The Dawn of an Important Epoch Being Enthusiastically Observed This Afternoon—Large Crowds, Warm Reception to Factory Builders, Words of Good Cheer From And For Them and a Time of General Rejoicing.

(Special to the "News.")

The people are fully awake to its importance as evidenced on every hand by the interest that is taken. They see the prosperity as certain as anything that can be. They know that it will mean much for them and their country and are enthusiastic enough to make the most of the opportunity and make the most of the day.

When the promoters arrived at the station this morning at 10 o'clock they were met at the depot by a large crowd of citizens. As the train pulled into the station there was a great deal of cheering and a momentary stoppage of the train. Tonight the Salt Lake party will leave for home, arriving here in the morning. En route last night it was very kindly received and treated by Supt. Olmstead of the Short Line.

Fear for Waterloo Level.
New Orleans, April 14.—Water is pouring through a crack in the levee at the Waterloo level, on the east bank of the river, about 70 miles above the city, and fear is expressed that before a run around can be built, the weakened levee will give way. Five hundred men are at the scene and four rows of cribbing have been started. A break at this point would be disastrous, putting the Mississippi valley road out of condition. Pending the arrival of the New York quotations the leaders took little hand in the market and there were plenty of buyers of such shares as were offered. The general market opinion here is that the Northern Securities decision will not seriously affect values. The leading Anglo-American houses say that London was not a larger seller in yesterday's New York transactions.

KNIGHT SEEN IN CHEYENNE

Alleged Omaha Wife Murderer Heading This Way.

Called on a Friend There.

Writes a Letter Making Clear His Scheme to Deceive the Police—Changed the Cups.

Omaha, Neb., April 14.—Chief of Police Donahue has received information from Cheyenne that Frank E. Knight, wanted here in connection with the mysterious disappearance of his wife, was seen in that city last night. The information states that Jeanie Dusenberry, an acquaintance who is living at Cheyenne, admitted that Knight called on her last evening and was with her for some time. Every effort is being made to apprehend him. The letter in possession of the police, written by Knight to Mrs. Stiles, mother of Miss Dusenberry, contains the following:

"I took your advice and I think I closed the police right. It was Mel's (Melvin Dusenberry), giving me away by saying I was going to store the trunk, but that did the business. I send you a letter to put in the box for me, to cause the authorities to think I am still in Omaha. Mel Knight intended the dose for me, but I caught on and changed the cups and you know the rest."

The letter enclosed to be mailed was a decoy to cover up his tracks, and thrown no light on the alleged crime. Mrs. Stiles called on Knight at his work after the investigation was begun by the police and it is said advised him to leave at once. In his haste he did not stop to secure his salary and the letter states that an order for the amount will be sent to Mrs. Stiles.

Weather conditions were improved over yesterday when practice work began, but were still not all that might be desired. While it was bright and clear, a strong north wind was blowing. Nearly all of the 500 marksmen entered for the grand American handicap, scheduled for Thursday, had arrived this morning, and they spent the day in practice shooting or took part in the eight smaller events on the program for today. Today's events were all at unknown angles, no handicaps, at 20 blackbirds each, with an entrance fee of $2.50 added. The events were pulled off rapidly and intense interest was shown from the start.

His Throat Cut From Ear to Ear

Shocking Discovery in New York This Morning, Revealing The Murder of an Italian Whose Body Was Found in A Barrel Near the Docks—It is Supposed the Intention Was to Throw the Body Into the River.

New York, April 14.—A murder was discovered early today, according to the police, by the finding of the body of a man, apparently an Italian, in a barrel in East Eleventh street near the docks. The man's throat was cut from ear to ear. The body was warm when found and the work of ferreting out the supposed crime was begun at once by detectives.

A scrub woman on her way to work today noticed the barrel on the sidewalk and she saw hanging on it a man's coat soaked with blood. She informed the police. The first and only clue found during the several hours' search was the letters "W. T." painted on the top of the barrel, but the police think these letters will aid them in a good deal in revealing the mystery. It is supposed that somebody intended to throw the body into the river, after bringing it there in a wagon, but found the pier at East Eleventh street closed and dropped the load in the street in a hurry. Finding discovery. The well kept condition of the hands and the shoes of the dead man indicated that he was not a laborer. The police discovered the address 364 Third avenue written in pencil on the bottom of the barrel and in the coat pocket a bit of paper bearing the words in Italian "Come, come in a hurry." The police believe this was a part of a decoy letter.

A small perfumed woman's handkerchief was found in the barrel. She was 364 Third avenue is a furnished room house. The proprietor, Albert Viecks, was taken to the police station but said he had never seen the barrel or the body before. Of 200 Italians summoned to the station, none had been able to identify the body.

SHAMROCK III IN GOOD FORM.

Weymouth, Eng., April 14.—A race of 16 miles to leeward from off Weymouth and a beat back was laid out for the Shamrock today. When the boats got outside the shelter of the breakwater, the wind came in hard gusts and the yachts seemed to have all they could stand under and it required an occasional luff up to ease them. The strain found a weak spot in the Shamrock III's peak halyard gear. A man was sent aloft, and on his report the yacht fetched into shelled water and anchored. All her sails were then dropped on deck. The Shamrock I also anchored and dropped her headsails. The wind subsequently softened and the boats were sent off on a trial spin to leeward and return. Shamrock I led by a length, but the new boat in a few minutes closed the gap and ran clear ahead.

The times after a 10-mile run were as follows: Shamrock III, 2:24:03; Shamrock I, 2:26:32.

The times at the finish were: Shamrock III, 3:33:39; Shamrock I, 3:39:42.

It was shortly after 1 o'clock when the boats started. During the first five miles the challenger outran the older boat about a couple of minutes and about the same gap was maintained to the first turn, where the times were: Shamrock III, 2:24:03; Shamrock I, 2:26:32.

As the yachts went about for the beat home they met a bigger sea than the challenger had ever faced. She took it smoothly and well and a couple of short tacks sufficed to convince those on board that she could easily outlast Shamrock I under these conditions.

The new boat bore away and ran back for a fresh start. She came about close on the weather beam of the Shamrock I and they started together on the windward beat. Neither wind nor sea seemed to trouble the challenger. She sailed fast and high in the wind, making about a quarter of a mile dead to leeward in 20 minutes' sailing. Having demonstrated the challenger's superiority in both pointing and sailing, Capt. Wringe for some unknown reason followed the same tactics as were pursued during the latter half of the leeward run, and refrained from pursuing his victory home. The challenger was sailed off and on the wind in the most bare-faced fashion, beating away at times until the wind was almost ahead, and then she came about and headed the Shamrock I. She probably lost a couple of minutes in this way and even then the challenger scored handsomely, beating the Shamrock I over six minutes in an hour's windward work.

The finishing times were: Shamrock III, 3:33:39; Shamrock I, 3:39:42.

STRAWBERRY RESERVOIR SCHEME

Elaborate Report Being Prepared by State Engineer Doremus—Will Have a Storage Capacity of Nearly Eleven Billion Cubic Feet of Water and Dam Will Cost $140,000.

State Engineer Doremus is preparing an elaborate report to the governor on the Strawberry valley reservoir scheme, and which will be handsomely illustrated by photographs. Judging from the photographs, this site is one of the best natural reservoir sites in the country, and will provide a reservoir capable of holding 10,500,000,000 cubic feet of water, or 250,000 acre feet. The cost of the dam will be about $140,000; but then there is the cost of excavating a three and a half mile tunnel, so as to get the water over into the water shed. The height of the dam will be 75 feet.

The width across the top 600 feet. The company proposing to engage in this enterprise is the Spanish Fork Irrigation & Reservoir company, represented in its management by the following: J. S. McBeth, Payson; Ammon Nebeker, Payson; Henry Gardner, Spanish Fork; W. O. Greer, Spanish Fork; Fred Matley, Spanish Fork; Samuel Brockbank, Spanish Fork; Wm. Jex, Spanish Fork; Wm. Davis, Jr., Salt Lake; Wm. Mayhew, Salt Lake. The scheme is to run the Strawberry water into Spanish Fork creek and thence into the southern part of Utah county for irrigation, the water eventually finding its way into Utah lake.

VANDERBILT-NIELSON WEDDING.

Newport, R. I., April 14.—The wedding of Reginald C. Vanderbilt of New York, the youngest son of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, and Miss Cathleen G. Nelson, also of New York, which occurred at "Arling" at noon today, was a brilliant as well as an early beginning of the social season of 1903 at Newport. As the marriage took place in a private villa, it lacked much of the splendor which usually attends a church function. About 150 guests, nearly all from New York, were present.

It was a white wedding. The decorations were white on a background of green, the bridesmaids were gowned in white with white picture-belts; the bridegroom, his best-man and the ushers were white puff cravats and white boutonnieres and the bride, of course, was attired in the purest white. The weather milled and instead of a sparkling spring day, it was gray and cold, with a misty northeast wind blowing in from the sea.

For an hour preceding the ceremony an orchestra played, and just at noon the bridesmaids were gowned in white and the bridegroom in white. A reception followed and an inspection was made of the bridal gifts, which were declared to be probably as costly an array as was ever bestowed on two young people at the advent of their married life. Then came the wedding breakfast.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt left for their new villa at Sandy Point, a few miles up the island during the afternoon, where they will spend a few days, previous to a three months' trip to Europe.

The venire for the grand jurors will not be issued until after the Ellison case is disposed of, which, in all probability, will be the first part of May.
