MET DEATH IN A SANDBANK

Little Adena and Mildred Williams Suddenly Killed—Narrow Escape of Two Others.

Boys Imprisoned for Stealing Hides and Endangering Life—Funeral of Mrs. Abbott.

A most shocking and fatal accident occurred Saturday evening at about six o'clock at the old gravel pit near 20th street and Liberty avenue. Four girls were buried in a cave-in of a sand bank. Two of them were killed. Their names are Adena C. Williams, aged 13 years, 7 months and 25 days, and Mildred Williams, aged two years, 11 months and 11 days, both daughters of Oscar C. and Annie Williams, who reside at 287 Quincy avenue. The names of the little girls who were rescued alive are Annie Chatham, daughter of Thomas Chatham, and Ida Hallen, daughter of August Hallen. They are both about 12 years of age, and reside on Liberty and Balfour avenue respectively.

According to the story of the surviving little girls the accident happened as follows: The four little girls mentioned and Martha Schatt and Leona Brown went to the sand bank about 4 o'clock to play, and about 4:30 o'clock the last mentioned girls started leaving their four playmates for a run down the bank. They had hardly gone four rods distance away when they heard a loud scream. They looked around only just in time to see the sand falling on their little friends. They rushed back to the place screaming, and saw that three of the girls were entirely covered. While Ida Hallen's face was only partly covered with sand, she could breathe, and her screams attracted the attention of Superintendent Metcalf of the dead and dumb school, who happened to be passing by at the time. He rushed to the scene and by presence of mind quickly took the situation and sent the two little girls and a number of young boys who had been playing at the sand bank away from the spot, to warn the neighborhood and bring rescuers, and in about three minutes a dozen men were on the scene with shovels, and in five minutes they had the little girl dug out and in a minute later the other girl was dug out. Some ladies carried these two to their homes and the men continued digging, and after a few minutes a few more of the sand was removed, and the little girl was taken out, and a short distance further and the older Williams girl's body was found. In the meantime, while the rescuing was going on, the boys, Gordon and Baker, were summoned. They were on the scene before the rescue was completed, and as soon as the bodies were gotten out the doctors resorted to every possible means of resuscitation, but with the two little girls, and today they are feeling all right, having recovered from their terrible nervous shock and prostration.

The bodies of the Williams children were removed to their home, where the grief of the family, which consists of the father and mother and five children, is indescribable.

The funeral services over the remains of the Williams girls was held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Congregational church, Rev. Goschen officiating. There was a large attendance of friends, and the remains of the two children were laid to rest in a beautiful white casket, and interred in the Ogden City cemetery.

Covered H. C. Wardleigh was called viewed the remains with a jury, and an inquest is now in progress to investigate the death and to see if any carelessness can be attached to any one because of the dangerous condition in which the sand bank was left.

BOYS IMPRISONED.
The Oregon Short Line has been doing some grading on their road between Ogden and Hot Springs, and for about a week past every train that left Ogden for the springs some boys would jump on the train and ride either on the trucks or on the beams of the cars. The company's employees realizing this, and that it was a nuisance, decided to stop them, but with no avail, so the police department was notified of the affair and Detective Burton and Officer Burton went to the depot yards and arrested twelve boys ranging from 11 to 16 years of age, and took them to the police station where they were all put in the dungeon for one hour and locked up. They were then brought out and given a good reprimand, and were then permitted to go, but the police kept a watchman at the depot, and the next boys caught trying to steal a ride on the cars will receive better punishment.

SERIOUS AND BLOODY AFFRAY.
Murderous Assault by Joseph Boren and John Clinger—Court Notes.

Special Correspondence.
Provo, March 10.—One of the liveliest and bloodiest rows seen in Provo for a few days happened in the second ward Friday about midnight.

Joseph Boren and John Clinger were on one side and James King and Mrs. George Ball took care of the other side. The fight was a very serious one, and an important part in the controversy.

Mrs. Ball is a sister of Clinger's and a sister-in-law to Boren, and some time ago secured a divorce from her husband. Leasing Reservation Grazing Lands—Sunnyside Coal Camp.

Special Correspondence.
Pines, Carbon County, March 9.—Parties from different parts of the State are here this week, hunting maps of the Utah reservation, and talking with people here who are familiar with that portion of the reservation that is advertised to be leased for grazing purposes.

The range proposed to be leased are described as range No. 1, which consists of 280,000 acres; range 2, which consists of 320,000 acres, and range No. 3, which consists of 100,000 acres. A minimum price of 2 cents per acre per annum is named in the advertisement, preference being given to the grazing of cattle on ranges 1 and 2. The term of the lease will be five years from April 1, 1900. Sealed bids will be received by the United States Indian agent at White Rocks, Utah, until 2 o'clock p. m., on the 14th of March, 1900. All things being satisfactory the grazing privileges will be given to the highest bidder.

SUNNYSIDE COAL COMPANY.
The Sunnyside coal mine runs three shafts of eight hours each. The coal is about seven feet thick and the mine is being opened out very rapidly. The output of coal being nearly 600 tons every twenty-four hours. The coal produced there is the best in this State for cooking purposes. Life is shipped to Castlegate to be coked, but it is said that coke ovens will be built at Sunnyside in the near future.

A petition has been sent to Washington, D. C., asking that a postoffice be established there, and George Richards has been recommended for postmaster.

Towns of Ferron and Castle Dale Incorporated—Officials Named.

Special Correspondence.
Huntington, Emery Co., March 10.—The farmers have commenced irrigating and plowing, and all will be busy or ought to be, until crops are gathered in the fall, the prospects for our water supply is not near as good as we would like, but we hope to raise good crops, depending some on rains during the summer.

TWO NEW TOWN CORPORATIONS.
The county commissioners meet last Monday and among other business attended to was the incorporation of two towns, Castle Dale and Ferron. The incorporation lines at Castle Dale are outside of the town limits, the owners of property outside the town protested against being taken into the incorporation, but the petition was granted. The town officers are likely to have some trouble in collecting taxes from parties outside the lines of the recorded town plat.

The officers at Castle Dale are: Orange Seely, president; John Y. Jensen, D. T. Thomander, Ole Olsen and Seth Allen, trustees.

At Ferron the town officers are: Samuel Singleton, president; Charles A. Peterson, George W. Bailey and Mrs. M. J. Taylor, trustees.

It is to be hoped the benefits the people expect to receive from these organizations will be realized. There are now two towns in the county, viz.: Huntington, Castle Dale and Ferron, and the revenue the county loses by these incorporations is close to $2,000. This for saloon and business license, and the poll tax that goes on the county rolls in place of this poll tax, the county will have to pay out hundreds of dollars to keep the roads surrounding these towns in repair.

Last Sunday a fast meeting the ward clerk, Wm. Hunter, resigned, and John P. Brookbank was elected by the people to fill that position.

The health of the people here is excellent at this time. A democratic rally was held here Thursday last, the speakers were H. A. Smith of Salt Lake and Representative O'Neill of Uintah county.

MRS. LAWTON'S BIG SOLDIER.
The moment that General Lawton arrived in town from the front, Mrs. Lawton took charge of him. She saw to it that his clothes and his food were right; and the big soldier was as a child in the little woman's hands.

She hurried through the dark days of his absence by making light for the wounded officers and men of her husband's division who were in the hospital. The arrangements that she was making to surprise each one with a Christmas present had to wait for the three days that he was at home before he started on his insignificant mission that cost him his life. I happened to see them both the last afternoon they were together. She was sitting near his desk at the Division headquarters while he was looking over the typewritten copy of his orders for the expedition, which he had written with a pencil on a pad in his full, round hand.

I had brought him a photograph of himself which was taken last spring, and he looked at it with a smile. Mrs. Lawton at once. She scrutinized the likeness carefully from many points of view and concluded that it was very good. Since it was taken, however, the general had grown full beard.

"I shall have to make another of that account," I suggested. But, as she looked first at the picture and then at the general, she seemed dubious about this.

"I don't know as I am going to let him keep the beard," she explained. "It does very well for the present, for he has so little chance to shave when he is at the front."

"You go with him to a post in the States if he were it?" I asked her jokingly.

"Oh, I would go with him anywhere!" she replied earnestly.

The road to the general's headquarters was a well-beaten one for the correspondents. He was always accessible and kindly, and never misplaced confidence in trusting them with information as to his future movements.

"It won't be worth your while to go with us on this trip," he said. "We are only going out to garrison San Mateo with two battalions of infantry and an escort of cavalry. The work is not very exciting. Maybe there are three hundred insurgents up there. They'll fire a few shots and run, as usual."

Early in the afternoon a heavy rain-stom set in. On his way at nine o'clock in the evening out to the pumping station, when the fire force was to be mobilized, he stopped at the Palace for a final word with General Otis, who told him again that he was needlessly exposing himself to the storm and to the command over to Colonel "Oh, I'm all right," he said. "This will keep the rain off," referring to a long, olefin coat that he was wearing.

It was as hard for him to keep out of the thick of the fighting as for some boys. When the bullets were unusually thick he would take off his white helmet and hold it between his two hands as if he was trying to discover why it attracted them. His staff begged him again and again to discard this helmet, which made him as prominent—he was always standing or on horseback—as the church-steeple in the landscape of a town viewed from a distance. He only laughed and said:

"It's very comfortable. Keeps my head cool. Bought it at Suez for a dollar and a half. Bargain, wasn't it?"

In one sense, the manner of his death was quite worthy of his character. His was not the spirit to have borne with a bad wound which would have enfeebled him for life. For a major general, his position entitled him to be in town, he was out with his men in a drenching storm. The bullet which passed through his body just above the heart, causing instant death, may have been aimed at the rain-coat which he wore, but it may have been only a random shot. It was not out of place that the body of the man who had followed Indian trails on the Western plains, had retained his buoyant spirit in the day of his death.

He was lying before Santiago, and had made forced marches across muddy dikes and through jungle in Luzon, should have been borne across the stream into San Mateo on the shoulders of his men who were waist-deep in the water. He died without knowing that he was a brigadier in the regular service, but with the satisfaction of knowing that another town of those that had taken place was being garrisoned. —Collier's Weekly.
