Abraham Lincoln

The martyred president, when about to leave his old home after he attained the highest honors that a great nation could bestow upon him, closed an address with these words:

"Neighbors, Give your Boys a Chance."

These are days of action and exciting competition, days when moral courage and brain power count, days wherein there is only a survival of the men who are mentally and physically fittest.

Fathers, Qualify your Boys for the Battle

They must wage in the world's great arena, whether their lot be cast in the professions or in the no less honorable field of arduous and honest toil, favored though they be, justly are in the family circle, the day must come when in the inexorable law of fate their chairs will be empty by your friends and they will be out struggling alone in the world with only their merit to rely on.

You, Mothers, Know

The pride you have in your sons, you know that deep down in your hearts there is a well of tenderness and love for even the straggler one. You know, as all the world does, that his success is heaven to you and his failure a heartache keener than ever his own. What, then, should you do? In the words of Lincoln, "Give your boy a chance."

Give Him an Education

That will fit him to cope with the best. Teach him to love his home, and teach him that in it he will find civilization and educational influences. If he has been to college don't let his education stop there. If he has not enjoyed the advantages of a good education encourage him now. He may be smart naturally, but if he has nothing but his natural talents to help him there will surely come a time, just as he is mounting highest, when his lack of education will handicap him.

The Time to Remedy This is the Present.

In the "Encyclopedia Britannica," now offered by us, you will have a library fully the equal of any in the land. It is a digest of art, science, literature, history and invention, an epitome of all that is good and lasting, a moral drawn from the works of men and nations.

IT IS NOW FOR THE FIRST TIME PLACED WITHIN YOUR REACH.

The Trifling Sum of Ten Cents a Day For a Short Period Secures it.

CUT THIS OUT.
