DEFENSE BEGINS STORY TOMORROW

Vance Case Concluded by the State at Yesterday's Session.

DYING STATEMENT ADMITTED

Wife's Deathbed Declaration is Read To the Jury After Objection Had Been Overruled.

When Judge Armstrong's division of the district court opens tomorrow at 10 o'clock, introduction of evidence on the part of the defense will commence The state closed its case late yesterday afternoon. Three witnesses, J. Parley White, Amanda Ward and Dr. A. A. Kerr, were on the stand after the close of the short cross-examination of Chemist Herman Harms when court convened at 2 o'clock. Deputy Sheriff J. Parley White was called to testify as to the post-morten statement made by Mrs. Vance, shortly before her death, which the state desired to introduce as evidence.

The examination of Mr. White occasioned the longest arguments in the sloned the longest arguments in the case thus far, the defense fighting hard to prevent Mrs. Vance's statement from being introduced. The jury was excused while the question was debated excused while the question was debated pro and con. Judge Maginnis, for the defense, analyzed the document carefully, and succeeded in eliminating certain paragraphs telling of Vance treatment of his wife before the 26th of Nevember. He then attacked the entire statement, and said that it had no application as far as the charge of poisoning was concerned, and if used at all, could be applied only to the first count of the indictment, that of the beating. Judge Armstrong overruled the motion, and the statement was read to the jury.

MRS. WARD RECALLED.

Mrs. Ward was recalled and told of the statement that she had prepared at the hospital shortly before the death of her sister, and which was the same in effect as the one taken from the lips of the dying woman by Mr. White and Asst. County Atty. Farnsworth.

Dr. Kerr had been wanted in court several times during the day, but could not be found. He appeared late in the afternoon and was only briefly questioned. He had detected no strong odor while attending Mrs. Vance, such as one witness had described.

When the state announced, at 4:20 o'clock, that it had no further evidence to offer, Judge Maginnis raised objection to the three counts of the indictment being pressed by the prosecution. The first count charges that Mrs. Vance died from the effects of a beating administered to her on Nov. 26, 1907: the second count set forth, the Mrs. Vance died from the effects of a beating administered to her on Nov. 26, 1907; the second count set forth the allegation that poison was administered by Vance to his wife on the day following, causing her death; and in the third count it is alleged that death resulted from both causes. He insisted that the state choose one count and drop the others. Judge Armstrong will decide the point at 10 o'clock tomorrow.

MAY ELECTRIFY SOUTHERN PACIFIC

Reno Dispatch Revives Rumor That Harriman is Behind Purchase.

Fleischhacker Interests, Controlling Truckee River Plant, Sald to be Owned by Railroad Magnate.

A dispatch from Reno, Nevada, revives the rumor that the Southern Pacific will electrify its road from Sparks o San Francisco, covering the summit of the Sierras with electric motive power, and that E. H. Harriman is behind the interests which own the great Truckee river power plant. The dispatch goes on to state that the interests of the Truckee River company have passed to the Fleischhacker in-terests, and the actual sale should be consummated within a few days. Gen-eral Manager Baum and Superintendent Naphaly were in Carson and Virginia iast week, looking over the old property of the company at those points. The men are conferring with the main offices of the Fleischhackers in San Francisco, and as soon as their report is made, it is expected the money for the property will be paid noney for the property will be paid money for the property will be paid over and control established.

That Harriman is behind the Fleischhackers is feasible enough, when the source of the power of the company is considered. The Truckee river parallels the Southern Pacific tracks from Reno to a distance above Floriston. At Floriston is located a plant for the generation of electricity for Reno, Carson and Virginia. It would be easy to install a third rail and electrify the road from Floriston.

The Great Western has been a Gould company, and it is said its output was intended for the Western Pacific. Gould's con-cession to Harriman in return for financial assistance is shown from the fact that the Western Pacific contracts fact that the Western Pacific contracts with the Great Western have been turned over to Harriman. The Great Western's power plant is located 40 miles from the western head of the new Southern Pacific tunnel in the Sierra, and a power line to the tracks would be an easy matter. If Harriman intends to run electrics over the mountains, he could use this power. This power would also be sufficient to furnish the Alameda county suburban lines, which the Great Western is said to have purchased. The electricfication of the Southern Pacific lines from Sparks to San Francisco will greatly fact that the Western Pacific contracts Sparks to San Francisco will greatly decrease the very expensive haul over the high Sierra into California.

AMUSEMENTS.

Theater—'The Alaskan," the opera of unique history, came in on a return visit last night, and had a cordial welcome from as good sized an audience as could have been expected, with sidewalks and street car tracks in the condition they were. Theater-goers will remember that "The Alaskan" was produced on Broadway in the middle of a sweltering August, that it was intro-duced by a western manager, Mr. Cort, and played by a company almost un-known. The combination proved fatal known. The combination proved fatal to a New York run, and Broadway was left in a hurry. But Mr. Cort had so much faith in the work that he pluckily booked it the entire season on the road, sent the full production westward, and from then on achieved an emphatic success. "The Alaskan" has been doing excellent business up and down the coast, and its career of prosperity deserves to continue. It is bright, original, unique and tuneful, and it is interpreted by principals and chorus who know how both to act and to sing, combinations rarely encountto sing, combinations rarely encountered in comic opera road presentations. Mr. Martindell, in spite of the fact that Mr. Martindell, in spite of the fact that his fine bass voice was a little beclouded from the Alaskan atmosphere his show brought along to Salt Lake, remains the bright particular feature, and his rendition of the now familiar "Totem Pole" song was encored to the echo. Not less effective was the song at the first that in the recent act. Not. How. fire side in the second act. Mr. Huff, the baritone, sang and acted the hero's part in good style. Mr. Mack as the stranded manager kept the galleries in merry mood. Miss Leib as the heiress, and Miss von Busing, as the chaperone, looked, acted, and sang charmingly, to say nothing of their dancing. But the former might well take a few lessons from the latter in the proper manage-ment of skirts, and learn how needless a display of hosiery really is as a vocal accompaniment. The chorus was admirable. The male members did some exceptionally good work. The enlarged orchestra was a refreshing feature and the stage settings were handsome throughout.

SADIE BELCHER IS

Woman Thought to Be Hunting Be trayer of Garcia, Who Was Killed By Utah and Oregon Officers.

(Special to the "News.") Seattle, Wash., Nov. 26.-Sadie Belcher, wife of "Tip" Belcher, is in the city jail, suspected of being on a still hunt for the betrayer of Joe Garcia, the Mexican-Chinese hybrid who was killed in this city by city detectives and Sheriff Emery of Utah, closely following the arrest of Joseph Sullivan in Portland for the murder of Policeman

Among the gang many women are believed to be operating. The Belcher woman was known by the Utah officers to have been a friend and adviser of Garcia. Regarding the betraval of Garcia to the Washington and Utah officers, little has become known, officials in both places shielding the person who gave the information to them. Among the criminals, though, there are shrewd men and women, and that, they have learned who the person is, seems almost certain, through the actions of Mrs. Belcher. Murtle was asked if he could remember a Thanksgiving dinner he did not have in jail, and shook his head in the negative. He has been there for more than 15 years and declares he will be there for 15 more.

Not long ago he said to Chief Pitt: "I wuz hear when yez came an' I'll be here when yez go. O'ive seen manny a wan come and manny a wan go in me toims."

THREE WOMEN IN JAIL

THREE WOMEN IN JAIL.

The prisoners are serving sentences from five days to four months. They are there for drunkenness, vagrancy and petit larceny. Among the 42, three are women: Mrs. Miller, who can remember Thanksgivings when she had turkey, cranberry sauce, wine and all the good things imaginable and was turkey, cranberry sauce, wine and all the good things imaginable and was surrounded by influential and wealthy friends, herself an honored guest, well supplied with this world's goods and commanding respect in business and social circles. Drink proved her undoing and now she is in a most pitiable condition. Maggie Moultree, a colored woman, is serving 20 days for vagrancy and takes life as it comes. She appeared happy today and said she was looking forward to dinner time with a great deal of pleasant antime with a great deal of pleasant an-ticipation. She and Mrs. Miller got into a row this morning but patched up their differences before dinner time. The other woman, Ellen Dixon, doing 30 days for drunkenness, was appar-ently contented. She said she was really thankful she was in jail and declared she would like to remain there all winter as it was warm, she got Where did these people spend last Thanksgiving? Where will they spend the next? To these questions they simply say, "Don't know." They are concerned only with the reasont cerned only with the present.

Today they were given a good dinner and all enjoyed it. The repast consisted of roast pork and dressing with brown gravy, cream potatoes, beans, bread and real butter, coffee with milk and sugar and mince pie. The plum pudding was cut off the bill-of-fare.

At the county fall, the 55 prisoners were given roast chicken, cranberry sauce, apple pie, mashed potatoes, brown gravy, celery, bread, butter, cream and coffee. They all enjoyed the meal because it was well cooked and served in a tempting style.

There are today 282 convicts in the

AT WORK FOR GOOD ROADS.

John S. White of Farmington has written to President O. F. Hewlett of the Salt Lake Automobile club that, "I m now pleased to report to you that am now pleased to report to you that after so long a time we have actually come to the point of road improvement in a small way. From Farmington to the Hot Springs we have districted the road into three divisions, with a horse and cart for each. Also have a grader for the north end of the county. Road construction and improvement have actually commenced. There will be spent on the main county road $5,000. This will be welcome news to your club, and may indicate the commencement of a grand consummation of which we may all be proud. The movement begun last summer will result in a good state highway."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL. One of the most brilliant social affair

One of the most brilliant social affairs transpiring at the post in many years was that of the German last night given by they bachelor officers. The hall was beautifully decorated in the national and regimental flags and banners, and many unique emblems of forzigulands, and when the pretty figures of the German were on, the scene was indeed picturesque. Among these was a driving dance, with favors of whips and caps, as Maypole dance, leart, wheel, dice, cap and curtain figures and a Virginia reel, all being gracefully executed. All the figures were designed by Lieut, E. B. Garey, who led in the dance. The favors were all artistic and comprised millitary emblems, hoops, pins and other designs. The grand march was led by Col and Mrs. Scott, and a picturesque figure was introduced with the crossed swords of the officers and canes of the city guests, forming an arch. The guests were received by Mrs. Walter Scott, Mrs. J. M. Arrasmith and Mrs. W. E. Puryiance At the favor table Mrs Andrew S. Rowan and Mrs Arthur Williams president. The affair altogether was eminently successful and reflected decided credit upon the hosts.

Another brilliant affulr of last night was the University club reception, the rooms being bright with the pennants of the various colleges represented in the membership, and also with flowers and palms. An orchestra stationed behind a bank of palms rendered delightful music for the dances, the program being designed in the shape of a pumpkin. Punch was served throughout the evening. The affair was under the direction of Messrs. M. J. Brines, Athol. Rawlins and Fred Smith, and was a delightful affair.

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Jennings entertained at a fancy dress party at their home last night, the rooms on the lower floor being thrown into one for the dancing. The costumes were picturesque and with their background of palms and chrysanthemums with which the rooms were decorated made a striking picture. The hosts were assisted by a number of friends and about 50 were present.

A large affair of yesterday was the afternoon reception given by Mrs. J. C. Daly and Miss Eudora Daly, the rooms being beautifully decorated in carnations, palms and chrysanthemums in various slandes, and an orchestra furnishing delightful music. The nostesses were assisted by a number of friends, and about 300 were present.

Today's events will be devoted almost exclusively to faminy dinners and theater parties, a number of these being planned for the Alaskan, at the Salt Lake Theater, the Orpheum. the football teams will be the guests of the University Students.
