"EAST AND WEST."-The first performance here of this great sensation play took place before a large audience at the Theatre last night. It abounds with sensation, and in the development of the plot many of the worse, with a few of the better, phases of human nature, as would be likely to be developed in camp life during the excitement of the first discoveries of gold in California, were well exhibited. The "Hepsey Greenfield, the Yankee girl," of Miss Walters, evoked any amount of mirth, but we cannot but not so exaggerated as she. Miss lover, was something and the same. Miss but not so exaggerated as she. Miss Voeller played well the part of "Ella Tierney, a factory girk." Mr. Bates, "Charles Rand," played with all his accus-"Charles Rand," played with all his accus-"Charles Rand," played with all his accus-"Charles Rand, " played with all his accus-"Charles Rand," played with all his accus-"Charles Rand, " played with all his accus-tomed care and ability. Mr. Bates, "Mr. Wilton, as "Job Snarl," an attorney, Mr. Wilton, as "Job Snarl," an attorney, still arold Redpath," "Snarl's" tool, were a pair of as unmitigated scoundrels as could well be imsgined, and, according to cus-tom-in novels and plays, their many and seemingly well concocted schemes of vil-iainy, were folled in every instance by some unlooked-for and very simple means, and they both finally meet the reward of their evil deeds.

and they both many meet the reward of their evil deeds. "Judith Wolff," the fairy god mother, or one-bearing some such relation to "Ella," an exceedingly clever old lady, who manan exceedingly clever old lady, who man-siges at almost every turn, to bafile the schemes of "Snarl and Redpath," and to shield "Ella," was well rendered by Mrs. lowring. Messrs, J. A. Thompson, W. C. Budley, H. B. Maiben, J. E. Evans, and Lo gan Paul and Miss Jones played their parts with ability. The great sensational tab-leaux, caught in the machinery in the cot-tor factory thrown into the stamping mill leaux, caught in the machinery in the cot-ton factory, thrown into the stamping mill, and the railway train crossing an elevated trestle bridge, were very well done, and elicited considerable appiause. The piece is very lengthy and full of business, but would be improved if some of its dialogues were curtailed. It will be appared to night.

ROADS IN ROUND VALLEY .- Brother Ashton Nebeker and others from the South report the roads very bad in the neighborhood of Scipio, wherever the water sects cross the road. It is thought by several traveling that the Poll Tax is poorly col-lected and applied or that valley would not possess the worst-roads in the Terri-

BEAVER, Oct. 23.—By telegram just re-ceived from North Star it appears that while one Bill Peek and a man by the name of Hall were gambling yesterday, in the vicinity of P. E. Connor's steam saw mill, they quarreled, when Hall shot Peek, the ball taking effect close to his left nipple and lodging in the body. Peek is still alive, and Hall has cleared out.

LIVERY FOR PLOCHE.- A number of very handsome buggles passed through the city to-day, said to be the property of Charles Ely, who, it is reported, has purchased a splendid lot of carriages and some very fine horses with the view of furnishing a livery stable in Pioche.

PROFESSOR H. B. NASON .- We had an exceedingly pleasant interview yesterday, with the above-named gentleman, who called at the office accompanied, by Ex-Governor F. Fuller, and Mr. Baldwin of San Francisco. Mr. Nason, who is well known as a man of scientific attainments, is professor of chemistry and mideralogy in the Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N. Y., and is its oldest professor but one. This institution is one of the most famous in the land, its course of instruction in civil engineering being more thorough than at any other institution of learning in the United States. Professor Nason has been on a visit to the Pacific coast, and is now on his return trip. He is charmed with Sait Lake and its surroundings, and thinks it proba-forent parts of this Territory, and has found no such desirable place for a person fond of country life as Bear Lake Valley. The severity of the climate in the winter sea-son is the only objection that can be urged against it, but Cache and other valleys of the Territory possessed the same disad-vantage for the first few years after they were sattled. There is reason to believe that Bear Lake Valley will yet tone down in that respect, and then its many advan-tages as a farming and grazing district will be better appreciated than at present.
