Sleeping vs. Serenading.—Midnight serenaders, of the kind whose music becomes more enchanting as it becomes more indistinct, will be delighted to learn that their efforts to elevate the public taste for the divine art, as by them interpreted, have at last come under the notice of the municipal authorities. This morning, six youthful Lorenzen were honored with a formal interview with Justice Fryer, and their claims to his appreciation presented by a gentleman who had the pleasure of listening to one of their grand, nocturnal street concerts on last Saturday evening.

His Honor took great pleasure in listening to the representations made, and was so struck with the validity of the claims presented, and the necessity of rewarding talent and enterprise of this character according to its deserts, that he could not refrain as a public benefactor from administering a little good advice, which he trusted would regulate the youthful Apollos in their future conduct and musical aspirations. Three of the parties were deeply affected by the consideration shown to their labors, that they presented the justice with a bouquet of $5 each, before they left his presence, while the other two, it being ascertained that the advice had no direct application to their cases, departed without feeling called upon to contribute their example. It is the intention of His Honor to take cognizance of all similar cases in the future, so that geniuses of this particular ilk may be assured that hereafter they will not be permitted to suffer from neglect.

From Bear Lake.—Bishop George Dunford, of Malad, returned from his visit north, last evening, whither he went, two weeks ago, to attend the funeral of his brother, Elder Isaac Dunford of Bloomington, who was accidentally killed by falling from his wagon on Saturday, the 4th inst. Bishop Dunford gives a few additional particulars regarding that unfortunate occurrence. It appears that Brother Dunford, in falling from his wagon, struck his head upon a rock, which stunned him, and the wheel immediately passing over his left side, crushed out his life. It is almost certain that he was instantly killed and much suffering was thereby obviated. When picked up, his hand was clenched tightly around his whip stock, just as it was when he fell, which probably would not have been the case had he lived long enough to make any effort to release himself.

The funeral was largely attended, all the family of the deceased were present, and Counsellor George Osmond, of the State presidency, and other local authorities, conducted the services.

Our informant speaks in glowing terms of the progress made by the people of Bloomington, in the past few years. The outlook is very encouraging also. One thing he deprecates (and we heartily concur) is the burning of the timber in the mountains, and would impress the people to be more careful in the future with fire, lest they deprive themselves of one of the most valuable of their natural resources.

Canned Peaches.—Messrs. E. F. Johnson and sons, of Lake Villa, are engaged in the business of fruit canning this season. A specimen of their canned peaches was shown to us this morning. The Johnson orchards and vineyards are celebrated for their excellent products, and we trust the proprietors will meet with success in the worthy enterprise of preserving home fruits for the home trade.

Canvassing for "Bibbans."—A. W. Winberg, editor and publisher of the Bibbans, starts this morning on a business trip through Utah, Utah, Idaho and Nevada Counties, in the interests of his paper. Bibbans has been greatly enlarged and improved of late, and is a paper the Scandinavian population should appreciate and patronize.
