LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

THEATRICAL.—To-night will be presented at the thrilling sensational five act drama, "The Angel of Midnight." To-morrow Friday evening Mrs. Marietta Ravel takes her farewell benefit. Her engagement has been a success and it is to be hoped that theatre-goers will testify to the pleasure her artistic performances have afforded by turning out at the benefit. She will make her last appearance at the Theatre on Saturday night.

REMAINS FOUND.—Mr. S. J. Brown, of the 5th Ward, called this morning and informed us that while a number of boys were hunting in a pasture, about a quarter of a mile south-west of Mr. John Van Cott's place, west of State road, they discovered the remains of a man, in a growth of bushes. It is present that the body must have laid there for a long time, being in a advanced state of decomposition that, as it was approached, a slight ripple of the water, with which it was partially covered, caused portions of it to fall in pieces. The following is a description of the body as noted: The boy said give it: A little over 5 feet in height, dark coat, light colored pants and narrow foot shows.

CARLESS SHOOTING.—We are informed by an employe of this office, who resides on the northern part of the bench north of the Twentieth Ward, that last evening, when his wife was a short distance from the house, wheeling a perambulator with a child in it, a bullet came whizzing along and struck the ground not more than five yards in front of her. She happened to stop a few moments to adjust the perambulator, otherwise the result might have been fatal to herself or child. The bullet, which was afterward picked up by our informant, was found to have come from a long range rifle, and it apparently came from the vicinity of Arsenal Hill, across City Creek, Kansas. The evil of careless shooting has been frequently alluded to in our columns, and we trust that the disinterested persons, who take endurance the persons and lives of their fellow beings, will be so severely tried as to induce them to desist from deterring others from indulging in such an unmanly and criminal practice.

THAT DRUGGET.—The English Druggist advertised in our columns as having been received from England direct, has a very beautiful appearance. With a richness of color, it combines a great variety of style and design. When laid it can be detected from genuine woven carpet only on close inspection, and it is sold at low figures.

CURSUS FOR CANCER.—This disease is very prevalent in this region at certain seasons of the year, and often assumes a very virulent form, especially among children, many of whom die from this cause and its complications. It is very desirable therefore that some effective remedy should be known and we believe we can recommend one which will answer the purpose. We have heard of no other remedy for people who have tried it and who state that its effects are not only certain but speedy. The article alluded to is simply chloride of potassium dissolved in water. This remedy has no side effects, and is safe for advice there regarding the disease alluded to.

THE LECTURE LAST NIGHT.—A large audience assembled last night in the Tabernacle to listen to Elder Miles Grant, who has rendered himself somewhat famous as an enthusiastic second adventist preacher. His subject—"Proof that the bible came from an Omnipotent and Omiscient Being," was ably handled and in a style, so far as the matter was concerned, that was familiar to most of the audience. After expressing the pleasure he felt at what he had seen here and the kind reception given him by all whom he met and the courtesy shown him by President Young, he took a text; Dan. 2-4, which speaks of the kingdom that the God of Heaven would set up in the last days. He stated that there existed all over the world a widespread disbelief in the divine authenticity of the bible, and that he himself had, twenty-eight years ago, been an atheist. If the cause so clearly and convincingly proved of the bible's divine origin, he could conceive of evidence that it emanated from an Omnipotent Being, for the very intelligent would show they must have possessed of all the proofs necessary to control circumstances so that nothing could interfere to prevent their consummation. The predictions of the prophets relating to the first advent of Christ were literally fulfilled.

Elder Grant, to illustrate his subject, exhibited, on canvas, a figure intended to represent the one seen by Nebuchadnezzar in his dream, and alluded to the handwriting on the wall, which was translated by Basile, and also the beasts and other prophecies seen in the vision. In his opinion, he showed that those things foretold that our great dominion kingdom would successively rule and hold sway on the earth, beginning with the Babylonian kingdom or the land of Gold. He quoted from history to prove his contention, and the predictions indicated by those things, showing that three of the powers had existed and passed away and that we were living somewhere in the fourth, or the state of transition between the third and fourth of the image and the period when the stone which was to be "out of the mountain without hands" would roll and strike the feet and toes of the image and break it in pieces. He did not, however, propose to speak to-night. An adequate idea of the lecture cannot be conveyed in a brief synopsis. Its delivery occupied about one hour.

As a speaker Elder Grant is remarkably good, and his delivery, like those of the simple and virginality of his style, combined with his earnestness of manner, charms and enlist the sympathies of his audience. We have heard but one speech from him, and it was well worth the price of admission. They were highly entertained. On Friday evening he will lecture at the same time and place. The lectures are free.

GOLD PAPE.—The finest stock of gold pape and holders that we have ever seen in this city is now offered for sale by Mr. James Dwyer, at his book and Stationery Depot, East Temple Street. They are from the manufactory of Leroy W. Fairchild & Co., of New York, who gained the medal premium awarded at the Paris Exposition in 1867 for the best gold pen. The magnificent gold pen (No. 9) of this firm deserves a premium, for it is the finest article of kind we ever saw. The stock of Mr. Dwyer are black rubber and gold-mounted telescopic holders, containing pencils and pens which are the most convenient and comfortable for carrying in the vest pocket. He has a fine variety of this class of holders, including silver plated and gold-plated extension case and pencils, gold and silver plated slide pens, and others with ebony handles, gold and ivory pencils, for ladies and gentlemen, which are very elegant, and sold alike without holders, of all numbers, so that every person who wishes to buy for his or her own use, or for the purpose of making a present to a friend, can be suited. Mr. Dwyer is determined, it appears, to make his house a first-class one, a place where the best goods in his line can be bought at prices which compare favorably with those charged in the east and west.
