STRANGER THAN FICTION.

HOW AN AGED BLIND WOMAN SUDDENLY REGAINED HER SIGHT.

Mrs. Patrick Scanlon of Wilkesbarre, Pa., aged about 60 years, had been afflicted with a cataract on each eye for nine years past, during which time she had been totally blind. Yesterday, September 3, after playing with a grandson, a toddler of 2 years, for several hours, she lay upon a lounge in the sitting-room of her house. She unconsciously dropped into dreamland, and the child missing her attentions determined to arouse her. He had a piece of a shingle in his hand, and ambling up to the side of the lounge he leaned over his unconscious grandparent, and raising the shingle, struck her across the eyes with it. The woman started up terrified and amazed. She had regained her sight, and she knew not how. She experienced a sharp pain for an instant, but the sudden transition from darkness to light, from blindness to the blessing of sight, made this vanish, and she cried out aloud with joy. Members of the family surrounded her, and upon examination it was found that both cataracts had been broket by the blow which the grandson administered.

Mrs. Scanlon has been entirely cured, and neighbors who have known her for many years vouch for the truthfulness of the statement made above. There is great joy in the Scanlon homestead, and the infant oculist is the lion of the hour. Mrs. Scanlon says she don't believe it was the blow from the infant that cured her of her disease. She says it was the work of divine Providence. For a year past she has visited the Catholic Church at Providence, going to mass every morning accompanied by her little niece. She would remain in the church four hours praying. Immediately when the sight came back Mrs. Scanlon at once repaired to the Catholic Church, where she had a long interview with her pastor. On her way to the sacred edifice she attracted general attention by the uplifting of her hands and praying aloud. Her acquaintances were dumbfounded, and many surrounded her saying:

"Why, Mrs. Scanlon, can you see?"

"Yes, thank God, I can; the Almighty did it for me."—Globe-Democrat.

How Butterine is Made.

Oleomargarine is the raw material from which butterine is made. It is procured in this way: From the fresh ly slaughtered carcasses of cattle in the abattoirs of large towns the superfluous portions of suet are taken to the butterine factories. The finest, cleanest, and sweetest portions only are selected for making oleomargarine. The process of manufacture is as follows: At the factory the beef suet is thrown into tanks containing tepid water, and after standing a short time it is washed repeatedly in cold water and disinterrated and separated from fibre by passing it through a meat-masher worked by steam, after which it is forced through a fine sieve. It is then melted by surrounding the tanks with water at a temperature of about one hundred and twenty degrees Fahrenheit. Great care is taken not to exceed this point; otherwise the fat would begin to decompose and acquire a flavor of tallow. After being well stirred, the adipose membrane subsides to the bottom of the tank, and is separated under the name of "scrap," whilst a clear yellow oil is left above together with a film of white oily substance. The film is removed by skimming, and the yellow oil is drawn off and allowed to solidify. The refined fat, as the substance is now known, is then taken to the press-room—which is kept at a temperature of about ninety degrees Fahrenheit—packed in cotton cloths, and placed in galvanized iron plates in a press. On being subjected to pressure, oil flows away. The cakes of steatine which remain are sent to the candlemakers. The oil—which is now known as oleomargarine—is filled into barrels for sale or export, or directly made into butterine by adding to it ten per cent. of milk and churning the mixture. It is now colored with annatto and rolled with ice to set it; salt is added; the process is finished and it is ready for packag.

Good Uses for Old Newspapers.

All old newspapers should be saved, folded neatly and given a place in some closet or on a shelf. They can be used for packing china, glass or tin, and they are the best possible articles for cleaning windows or mirrors; in fact, nothing polishes glass as newspaper does. Take a newspaper or part of one, according to the size of the glass. Fold it small and dip it into a basin of clean, cold water; when thoroughly wetted, squeeze it out in your hand as you would a sponge, and then rub it hard all over the face of the glass, taking care, if it is a mirror, that it is not so wet that the moisture will stream down over the glass, also that no drops get beneath the frame and behind the glass, as they will remain there in bubbles and cannot be dislodged without removing the board at the back. But there is no danger of such accidents if the newspaper is merely moistened or dampened throughout. After the glass has been rubbed well with damp paper, leave for a minute or two; then take a fresh paper folded small in your hand and rub the glass thoroughly with it until it looks clear and bright, which will be surprisingly soon—almost immediately, in fact. Finish with a fresh piece of newspaper thoroughly dry. This method, simple as it is, will be found on trial the best and most expeditious way of cleaning mirrors or any plate glass, giving a clearness and polish which cannot be so soon produced by any other process. Window panes may be cleaned in this manner, also the glasses of spectacles. The glass globe of a lamp may also be thus cleaned. The efficacy is attributed to the materials used in making the printing ink. Besides this, one is always wanting paper for singeing fowl, lighting fires, etc.—Philadelphia Call.

How One Democrat was Made.

At one time a well-to-do farmer came into the executive chamber to see Governor Tilden. He was affably received, told to be seated, and from a talk about crops the conversation drifted into politics. The farmer was very intelligent upon this topic. Governor Tilden quickly saw that he could make his visitor a firm friend.

"Have you any sons?" he asked.

"Yes, four," replied the stranger. "There is William, Robert, Henry and Charles."

"All Democrats?" queried Mr. Tilden.

"All except William," was the reply. "Have you a notary public in your village?" asked Mr. Tilden.

"I don't know that we have," was the answer.

After a further conversation the stranger left. In a few days there came to the village postoffice a large official envelope addressed to William—the Republican son. It was opened in the family circle and found to contain a notary's commission, with a huge seal and William's name finely engrossed as a notary public for the village. To the commission was the written autograph of Samuel J. Tilden. The surprise was as great as if William had received a commission as minister to France. After that there were four democratic sons in that family circle, and, with the "old man," Governor Tilden had five of the firmest friends in the State. And all it cost was a little inquiry and a three-cent stamp to send the commission to the newly appointed notary.—Albany Argus.

Diamond Hunting.

In 1845 diamonds were discovered in the province of Bahia. There are two stories told of the discovery—one that a quick-eyed slave from Minas-Geraes, keeping his flock in Bahia, remarked the similarity of the soil to that of his native place, and searching in the sand, soon found seven hundred carats of diamonds. With these the faithful creature ran away and attempted to make his fortune in a distant city by sale, but, so valuable a property in the hands of a slave, exciting suspicion, he was put to the question as to where they came from, and, refusing to answer, sent back to Bahia and his master. There, being watched, his secret was made clear, and within twelvemonth there were five-and-twenty thousand seekers at work, securing for some time a daily amount of 1,450 carats. The other story is that of a mulatto miner in the interior, gold washing in a stream at Sincora, whose crowbar slipping woke a hollow sound below; mother earth groaned as it were, like a miser, at the discovery of her stores, and pushing his hand through, the mulatto pulled out a handful of stones, valued subsequently at £100,000 in that hole alone. Within six months fifteen thousand were there, and in the first two years the product of their toil rose to half a million of money.

Carrier Pigeons in Europe.

Carrier pigeons, says the London Times, have long been an object of attention to the government of Germany and France. In this latter country the Minister of War lately directed a census of the carrier pigeons to be made, when it appeared that at Lille there are 8,000; at Roubaix, 15,000; at the little town of Wattrelos, in the Department of the Nord, there are 3,000, partly belonging to private individuals, partly to societies who endeavor to improve the quality of the birds. Attention is paid to the birds chiefly in the manufacturing districts of the East and North. In Germany the War Department has 6,000 pigeons. There are about 100 associations that have about 15,000 birds. Independently of business messages there are frequent flying matches, and it has been ascertained that every year some thousands of pigeons are lost in those matches, or at least never arrive at their destinations or return to their homes.

Doctors in Russia.

The practice of medicine in Russia is exceedingly onerous and unremunerative. A physician who fails to respond to the summons of a patient is punished by a fine of from five to one hundred roubles. If the case was a dangerous one, and the physician knew it, he may be imprisoned in jail for three months. The legal fee for an ordinary visit is from 8½ to 15 cents; for an accouchment, 75 cents. These laws are strictly enforced. An elderly German physician, an invalid, was called on a stormy winter night to attend a case seven miles distant. He objected to go unless he was reasonably remunerated, naming his fee. The messenger left to ascertain whether this amount would be paid, but did not return. The physician was subsequently arrested, tried and condemned to eight days' imprisonment. Besides, he had to pay his lawyer $25 in advance.

A Short Chat about Oatmeal.

No one can live in a Scotch community without noticing the healthful look of the children, whose food consists largely of oatmeal, compared with those fed on fine grains, or even groats, which are the same, only without the husks. This chaff or husk, however, which is left in the meal, contains some points that act as a stimulant on the coats of the bowels to keep them active without medicine, and render it a food of great benefit to the dyspeptic. There is no method of cooking oatmeal equal to the making of porridge, and when properly prepared it is generally a favorite dish for breakfast. "What makes your oatmeal porridge so good?" is a frequent question in our house from strangers, and they think the meal must be of superior quality. But to prepare it properly the water must be boiling, necessary salt added, and the oatmeal then stirred in slowly by sifting it through the fingers. The process must not be hurried if lumps would be avoided. When it begins to boil up well, stop stirring and close the pot tightly. Set at the back of the stove while you cook the rest of the breakfast. Lift the porridge without any more stirring, as it is this that creaks the grain and makes it waxy. The Scotch do not stir with a spoon, but with a flattened stick called a "spurtle," that and one cap make according to his own idea. This gives more evenness to the mixing, and if cooked in this way the porridge will be sweet, whole-grained, and wholesome.—Amile L. Jack, in Good Housekeeping.

—It is rumored that Mr. E. Brown has found some float rock, three miles east of Fairview. It is said to assay $50 to the ton in gold.

—There have been many deaths among horses and sheep this season in Sanpete County, owing to their having fed upon poisonous weeds, it is thought.

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R'Y

By reason of its central position, close relation to principal lines East of Chicago and continuous lines at terminal points West, Northwest and Southwest—is the only true middle-link in that transcontinental system which invites and facilitates travel and traffic in either direction between the Atlantic and Pacific.

The Rock Island main line and branches include Chicago, Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Peoria, Geneseo, Moline and Rock Island, in Illinois; Davenport, Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Ottumwa, Oskaloosa, West Liberty, Iowa City, Des Moines, Indianola, Winterset, Atlantic, Knoxville, Audubon, Harlan, Guthrie Centre and Council Bluffs, in Iowa; Gallatin, Trenton, St. Joseph, Cameron and Kansas City, in Missouri; Leavenworth and Atchison, in Kansas; Albert Lea, Minneapolis and St. Paul, in Minnesota; Watertown in Dakota, and hundreds of intermediate cities, towns and villages.

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

Guarantees Speed, Comfort and Safety to those who travel over it. Its roadbed is thoroughly ballasted. Its track is of heavy steel. Its bridges are solid structures of stone and iron. Its rolling stock is perfect as human skill can make it. It has all the safety appliances that mechanical genius has invented, and experience proved valuable. Its practical operation is conservative and methodical—its discipline strict and exacting. The luxury of its passenger accommodations is unequaled in the West—unsurpassed in the world.

ALL EXPRESS TRAINS between Chicago and the Missouri River consist of comfortable DAY COACHES, magnificent PULLMAN PALACE PARLOR and SLEEPING CARS, elegant DINING CARS providing excellent meals, and—between Chicago, St. Joseph, Atchison and Kansas City—restful RECLINING CHAIR CARS.

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

Is the direct, favorite line between Chicago and Minneapolis and St. Paul. Over this route solid Fast Express Trains run daily to the summer resorts, picturesque localities and hunting and fishing grounds of Iowa and Minnesota. The rich wheat fields and grazing lands of interior Dakota are reached via Watertown.

A short desirable route, via Seneca and Kankakee, offers superior inducements to travelers between Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Lafayette and Council Bluffs, St. Joseph, Atchison, Leavenworth, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul and intermediate points.

All classes of patrons, especially families, ladies and children, receive from officials and employes of Rock Island trains protection, respectful courtesy and kindly attention.
