WATER.

There is some agitation about water in different parts of the city, and unless measures be taken to prevent it, it is probable that the agitation will continue and may increase. During the last few years the inhabitants of the city have been largely extended, which has caused a great deal of water to be used for the extension, for domestic and irrigation purposes, and this extension being almost wholly on the higher and drier portions of the city, has more need of water, and more of the water than the lower portions of the city. Again, from said lower portions of the city some occasional complaints of the frequent difficulty of their obtaining the portion of water to which they are reasonably and rightfully entitled, and sometimes the upper portions of the city, because of their situation high up the water courses, their greater absorptive power, and their believed and sometimes charged greater absorption from said streams, are somewhat dissatisfied to the other portions of the city.

There is another thing also that is well known upon the fact, and that is, that the extension of larger and more pretentious buildings for residence and other uses, the construction of tanks and various conveniences for fountains, watering of grass plots, and domestic purposes, increases the amount of water used on many occasions, and the amount of water used for other uses, which, however, may be an inconvenience in droughty seasons only.

In the consideration of this question various matters have to be taken into account, and given their due prominence and weight. In the first place the older settlers have undoubtedly, in justice and law, prior and superior claims and the right to due consideration thereof, and in the next place the residents of the lower portions of the city have claims which should be considered. They pay taxes to the city, and it is nothing more than right that they have a proper share in all the rights and privileges for which those taxes are supposed to be paid.

The question is, is there sufficient water, the year round, to give a supply to the newer portions of the city, and justify the city authorities in cutting, or authorizing the cutting, of new ditches, and turning water into those ditches, without unnecessarily depriving the older portions of water to the older portions of the city? There can be no doubt that there would be sufficient water available for increased use all the year, excepting two or three months of the summer and fall, but for the time it is a doubtful matter. The present season is no criterion. High water, usual here the latter part of May, this year was nearer the latter part of June, and consequently the supply in July and August has been out much better than in other years. Besides the late unusual rains have increased the supply very materially.

All these things given the respective consideration they merit, if the decision be that there is sufficient water for permanent and continual increase of ditches, that increase ought to be made, that the supply of water furnished for them, and the dependent inhabitants so far convenience. It is decided that there is sufficient water for certain portions of the year, but for that time might be furnished, with the distinct understanding that the supply might not be insisted upon, and the giving or withholding of the supply might be according to the judgment of the city water master, or regulated by special city ordinances. It is decided not to authorize an increase in the number of ditches for the newer portions of the city, then the residents thereof, one would think, would have a claim on the city for some sort of relief, and some sort of assistance in the construction of wells, cisterns or other, whereby water for domestic purposes might be secured.

It seems that this water supply and distribution question must needs receive more thorough and careful attention than it has received hitherto, in that the citizens may be accommodated and fairly dealt with in the matter, so far as reasonably can be. To quiet and prevent disputes it may be necessary for the construction of more accurate water-gates in the various ditches, and the authoritative and more equitable and careful sub-division of the water for persons appointed to that special duty and paid for attending to it, according to such rules and regulations as may be established. It seems to be getting more and more difficult to maintain a satisfactory distribution of water, and the present somewhat loose and haphazard manner of supervision.

MAKING MONEY BY IT.—The St. Louis municipal authorities a few years ago took it into their heads to sanction the sale of, by adopting ordinances licensing and "regulating" them and their lumbards, after the fashion of Europe. Official reports show that this licensing and "regulating" is a money-making business it has that merit, if no other, and that is the merit of supreme contempt with many people now-a-days. The revenues of the St. Louis Municipal from July 1, 1899 to April 30, 1902, amounted to $1,000,000, of which $100,000 was profit, $200,000 by which amount the city was the gainer. Still a large number of the citizens are not happy, they are dissatisfied with the money business, and they are very dissatisfied to the license policy, and that men high in authority make very dissipated and dissipated and dissipated.

TO-DAY'S DISPATCHES.—ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 12.—Hon. E. P. Smith, commissioner of Indian Affairs, has just completed a trip to the Indian Territory, visiting all the interesting points of the river, and holding a council with the Indians. He found the Indians generally inclined to peace, but badly satisfied with their condition. At points above Yankton, particularly among the Sioux, the country is generally barren. This is the condition of the Indian country, and the Indians are generally dissatisfied with their condition. At points above Yankton, particularly among the Sioux, the country is generally barren. being made to test the constitutionality of the license law, and in this view suit has been instituted against two saloons by Chancellor of the Supreme Court, and the other two saloons. The charges above are, and if true no wonder that somebody is moved to do something to save the fair name of St. Louis, which aspires to be the Queen City of the Mississippi Valley, a valley capable, it is said, of sustaining all the inhabitants of the known world.

DEADLY DISEASE.—The Summer and Fall are the times when sickness abounds, when the stinks and noxious perfume of decaying animal and vegetable substances pervades the atmosphere, and does its sickly and sometimes deadly work. At this time, when diseases of the stomach and bowels are prevalent, and should be in common use, it may be appropriate to refer to the following, given by Prof. Nash, as a useful and economical method of producing an effective home-made disinfectant.

Take one barrel of lime and one barrel of salt, dissolve the salt in little water as well as the lime, and mix the remainder daily until the lime has taken the whole. The result will be a sort of lime-chloride, which is a very powerful disinfectant, equally good for all outdoor purposes, with the article bought under the name of "lime-chloride," but not one-tenth as good as this. This should be a better disinfectant than any other, and it is very economical, and may be applied wherever offensive odors are generated, with the assurance that it will be effective to purify the air, and add to the value of the manure much more than its cost.

Anybody can make the above at a small cost, and keep it on hand for frequent application during the hot weather, to sweeten the out-houses and other premises.

WESTERN.

GEORGETOWN, Cal., 12.—Last night as the Auburn and Georgetown stage coach was en route from the hill into the town of Georgetown, a lady named Morales, of Sacramento, sitting on the outside with the driver, got faint and fell headlong from the coach. Three other passengers were on the outside, but no accident was feared. The stage was immediately stopped and the lady was taken up and conveyed to Greenwood. She has not spoken a word since, and is dying this morning.

SAN FRANCISCO, 12.—The Quincy brought Hongkong papers of July 12th and Yokohama papers of July 22nd. The Quincy press of July 22nd thus commences the movement in San Francisco thence to the Chinese Empire. The Chinese in the United States have had all the privileges of citizens, while Americans, who have been excluded from being treated in China in the same way as every other foreigner, have been treated as aliens. Under such circumstances it is not a very great grievance that the Chinese in America should be restricted in the competition of labor, if Chinese are to compete with Americans in the United States. Such views have probably had much to do with the framing of the recent laws, but in such a case it does not seem that the measure can be strictly said to be unfair towards the Chinese.

THE JAPAN GAZETTE says that the question of a national parliament for Japan has been discussed in the Japanese press. The Quincy brought 175 Chinese, 13,000 packages, and 500 bales of silk, nearly all of which is in transit for New York.

Public Works in Form.—The following is a copy of correspondence which has passed between the Foreign Minister and the Russian Minister, and which has been recently made by the Russian government to him, and which has been printed in return to a address of the House of Lords.

LONDON, Sept. 12, 1872.—My Lord.—About a month since I had the honor of receiving from you a communication to your lordship the fact that the Russian Government had granted me a concession for a term of seventy years for the construction of railways, irrigation and other works throughout that country.
