SILVER ARGUMENTS.

Governor McIntire, of Colorado, in His Inaugural Address.

DISCUSSES IMPORTANT TOPICS.

Why Legislation Favorable to the White Metal Must Inevitably Fail
in the Present Depression.

DENVER, Jan. 8.—Gov. McIntire was inaugurated at noon today. The ceremonies, which were very simple, were held at the State opera house before a large audience. The talk was submitted to the Gov. McIntire by Chief Justice Hoyt.

The governor's inaugural address was devoted chiefly to state topics. He recommended strict economy and suggested many reforms in the management of state institutions. He advised steps to implement the outstanding cause of war bonds with bonds recommended the construction of reservoirs out of the interest of the Western Union, for the purpose of saving water.

Legislation was suggested to encourage companies to pay wages in kind instead of scrip to stop the sale of real estate on trust deeds without foreclosures or prevent injunctions against such sales.

The governor called attention to the fact that the present views are inadequate to suppress gambling in smaller towns and suggested legislation will that end it now.

On the subject of railroads, the governor said that the time had come for an increase in investigation, that unjust discrimination is mainly brought about by railway corporations, subject to the legislative control of its acts, then legislation should be enacted to prevent it, and that legislation should be enacted to prohibit it.

The governor recommended a tax on any of your existing, however good may be the character of the man, whom we wish to see that it will be his own master's will to do his own master's will to his own master's will. We have started to do this locality and we will do it in all the other localities.

State of Mexico and Mrs. Haskett were going to repeat the shooting but the widow's gun stopped them.

BONNIE BOWER.

THURSDAY, Jan. 8.—Last night's stagecoach massacre brought full supporters of the cattle route, murder and robbery to that place, the victim being F. M. Dell and his son, who was a storekeeper.

The family was at supper Friday night, when two Mexicans shot the horses through the heart. The son ran out into the bushes and was wounded. He was crossing the road, which passes the house. Dell, too, understood the house to kill his son. Dell, who had been shot in the right eye and crept himself in the bushes near the building. The Mexicans searched all about him and were scared off by an adjoining wagon.

CLASH AGAINST STAR.

A Separation Case Involving Four Horses Settled.

HANFORD, Jan. 8.—Among the services to take place yesterday was the 2d. Church of Disciples, Hanford, who marched to Washington in connection with a $100,000 loan to finance against Spain. The men are semi-annualists and have been peddling boxes and barrels of dried beans, corn, etc., to raise money.

The march is over 1,000 miles, from San Francisco to the Mexican border at Agua Caliente.

This is the whole case we have of social correspondence between the two countries, and the Spanish government has agreed to give us a loan of $100,000.
