITTERS

The majority of the ills of the human body arise from a derangement of the Liver, affecting both the stomach and bowels. In order to effect a cure, it is necessary to remove the cause. Irregular and sluggish action of the Bowels, Headache, Sickness at the Stomach, Pain in the Back and Loins, etc., indicate that the Liver is at fault, and that nature requires assistance to enable this organ to throw off impurities.

Prickly Ash Bitters are specially compounded for this purpose. They are mild in their action and effective as a cure; are pleasant to the taste and taken easily by both children and adults. Taken according to directions, they are a safe and pleasant remedy for Dyspepsia, General Debility, Habitual Constipation, Diseased Kidneys, etc., etc. As a Blood Purifier they are superior to any other medicine, cleansing the system thoroughly, and imparting new life and energy to the whole. It is a medicine and not an intoxicating beverage.
