UTAH SHEEP ON MISSOURI MARKET

Provo Man Tells How Flocks are Becoming Scarcer in the Beehive State.

GIVES REASONS FOR CHANGE.

Sanpete Dealer Talks of Good Crops
and Fine Ranges That Prevail
This Season in All Utah.

Special Correspondence.

Kansas City, Aug. 14.—Joseph Jacobson of Provo, Utah, owner of several sheep ranches in that state, was yesterday with a string of sheep shipped from Colton, Utah. Mr. Jacobson has resided in the state almost 50 years, and has been engaged in the sheep business for many years. He reports that this has been a model year for stockmen as well as farmers in that state. The grass is plentiful, and the crops are good. "But the sheep are getting fewer right along out there," said Mr. Jacobson. "The settling up of the country is one cause, and then the action of the federal government in laying out the reserves is another. While some ranchmen protest against the action of the government, I am confident it is a good thing. And I believe that the time will soon come when the government will take over all the mountain ranges. By so doing the ranges are preserved, and kept from being overstocked, and wasted. When the government has charge there is no such thing as destroying the range. And that is the only way to preserve the mountain ranges."

FEWER FEEDING LAMBS.

"Fewer feeding lambs will be bought on the ranges this year than last," said M. M. Carter of Sanpete Co., Utah, yesterday. "At this time last year thousands of lambs had been bargained for by the big sheep feeders. Up to the present time very few have been sold. The feeders prefer to place their orders with some commission firm this year, and buy their lambs on the open market. They do not care to deal direct with ranchmen on any such terms as they made last year. Last season when any difference arose at the time the sheep were delivered, the buyer got the worst of it, as the sheepmen could turn right around and sell to some one else very easily, and perhaps at better prices. So far as prices are concerned, they will be no lower than last year, but the method of buying will be very different. So far as our sheep are concerned, we have made no advance sales, but we can go on the open market and get prices fully as high as we received last fall."

MODERATE CATTLE WEEK.

This promises to be another week of moderate cattle receipts, supply 11,000 head today, same as last Monday. The run last week was 42,000 head, a decrease of more than 20,000 head from same week last year. Pastures are in fine condition generally all over the West, and owners dislike to market stuff when it is doing so well. Kansas and Missouri also marketed a good many steers in July that ordinarily would come about this time, and another thing, which is affecting quarantine receipts is the excellent prices for corn in Oklahoma and Indian territories, causing owners to hold some of their cattle for feeding this fall. Some mediums to common New Mexico and panhandle steers have sold lately at $2.25 to $3.40, panhandle cows at $2.25 to $2.30, yearlings $2.50 to $4.00 for heavy ones, light weights quotable up to $6.00. No cattle direct from Colorado are here today, but some wintered Colorado, grazed in Kansas, sold to feeders at $4.00 and $4.15 today. Late last week shipment from Wyoming, Colorado, contained heifers at $3.40, cows $3.15, and some light cows at $2.60, but this was not considered a full test of the market, as finish was lacking. Indications favor another week or two of rising receipts, and strong markets. A good many country buyers had to go home empty handed last week, on account of small supply of that class. The enormous yield of corn now assured will likely cause an extraordinary demand for stockers and feeders all fall.

SHEEP MARKET ADVANCED.

The sheep market advanced 15 to 25 cents last week, on the small supply of 15,000 head, but buyers demanded concessions today, and lambs were sold 10 to 15 cents lower, run $4.50 head. The market is likely to rule uneven for awhile, as packers claim their stuff is costing them too much money, and will insist on lower prices whenever there is a heavy supply. Sheepmen should distribute their consignments, and try to avoid centering too many sheep at the northern markets, while this point is lightly supplied. Arizona spring lambs sold at $7.50 to $7.75 today, not extra quality. Utah sheep and yearlings to killers at $4.50. New Mexico sheep $4.65. Large orders for feeding stuff are held here, around $4.75 for wethers, $6.00 for good lambs, and up to $5.25 for breeding ewes, but present volume of receipts is altogether inadequate to fill these orders.

WILL ATTACK STATE SHEEP LAW

Constitutionality of One Governing Importation in Wyoming to Be Tested.

WANT THE LAW NULLIFIED.

Is Obnoxious to Shippers Who Object
To Shipping Charges—Intended to Protect Wyoming Herds.

(Special to the "News.")

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 16.—Word from Sheridan county states that some of the flockmasters there, and more especially those engaged in feeding sheep, will attack the constitutionality of the state laws governing the importation of sheep to Wyoming. The shippers of the Sheridan section have long objected to the statutory requirement of 3 cents per head on sheep and 25 cents per head on bucks brought to Wyoming, and they will make an effort to have the law repealed at the next session of the legislature.

The law in question is known as section 2051, and, strange to say, one of the prime movers in the Sheridan county kick voted for the passage of the law as a member of the lower house. The law was drawn by the sheep interests, which sought the protection of their flocks and ranges from outside sheep, which annually come to Wyoming, graze for a few months and then return to their native state. Their owners pay no taxes in Wyoming, and aside from eating off the grass the sheep scatter disease among the flocks of the state, which have been cleaned up at heavy expense.

The Sheridan people charge that the law is a violation of the Constitution of the United States, in that it taxes property brought from one state to another. In the leaving of the state, they are mistaken. The law demands the payment of certain sums, which sums are used in the work of examining, quarantining and treating the imported sheep. The law is held to be in conformity with the constitution of the state, and has been upheld by the United States.

As fully 90 per cent of the sheep men of the state are in favor of rigid quarantine and treatment of all sheep imported from the outside, and as the objection to the law is based on the comparatively few men, there is little probability of the Sheridan county movement succeeding. The legislature, at the suggestion and request of the sheep interests, may instead of providing for the fees on importations as at present, go to the aid of the sheepmen by a tax of 2 or 3 mills upon the sheep of the state, the funds thus derived being used in protecting the flocks and ranges from the encroachments of outside sheep.

WYOMING POLITICS.

Rogers of Rock Springs for Auditor
And Irvine for Secy. of State.

(Special to the "News.")

Rock Springs, Wyo., Aug. 16.—The Republicans of Sweetwater county have announced the candidacy of Hon. William Rogers of Rock Springs, for the nomination of state auditor. It is pointed out that Sweetwater county has never been honored with a place on the state ticket, and the delegates to the delegation from this county will respectfully demand a place for Mr. Rogers.

Mr. Rogers has lived here for more than a quarter of a century, and is one of the best known citizens in the county. It is reported that Carbon and Uinta counties are favorable to Mr. Rogers.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Aug. 16.—Some of the knowing ones among the Republicans state that Hon. W. C. Irvine, state treasurer, is now quietly working for the nomination of secretary of state. He was recently defeated in Converse county, where he made a fight to secure the delegates' endorsement of his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination. After the crushing defeat administered by the Brooks contingent, Mr. Irvine quit the race for governor. Billy's friends are determined, however, that he shall be on the state ticket, and will do what they can for him in his candidacy for secretary of state. His is the first name that has been mentioned for the place, although it has been hinted that Hon. Edward Gillette of Sheridan county and Senator W. R. Schmitt of Cheyenne, candidates for state treasurer, might get together and agree to share the offices of secretary of state and treasurer between themselves.

Politis continue to grow in interest, and where a few weeks ago it appeared as though the ticket would read Brooks for governor, Gillette or Schmitt for treasurer and secretary, Miss Knight for superintendent of public instruction, and LeRoy Grant for auditor, it is now certain there will be a contest for every place on the ticket. Gov. Brooks and Mr. Cosgriff are making an active canvass for the gubernatorial nomination. Schmitt and Gillette for treasurer, Irvine for secretary, Grant, J. S. Atherly and William Rogers for auditor, and Miss Knight and Mrs. J. J. Marshall for superintendent. It is certain there will be some surprises at the Casper convention.

HE WAS IN TROUBLE.
