TERRIBLE STORMS ALL OVER THE EAST

The Government Weather Map Presents Most Extreme Conditions of the Winter.

HEAVY SNOW IN NEW YORK CITY

Half a Foot in the Streets and Wind Blowing at Rate of Forty Miles An Hour.

LOW TEMPERATURE IN FLORIDA.

Cold Weather Will Probably Continue Throughout Thursday and Friday.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The middle Atlantic coast is the scene of a severe storm, and the weather map today, according to reports to the weather bureau, presents the most extreme conditions of the winter. A marked cold wave extends into Tennessee and general snow, accompanied by severe northerly gales, have visited the territory east of the Mississippi river. In the Missouri valley and the north-west the temperatures ranged from 15 to 20 degrees below zero. West of the Rocky mountains the weather continued generally cloudy with rain over the north districts and California. Still lower temperatures may be expected tonight in the east and south, with freezing temperature in Florida, probably to the twenty-fifth parallel, and temperature between 12 and 15 degrees on the middle gulf coast. Cold weather will continue during Thursday and probably Friday.

BLIZZARD IN NEW YORK.

New York, Jan. 25.—New York is today struggling with a storm which in violence has not been equalled in many winters. Beginning last evening with a gentle fall of snow, the elements gathered strength, until by noon today intense cold was lacking to make it a typical blizzard.

Traffic on the streets soon became demoralized. Broadway was practically blocked to a standstill. Houses were stalled or down, and the car lines made little headway.

The heart of the storm seemed to be along the New England coast line, although snow and high winds are reported up New York state and low temperatures prevailed everywhere.

With six inches of snow on the ground, a 40-mph wind from the north-east blowing the snow into high drifts, and the temperature at 18 degrees and falling, New York experienced today one of the worst storms of the winter. The snow began to fall last night and continued falling steadily today. As it became colder, travel in the streets became difficult.

No attempt was made to run surface cars on the Brooklyn line. The big mail house of the Kip Brewing company caught fire while the storm was at its height and was practically destroyed. There were hundreds of thousands of bushels of grain in the city. A fire which threatened an enormous amount of property in the dry goods district in the vicinity of Walker and street, threatened the firemen a desperate struggle for at least four hours. The flames finally were subdued after causing damage to the extent of $50,000.

Several transatlantic and coastwise steamers which were due to arrive today had not arrived in the harbor here after they were due. Among them was the steamer Rotterdam from Rotterdam, and the Melanion from London. They probably rode out the gale. A side of Sandy Hook bar last night waiting for daylight and a cessation of the blinding snowfall before attempting to run up through the crooked channels of the lower bay.

The gale was increasing in force at the look today.

The first death as a direct result of the storm was reported from Brooklyn, where Kato Yamamoto, a Japanese, was found lying dead in a snowdrift. His death was caused by exposure and exposure.

Taken sick suddenly in the lonely hut 100 miles from the nearest town and with the children too small to realize their parents' distress or prove of any assistance, the husband was left to die without anything being done to alleviate his sufferings. The husband brought his three little ones to Sault Ste. Marie and all started back on his long tramp to bury his wife in the woods near the home in which she died. TRAGEDY ON A TRAIN THROWS PASSENGERS INTO A PANIC.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—Passengers on an eastbound Metropolitan elevated train have been thrown into a panic when a man, shot and fatally wounded, fell from the train.

Hammond was off duty and was returning home. He boarded the train and entered the car where the crowd was sitting. Witnesses to the shooting say he at once accused Hammond of alienating the affections of his wife, who, Gould said, had deserted her husband and three little children, a week ago. Words followed, and before the train had reached the next station, Gould drew a revolver and fired two shots.

There were more than twenty passengers in the car, and these persons fled to other coaches of the train. The crowd telephoned to the police asking for an ambulance to meet the train at the Marshall station. They then hurried the wounded man to that station without making stops. Gould stayed in the car and surrendered himself to the police.

Mrs. Gould, who met the train at the station, was locked up with her husband. Hammond was taken to a hospital, where it was said he could not recover.

Before her marriage Mrs. Gould was Mary Leeverts. Her relatives live in Rhode Island.

A REMARKABLE RECOVERY.

Woman Who Severed Her Windpipe Also Well.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—The remarkable recovery of Mrs. Leland Decker, who after severing her windpipe over a month ago, is almost completely restored to health, is causing astonishment, not only among her friends, but among medical men. A peculiarity of the case is the apparent removal of the disease which had inspired the woman to take her own life.

For many months Mrs. Leland Decker, who is the widow of the late John Leland Decker, for many years prominent in Democratic party councils, had been ill with a chronic stomach trouble which caused her nervousness. Being no prospect of relief and crazed with pain, she secured a sharp knife during the absence of the nurse on Dec. 21 and completely severed her windpipe.

Within a few seconds after the incident the nurse returned to the room and found the woman lying on the floor in a condition that warranted small hope for recovery. An instant call brought a physician, who stitched the wound with as much care as though it were but a slight cut, and with the aid of the physician and the nurse and the patient herself, Mrs. Leland Decker has steadily improved until now she is able to be up.

CASE AGAINST SENATOR SMOOT.

It Has Closed So Far as the Taking of Testimony is Concerned.

NO EVIDENCE IN REBUTTAL.

Judge Taylor Decided Not to Offer Any on Behalf of the Pro-Testants.

ARGUMENTS TO BEGIN TOMORROW

Each Side Will be Allowed Five Hours, but They May File Extracts From Testimony.

Washington, Jan. 25.—The investigation of protests against Senator Smoot so far as the introduction of testimony is concerned was brought to a close today. When the senate committee on privileges and elections convened, A. S. Worthington, counsel for Senator Smoot, announced that he would not put other witnesses on the stand and that he had nothing further to offer.

Judge R. W. Taylor, counsel for the protestants, decided not to offer any evidence in rebuttal. Chairman Burrows, after brief discussion between counsel, ruled that arguments should be begun tomorrow and limited to five hours on each side, with leave to file extracts from the testimony. It had been expected by the defense to use Senator-elect George Sutherland as a witness but after a consultation before the committee convened, it was decided to close at once. The decision today Judge Taylor by surprise and he is not ready to begin his arguments, but said he could begin tomorrow. He asks that there be a full attendance of the committee and the chairman agreed to see every member personally and urge them to attend.

It was finally agreed that Judge Taylor should open the arguments and be followed by counsel for the defense. Judge Taylor will then be permitted to close.

The investigation was opened Jan. 16, 1904, and occupied much of the time until the adjournment of the last session of Congress. It was resumed again after the present session convened and for the past three weeks sessions have been held every day.

PT. ARTHUR'S SURRENDER.

Astonishes Those Who Have Seen the Fortress.

London, Jan. 25.—The Times correspondent at Peking, who has returned from a visit at Port Arthur, describes the impression he got there and says: "Without seeing them, nobody could form any idea of the stupendous strength of the fortress or the incredible heroism displayed in its capture. No foreign officer is able to explain the reason for the surrender of Port Arthur. Those who have seen the condition of the fortress believe that no more creditable surrender is recorded in history."

There were 2,000 able-bodied men capable of making a sortie, hundreds of officers, all well nourished and plenty of ammunition. The largest magazine being untouched and full to the roof with all kinds of ammunition for naval guns. There was, further, ample food for three months, even if no fresh supplies could be received, and, besides, the waters are coming with fish. There was an abundance of coal, and the Japanese are admitted by reputable residents to have been pure fabrications to excite sympathy and to induce the government to condemn the majority of the officers, who feared the failure of comforts more than they feared the loss of the fortress. The man ever held a responsible command who has deserved the title of hero than Gen. Steadman.

FOR LONGER TERMS.

Bill Providing for Increasing Tenure Of County Offices.

A bill is now in process of preparation for presentation to the legislature providing for increasing the terms of all of the county officers excepting county attorney to four years instead of two. The change as proposed will go into effect in the year 1908. The office of county attorney is extended in a constitutional office, and can not be changed, but the other county officers are statutory and may be changed.

The bill provides that none of the officials who have served a full term can succeed themselves. Should such a bill be passed and also the one which is now pending, increasing the terms of the legislative, congressional, supreme judge and county attorney election would be held the same year and the state, county and national election the same year. RECITAL ON NEW ORGAN.

Prof. J. J. McClellan Home From Grand Junction—His Experiences.

Prof. J. J. McClellan returned this afternoon from Grand Junction, where he gave a recital last evening, on the new organ in the First Congregational church. The building was crowded by an untold number of people, and the people of the city, and that it was a discriminating one was evidenced by the encores of such numbers as the "Gavotte" from "Mignon," the "Spring Song" of Mendelssohn, Brahms' "Concerto in G," and the "Pillgrim's Chorus" and "Divine Evening Star" from "Tannhauser."

The organ has 30 stops. It is a Kimball, the same as the Tabernacle organ, and cost $3,500. Prof. McClellan was delighted with the instrument, as the registration was of the highest order of selection, and the entire affair was so acceptable that he is to be invited back for a second recital later on. The visiting artist was the recipient of many such attentions, and made many friends. He says the fact that he is a "Mormon" did not appear to go for much, though one old lady did quietly edge her way up to him and ask, "You don't a Mormon, do you?" Prof. McClellan assured her immediately that he was, and very much of a "Mormon;" whereupon the old lady gave a curious, incredulous look, and glided away.
