

NEWS OF THE WEST.

Lump of Solid Gold An Engineer
Dies of Domestic Troubles.

SUPPRESSION OF GAMBLING HOUSES.

The Heavy Snow in Northern Wyoming.—
Rested Miners—A Man Killed on the Railways.

At Telluride, Colo., the miners in the smeltery mines are about to close for the winter.

New Mexico miners are leaving or will leave the state at once, fearing that the miners will be compelled to strike.

Agriculture. General T. J. Turner has been an attorney for the miners for a term of five years.

Morgan County, Colorado, miners have received no wages except for the last month.

At Laramie, Colo., on January 15, another large railroad unit will be given. This will end the strike in the mines.

At Trinidad, Colo., the miners are leaving the smeltery mines and closing their doors.

Parents of Miners' Valley, Colo., are sending their children to stay five miles to Durango in winter, and making good wages by working mining claims.

A petition is circulating at Grandview, Idaho, requesting the miners' committees to pay wages of $1 on every day until a suitable place is secured.

A mass meeting of the citizens of Elko, Nev., has been held to raise money for the miners for the meeting part of the strike.

Trinidad, Colo., appears to be entering its stupor. The gambling men who have nothing better to do are a hindrance to the miners' main drive. The strike is in full blast now.

Certified Butte, Colo., the metal miners have been granted a 10-cent increase per hour for the first month of the strike.

At Cheyenne, Wyo., miners are working again.

An agent must carry dynamite in the snow between Rock Springs and the Black Hills, Wyo., but wages and conditions are still the same.

Miners in the Yellowstone Park, Montana, have been captured by a gang of robbers who took their wages. These men are now being investigated, and they have been captured in the guard house at Fort Yellowstone.

At Sheridan, Wyo., it is said that about 500 men are waiting for work on the construction of the Burlington road to be opened. The job starts basic heating. The miners will start coming down and will open up a new mining country.

At New Castle, Colo., a letter has been received from the Mine Owners Association, who have discovered good gold miners under the Colorado mountains, and the head of the mine, Fred A. Koenig, has paid out gold wages.

Butte, Colo., miners are looking over the mines in the State, and the company managers of the mines to ascertain the condition of the miners to determine what action to take.

At Ogallala, Wyo., the miners are leaving the state at once, fearing that the miners will be compelled to strike.

The Douglas Budget says that the miners' committee will show to the miners of Wyoming at some time of the year the record of general discontent. This will be done to show that the miners have been persecuted at all times during the winter and beyond, and they have lost their wages entirely.

The lead body of a colored man named Johnson is in touch with the miners of Butte, and he has been doing his best to keep the miners from leaving the state.

At Cheyenne, Wyo., miners are leaving the state at once, fearing that the miners will be compelled to strike.

At Salt Lake City, the Union Pacific Railroad Company has completed measures for pumping irrigation water into the valley of the Colorado River, and the water will be used for irrigating farms, and the water will be pumped into the valley of the Colorado River.

At Salt Lake City, the Union Pacific Railroad Company has completed measures for pumping irrigation water into the valley of the Colorado River, and the water will be used for irrigating farms, and the water will be pumped into the valley of the Colorado River.

At Salt Lake City, the Union Pacific Railroad Company has completed measures for pumping irrigation water into the valley of the Colorado River, and the water will be used for irrigating farms, and the water will be pumped into the valley of the Colorado River.

At Salt Lake City, the Union Pacific Railroad Company has completed measures for pumping irrigation water into the valley of the Colorado River, and the water will be used for irrigating farms, and the water will be pumped into the valley of the Colorado River.

At Salt Lake City, the Union Pacific Railroad Company has completed measures for pumping irrigation water into the valley of the Colorado River, and the water will be used for irrigating farms, and the water will be pumped into the valley of the Colorado River.

BEWARE—OF—GRIP

Dr. Eden fears another epidemic, and sends the alarm.

In some and most public, camp, college, dormitories, and restaurants, no other external remedy seems to prevent the grippe than a simple wash.

BENSON'S POROUS PLASTER.

Addressed to Dr. W. H. Benson, 1000 Franklin Street, Denver, Colo.

DRUGGIST & PHARMACEUTICAL COMPANY.

DRUGGIST & PHARMACEUTICAL COMPANY.