EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Adjutant General of the army thinks that body should be increased by adding men to existing companies. He also recommends an increase of the retired list.

The Ogden Junction thinks that "Ogden ought, today, to be the leading business city in Utah, and is only restrained from so being by the dilatory policy of the railroad magnates."

The New York Sun says: "There seems to be plenty of money in Congress, notwithstanding the stringency of the times throughout the country." That must be the way the money goes.

Private Dalsell gives notice to a Washington paper that the next President of the United States will be the man who does the most in behalf of the soldiers' equalization bounty bill.

Last Monday, Nov. 26, New York City was to have a baby show in Midway Hall. Damaged babies not to be admitted. Physical defects only taken into consideration. Natural depravity no bar to admission.

The Postmaster General suggests two objections to the introduction of the metric system of weights and measures—the expense, and the difficulty and annoyance in introducing a new system for universal application.

There is a large amount of tobacco smoking in this city. It is not a good thing for the young to do. A youth of fourteen, at Charleston, Prince Edward's Island, recently came to his death through excessive smoking. He was frequently delirious for some time previously, from the same cause.

Gen. Steve Burbridge, of Kentucky, wanted a federal office dreadfully bad when he wrote to an influential friend in Washington in this way: "For God's sake get me an appointment; the seat of my breeches is gone, and my children are at the point of starvation."

The Atlantic Ocean has been given to much violence of late. Every steamer recently has had to contend with a succession of heavy storms, and old captains talk of no such weather before in their experience in one voyage.

The St. Louis Journal of Nov. 23 says: "A large number of what might almost be called non-descript persons passed through Carondelet yesterday morning on the way from East Tennessee to Utah. There were men, women and children, all sexes and ages apparently."

The New York Herald has the following concerning Captain Tyson's arctic expedition: "Washington, Nov. 28. Captain Tyson's arctic expedition has received a letter via Scotland from Captain Tyson, who commands the Florence, the advance vessel of the American arctic expedition. The letter is dated September 29, and reports Captain Tyson's safe arrival at Nimitille Harbor, Cumberland Gulf, after a tedious voyage of forty days. He proposes moving to the head of the gulf in a few days to go into winter quarters and carry out his instructions in reference to the collection of material. The crew are all in good health and spirits. Messrs. Sherman and Kunkin are reported as doing well in their respective departments."

THANKSGIVING.

To-morrow (Nov. 29) is Thanksgiving Day, by the ancient custom of the Pilgrim Fathers, by the modern custom of their descendants, and by the proclamations of the President of the United States and the Governor of the Territory, and by the general assent of the people. The design of the day, so far as reputable custom has developed it, seems to be to feast and be merry, and for the more religiously inclined to assemble in their several places of worship and return thanks to the Supreme Being for his goodness unto them thus far, and more especially during the year just passed and in the harvest recently gathered.

In accordance with the general and established custom of the country, the inhabitants of this part of the Union, generally, will observe the day, some in feasting and holiday, others in religious observances more or less, some in games and dances, others in "outs" or recreative journeys and visits of various kinds, some in going to the Theatre in the evening, or to some other place of amusement, some few probably in giving way to dissipation and brutal indulgence.

So far as the Thanksgiving part of the time is concerned, all have occasion for that. That is, the people of this part of the Union, and of this republic generally. Peace has been secured to the country. An exceedingly exciting crisis, followed and consequent upon the more exciting general elections of last year, has been passed with much tranquility. Alarming and destructive indications have been quelled or have subsided, though not without much damage and loss. An abundant harvest has been gathered throughout the country. The threatened grasshopper raids have proved to be a comparatively insignificant calamity. Congress has met and deliberated in special session without indulging in any very extraordinary rancor, and it is now about ready to convene in its usual annual and biennial session, to consider and legislate for, let us hope at least, the real welfare of the Union. The country has been at peace with foreign governments, and such peace continues, as also a like condition in domestic affairs. The late President of the United States has been received by foremost European nations in an enthusiastic manner, highly flattering not only to him, but also to every American. True, business generally has been dull, trade has been depressed, and thousands of citizens and denizens have lacked labor, and consequently have been brought down to suffer many privations.

But even in this respect things might have been far worse, and the outlook is much better than it might have been.

So far as this Territory is concerned, there is little to complain of, and much to be grateful for. One of the most liberal harvests known in the history of the Territory has been vouchsafed this year. There is abundance, especially of grain, on every hand, for man and beast. In a few places in the more northern counties grasshoppers did damage, but still there need be no suffering for food. There is abundance, and a sufficiency is easily obtainable for all, no matter their individual losses.

The passing year has been a very peaceable one to Utah. A grave event, long foreseen, and by some indecently harped upon and hoped for as the beginning of the certain and swift decay and disintegration of "Mormonism," has occurred, but it has passed away without the realization, or prospect of the realization, of such hopes. The efforts of the enemies of the Saints for their hurt have been frustrated, and to such a degree, and in such a way, that those conspiring parties have become demoralized to an unwonted extent, and it is with extreme difficulty that they are able to rally and recruit their scattered forces and revive their shattered energies sufficiently to devise and agree upon any line of offensive action that promises any degree of success encouraging to them.

There are, therefore, plenty of reasons why the inhabitants of this favored Territory of Utah should feel thankful to-morrow for the divine disposition of affairs to them, and should manifest their gratitude in such seemingly manner as may suggest itself to them. One thing would be entirely in good taste, and I manifest a grateful spirit—not to forget those of the community who may be blessed to lot a very limited extent with the good things of this world, so that by such kindly remembrance they also may find more cause than they anticipated to return thanks to the great Creator for his goodness to them.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, 28.—Immediately after the reading of the report of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, moved to proceed to the consideration of the report of the Committee on the admission of Louisiana, as Senator from Louisiana.

Thurman objected, and read the eighth rule, which provides that no bill, report of committee, or other subject upon the calendar shall be proceeded with in the morning hour, unless with unanimous consent.

A long discussion in regard to the rule ensued, which was participated in by Edmunds, Thurman, Wadleigh, Wallace and others; finally the Vice-president decided that the subject was a question of the highest privilege, and could be considered in the morning hour notwithstanding the objections.

Thurman appealed from the decision, and the vote was taken; called, the decision was sustained—yeas 29, nays 28. Patterson voted with the democrats in the negative and Conover with the republicans in the affirmative. Davis, of Illinois, did not vote.

The question then being, will the Senate proceed to the consideration of the resolution reported by the committee on privileges and elections declaring Kellogg entitled to his seat as Senator from Louisiana, the vote resulted yeas 29, nays 29. The Vice-President voted in the affirmative, and the resolution was taken up. Conover voted with the republicans in the affirmative, Patterson and Davis with the democrats in the negative.

After it was decided to take up the Kellogg case, another long debate sprang up between Wadleigh, Eli, Hoar, Saulsbury, and McKim, and all the members of the committee on privileges and elections as to the status of the case of Louisiana, claiming the seat from Louisiana for the term ending March 4th, 1879, the democrats arguing that he had not been sworn in as senator from South Carolina.

Edmunds said he did not want the time used unnecessarily, and therefore suggested that a vote be taken on the admission of Kellogg on Friday next, at 1 o'clock, and on the admission of Butler on Saturday, at 1 o'clock. Laughter on the democratic side.

The vote on Thurman's amendment to waive J. R. Butler resulted yeas 29, nays 29. Davis, of Illinois, and Patterson, voting with the democrats in the affirmative, and Conover with the republicans in the negative. The Vice-President gave the deciding vote, and declared the amendment lost.

EASTERN.

NEW YORK, 28.—The Herald's London correspondent in Paris telegraphs that M. Gambetta, yesterday, received a delegation from the party of the Right, in the Senate. They assured the Marshal of the unswerving support of their party in the present crisis, and encouraged him to persevere in his present policy of resistance to the Chamber. The Marshal replied as follows:

FOREIGN.

GREAT BRITAIN.

CAUSE OF THE DEPRESSION IN SILVER.

LONDON, 28.—The weekly drawings of government bills on India will be resumed on the 12th of December, when £200,000 will be offered. The expectation of this announcement has been the main cause of the recent depression of silver. Telegraphic transfers, which do not seem to have been actually beneficial, are to be discontinued.

Lord Derby on Interference in Favor of Turkey.

Lord Derby, Secretary of State for foreign affairs, today, received a deputation representing the Society for the Protection of British Subjects, and three other political societies, led by Lord Stratford de Campbell, who presented a memorial arguing against interference in favor of Turkey.

Lord Derby replied that government saw no reason to depart from its neutrality. He did not think Constantinople or the Suez Canal were in danger. When the government saw a reasonable opportunity it would do what it could to bring about peace.

RECENT FETTER.

NEW YORK, 28.—The Herald's London correspondent in Paris telegraphs that M. Gambetta, yesterday, received a delegation from the party of the Right, in the Senate. They assured the Marshal of the unswerving support of their party in the present crisis, and encouraged him to persevere in his present policy of resistance to the Chamber. The Marshal replied as follows:

"Gentlemen—I thank you for your co-operation, and here I have the right to count upon it. If the Senate is faithful to its duty as the guardian with me of the constitution and of legality, it will sustain me. I feel sure it will. Unfortunately for the country, it should prove otherwise, our lot will still be the same, and I shall know how to show you the way."

The Herald's Columbia special says the legislature assembled yesterday. In the Senate there were ten resignations announced, including S. A. Smalls, pres. pro tem, who resigned. All of the resigning members are republicans, who have been compelled to this course in order to escape the fate of Smalls and Cardozo. Of the ten vacancies four have been filled by recent elections of democrats. So completely overwhelming has been the tide of public sentiment since the conviction of the ring thieves, that the negroes manifest no interest in the election, and seem utterly indifferent to what the future may claim for last year. The white vote is not more than one-third of the number heretofore cast.

DECLARED ILLEGAL.

PARIS, 28.—The report of the committee on special accounts, made last night by the Finance Ministry during the recent dissolution, amounting to 18,000,000 francs, declares the accounts illegal, and that the Chamber, without compromising the rights of the nation.

IMPROVEMENTS.

SOUTH JORDAN WARD, Salt Lake County, Nov. 28, 1877.

EDUCATION.

The Times' Washington special says the question—Will the Senate become democratic?—is a difficult one to answer. The prevalent feeling and fear is that it will. Patterson is now being used for one purpose, and the result is a different one. He is being used as a tool of himself when they want him for another. Probably when his vote is used as long as it may be useful, he will be forced to resign, and his successor will be a democrat. The democrats think they will secure the admission of Spoford, and then have started on the race to control the Senate, and there is not much reason why they should not as the situation now stands.

EDUCATION.

Things in general in this Ward wear an air of prosperity. On Sunday last our new meeting room was opened. Our new house consists of a basement and an upstairs room, the size of the building being 30 x 48 feet. The upper room is the meeting room for the season over $600. The opening prayer was by Bishop A. Gardner, of West Jordan Ward. He was filled with inspiration that night, and he remembered. He afterwards gave us a history of the early settlers of West Jordan, and prophesied that there would be several new wards organized yet at South Jordan.

EDUCATION.

Our Bishop, Wm. A. Bills, last September, called for donations to the amount of one thousand dollars to help build the new Tabernacle and high and mighty room, which is being promptly paid. There are about sixty families in the Ward. We have a good day school, and seventy children attend it. We have a good Sunday school in good running order, with about thirty children to attend, who are taught orally the principles of the Gospel. We have a Young Men's M. L. S. with about thirty members, which is doing a great deal of good in preparing them for the great future. Our Ward house has cost, up to the present time, over five thousand dollars, which is a considerable sum for a small Ward, but the donors feel they are none the poorer.

EDUCATION.

By the by, our ladies are doing a good work for the Relief Society; they are more united than the other ladies. They are laying up wheat to feed us when we are hungry. They also have a dramatic association, and give some good entertainments. Our worthy bishop, Wm. A. Bills, is one of those men that say, "Come," instead of "Go." Its effect is visible among us.

EDUCATION.

Many thanks to the County Court for helping to complete the South Jordan canal, with whose completion the nation has been made the desert blossom as the rose. Two or three years ago, where there was only a barren waste is now a fruitful field.

Extraordinary Meteor—The Sun Rivalled in Brilliance.

RICHMOND, VA., Nov. 21, 1877.

The meteor which burst upon this city to-day was in several respects a most extraordinary one. It is a record should be made of it.

Professor Winston, of Richmond College, says:—It seemed just like a ball of fire, and it was most extraordinary. It was a drop of molten iron. It was almost pear shaped, the smaller part being uppermost, and it left a long, bright, and beautiful trail moving along through or over some thing that slightly related its motion, so as to cause it to elongate behind. It is hard to give its appearance, for it was not like a star, and a comparison with any earthly object would be misleading; but if the full moon were cut up into eight equal parts I think one of these would about give it the appearance of the meteor. I probably saw it as soon as it became visible, and it was then about half-way from the zenith to the horizon, at an elevation of forty-five degrees, in a direction west of south-west from where I stood. It moved almost perpendicularly down toward the horizon, say for twenty-five degrees, or rather more than half way, when it quietly disappeared, apparently going behind some very light and thin patches or streaks of clouds that lay just there. The motion was comparatively slow and steady, and the general impression was that of a body close by, inasmuch that I had expected to see it emerge from the cloud and strike the earth. I suppose the time of its visibility was about a half minute. Consisting my watch immediately I found a local time to be thirty-eight minutes past four, which would make the meteor to be about six minutes high, so that there was a rare meteor, showing itself in full daylight, and with its brilliancy and beauty pushing its successful rivalry close up to the throne of the great King of Day himself.

The meteor left in its track a trail of unusual beauty. At first it was thin, straight, brilliant line, precisely like a fine gilt wire, and the course very sharply and well defined. Then it began gradually to assume a sigmoid direction, at first varying little from the previous straightness, but becoming slowly more and more crooked and zig-zagging as long as it was observed. At the same time the line itself grew broader and broader till it was as broad, say, as one-fourth the diameter of the moon. Persons watching this wonderful meteor track at intervals, and it was long standing visible, seeming to have turned to a cloud streak and to be quietly sleeping in the sky.—N. Y. Herald.
