This list shows a total during the first term of twenty-four classes, holding in all 108 weekly sessions, conducted by four instructors; during the second term, twenty-four classes, 101 weekly recitations, and four teachers. I am compelled to report, as I have done on former occasions, a lack of efficiency on the part of many who apply for admission to the intermediate grades, but this, we hope, will in a great degree be obviated, as institutions for preparatory study under the system of Church education grow.

The academic and normal departments have occupied one room conjointly, in charge of Instructor Joseph Nelson. The class work of these combined departments is represented as follows:

This list shows a total during the first term of seventeen classes, holding in all sixty-three weekly sessions, conducted by four instructors; during the second term, twenty classes, seventy-six weekly sessions, and four teachers.

Most of the students in the academic and normal departments have been pursuing definite courses of study, with a view to graduation. Of these, sixteen have completed with success the junior course in normal training, and have passed all the examinations required in the same. They have in consequence received certificates this day as teachers in the primary grades of the Church School service.

Two students of the academic department have taken certificates of graduation in the course in natural science; one in the course of domestic science; two in business courses, and two in phonography.

Normal students have been admitted free of charge to the extent of the Church appropriation of means for such purpose. Each applicant for admission under such appropriation has been required to make a written declaration of his intentions and purpose in seeking normal training, together with a promise to remain, except under unavoidable circumstances, to the close of the course, or to his successful graduation.

This being the first year of normal work in this institution, little has been attempted beside the branches of the ordinary curriculum, outside the theory and practice of teaching and object lessons. We have sadly felt the need of more ample accommodations and facilities for this special and important department of our work, and we confidently hope for improved conditions at the opening of another year.

OUR THEOLOGICAL ORGANIZATION

has continued in full force and operation. As heretofore, this very important feature of Church school work has received full consideration at our hands. Daily class exercises have been held in each department on the cardinal principles of the Latter-day Saints' faith, the standard works of the Church having been used as text books. Testimony meetings, priesthood meetings, general theological classes, and monthly fast-day meetings have been held regularly, according to the conditions of my previous reports to you.

As during the greater part of the preceding year, we have been favored during both terms of the fifth academic year with valuable aid from Elder George Reynolds, who has conducted the academic class in Book of Mormon study.

Our daily sessions of college exercises have been, without exception, opened and closed with singing and prayer.

THE SINGING

has been under the direction of Instructor Evan Stephens, and we cannot express other than sincere pleasure and satisfaction at the success that has attended the course. The instructor has practically demonstrated the wisdom of training the many rather than the few, even if the general attainment in artistic ability be somewhat lower than would otherwise be the case. With this object in view, we have refrained from organizing any choir for general service, all the devotional singing having been carried on by the whole congregation of assembled students. During the whole year Brother Clare W. Reid of the Normal department has acted as our efficient organist. According to

CHURCH STANDING,

Students have been recorded as follows: High Priest, 1; Seventies, 6; Elders, 15; Priests, 16; Teachers, 12; Deacons, 41; Lay members, 173; Not baptized, 1; Total, 265.

THE LADY STUDENTS.

have continued to meet regularly in their special classes, under the tuition and direction of Lady Superintendent Mrs. Camilla Cobb. The class has been subdivided into sections according to the ages of the members, each holding separate sessions. During the course Dr. Romania B. Pratt has ably assisted the good work by delivering special lectures upon topics connected with the hygiene of women.

THE STUDENTS' SOCIETY

has continued in weekly evening sessions, under the chairmanship of Instructor John J. Walton. Twenty-eight sessions have been held, each characterized by a lecture and such other musical and literary exercises as time would permit to be given. Beside lectures by members of the faculty and many prominent students, the following named gentlemen have greatly aided us in our work by delivering lectures upon special topics:

1, Elder John Nicholson; 2, Hon. F. S. Richards; 3, Elder Joseph R. Dean; 4, Elder Andrew Jensen; 5, Elder J. M. Sjodahl; 6, Elder A. M. Musser; 7, Elder C. R. Savage; 8, Lieut. R. W. Young; 9, Don C. Young; C. E.; 10, Elder Wm. J. Silver.

THE ROOMS,

as before reported, are entirely inadequate for the work of the institution. Upon this subject we have made several reports to you on former occasions, and sincerely trust that you will find it possible to make more ample provisions before the beginning of another school year. I am safe in saying that our work has been very materially restricted in scope and hindered in execution because of our inconvenient and inadequate quarters.

OUR ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

are again gladly expressed to the many who have so materially assisted us by contributions towards our welfare. We are thankful to the publishers of the following periodicals for current copies: The Deseret Evening News, Salt Lake Daily Herald, Ogden Standard, Provo Enquirer, Saturday Globe, Southern Idaho Independent, Nephi Ensign, Utah Journal, Manti Sentinel, Richfield Advocate, Woman's Exponent, Juvenile
