

HARRIMAN IS IN ON THE RACE

Short Line Operating Department Figuring on Cutting Down Running Time.

FIGHT FOR MAIL CONTRACT.

One Hour Will be Clipped Off Schedule Between Chicago and Portland Effective Sept. 12.

With the big mail contracts which the United States government has to give out next spring for a price, one of the biggest railway speed wars ever inaugurated between Chicago and the great north and southwestern portion of this country will shortly be precipitated between the competing transcontinental lines covering the territory, it present indications count for anything.

For years great rivalry has been manifest between the railroads centering in Chicago and extending their lines of steel bands through the territory of the great west, for the privilege of carrying Uncle Sam's mail. Schedule have been carved and sliced and carved again, in an effort to show the government that some particular road was best able to deliver the mail pouches taken on at Chicago to the extreme western terminals in the shortest time, and that there is sufficient money in the business of mail carrying to justify these efforts. The prestige to be gained by the road securing the contract, would seem to admit of little cavil, for the government is not parsimonious when it comes to providing safe and swift transportation for its mail bags.

HILL THROWS DOWN GAUNTLET.

The Burlington road, controlled by Jim Hill, has already had an enviable record in the business of mail carrying, and the coast city considerably in order to bid for the coveted plumb, and has already cut two hours from the former schedule between Chicago and Denver. Harriman, on the other hand, is determined that no one shall surpass him in the matter of speed, and just to show Mr. Hill and incidentally what he can do in this matter, ordered his men received at the various Harriman headquarters to set the ball in motion by clipping one hour off the schedule between Chicago and Portland, Or., for the present.

This will be effective Sept. 12, and No. 5, the Harriman transcontinental westbound train, will make the distance between the points named on a 24-hour schedule, instead of 24, as heretofore. The change will make no difference in the arrival or departure of trains from Salt Lake City either way, as the time will be made up between points east and west of this city.

In addition to the faster time to be made by the passenger and mail train, the freight schedule between Chicago and Portland will be reduced by 15 hours, and the time between the two points instead of being 188 hours, as heretofore, will hereafter be made in 173 hours. The local railroad force is now at work in remodeling the timetables to meet the changes, and various changes to go into effect in the passenger and freight departments, which will be effective, as stated, on Sunday, Sept. 12.

THE ROUND OF THE THEATERS

ORPHEUM.—The bill at the Orpheum last night came up to the standard established by the house and met the expectation of a large audience. In variety, the program almost established a record.

Miss Lily Lena, the English comedienne, who is making her first American tour this season, in her "story songs," delighted the audience. With her catchy songs and English gown her work was out of this ordinary. She has a good voice, too, and her act was voted as the "headliner."

Meanwhile, in the "Headline," Miss Ruby Raymond and her company introduces several clever and original songs, and did a turn or two of good dancing.

One of the most novel things seen this season is in vaudeville, Charles Dana Gibson's "Electrified Girl Review." With Miss Clara Nelson in the role of the "Gibson Widow" some of the artist's best known and popular pictures were portrayed. Miss Nelson is an excellent representative of the type in beauty and figure. She is also possessed of a good voice. Harry Purdon is the "man of the case" and the two are presented in a variety show. The act is concluded with a rousing party and the song, "The Gibson Sailor Girl."

Julus Tannen is a monologuist of ability. His line of jokes is new and full of wit, and he tells them in an entertaining fashion. His imitations are good and several of his local hits were appropriate.

The "humor bridge" by the Three Dandies, acrobats, is something that has never been seen on the circuit before. This feat takes more than ordinary strength, and there are several other belligerent "stunts" in their act.

The McGraffys gave a novel exhibition in arrow shooting. Many of the features required skill and they were well done, with style.

GRAND—Curiosity to see what the Mack company could do with "The Squawman" has drawn immense audiences thus far at the Grand, and the verdict is one of surprise and satisfaction.

With a plot that appeals alike to loyal Britons and royal Americans; with a real "Tommy Atkins" who drinks to the president of the United States and her gracious majesty, the queen, with the typification of an ideal English woman, a true characterization of the stolic qualities of the American Indian, and his faithfulness without, with both sides of the western type, the cowboy, his love for appreciation and for scorn, and the training of the traits of true manhood in the heart of "The Squawman" and his comely friend, the performance of Edwin Milton Royle's famous play mounted upon a new career of success at the Grand last night.

The secret of the play's success is that it is intensely human; no impossible characterizations are attempted; only human frailty and human strength wherein men and women appear as they are naturally, are depicted, with much admiration the noble sacrifice made in the defense of the forest for love of her husband and son, all of which serves to hold the interest of the audience through four acts and makes them loath to leave the hall at the conclusion of the play.

Willard Mack and his company deserved the applause they received last night. In the title role Mr. Mack had ample opportunities to display his versatility as an actor, and he successfully grasped the opportunity. Miss Blanche Douglas clearly presented an ideal part, and she was frequently greeted with hearty applause. Frederick Allen performed the part of "Big Bill," roguish, rollicking, and friend to this squawwoman only. All can; he is the fat actor who without apparent effort can win the hearts of his audience. Ira Earle was a good "bad man"; he was so good that the audience cordially hated him until he died, all but cowboy haters who will do "with her hands on." There was not a weak link in the play, and the success earned by the Mack company was well merited. "The Squawman" goes all week.

MRS. GURRILL ON CLYDE FITCH.—Ada Gurrell Russell, who had an intimate acquaintance with the playwright, was greatly shocked to learn of his death through the dispatches in the "News." "I regret Mr. Fitch's death as a great loss to the American stage," she said yesterday. "I had the advantage of taking part in one of his productions, 'The Girl Who Has Everything,' produced by Gleason Hobson, in which Mr. Fitch superintended the rehearsals. He was a wonderful writer, and unlike many authors, was not too anxious to recognize the value of ideas suggested by others; in fact, if an actor or actress elaborated somewhat on one of Mr. Fitch's creations, he was quick to adopt the idea where it was good, and to give a word of praise to the actor suggesting it. His one great failing was that he wrote too much and too rapidly, and few of his plays will have long life, although they were all very popular at the time they were written."

POISON TURNED TO ITCHING ECZEMA

On Hands and Face—Torment Prevented Sleep—Sufferer Had to Give Up His Work—Specialists and "Cures" Utterly Failed.

IS CURED AND CALLS CUTICURA WORLD'S BEST

Three years ago, while a conductor on the cars, I contracted scabies or eczema on my hand. In wiping the perspiration from my face, I poisoned my nose and ears so severely that I had to shave. I had to give up my position and was treated by specialists, but to no avail. I tried every remedy I was told of and took so much medicine that I felt like a walking drug shop. The doctors could only relieve me for a little.

One day I chanced to see a Cuticura advertisement and thought I would try the Cuticura Remedies, but I had no faith at the time as I had been deceived by so many so-called cures. After three applications of Cuticura Remedy, the itching ceased and after using two boxes I was completely cured and shaving does not interfere with it whatsoever. My nose is as clear as ever and I am now a well man both in body and mind. I consider the Cuticura Remedy to be the best in the world and would like to let the public know that we can be benefited thereby.

I used Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills. I can also say the suffering was intense. It itched and burned so that it was impossible to sleep but thanks to the wonderful Cuticura Remedy I am now well. I send you my check for $1.00 which you may publish. Harold Myers, 783 Jefferson Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 7 and 19, 1908."

For eczema, rashes, itchings, irritations, inflammations and other unwholesome conditions of the skin and scalp and for the prevention of the same, we recommend Cuticura Remedy. It cleansing of chlorinated, inflamed mucous surfaces and other areas which readily suggest themselves to women. Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment, assisted when necessary by Cuticura Resolvent, are indispensable.

Sold throughout the world. Foster Drug & Chem. Co., Cuticura Book, mailed free, tells all interests to know about treatment and care of hundreds of cases of the skin scalp and hair.

PEARY'S CLAIM TO PRIORITY

pole, that lure of the centuries, has actually been reached, comes as suddenly and from a quarter as unexpected, that intelligent judgment on the fact is difficult. Naturally writing for the public and forwarding this account by cable, only the personal and popular phases would be presented and any statement of scientific results or data would be deferred. But Dr. Cook would probably not demand that scientific rank and weight should be given to his remarks, and weight should be given to his theories, that science and art are携手 (hand in hand) in their efforts to conquer the north pole.

In conclusion Lieut. Shackleton said:

"While Peary's success will stop attempts to reach the north pole, there is a lot of scientific work to be done in the arctic regions which it will be impossible to carry out on marches to the pole, on account of the quickness of travel."

men who respect, honor and observe fair play.

Perry's plans were all as open as the day and all of his operations as transparent as is a glass of water. He had no secret and unadmitted work in which he had accomplished many times more than di who had preceded him were to be crowned by one final attempt to reach the coveted goal of centuries. That his men, methods and resources should be appropriated and the long struggle finished before he had had his fair and equal opportunity is a remarkable view which the American people will consider just judgment when they know all is already secured. Patience and more facts and in the meantime the past right."

LIEUT. SHACKLETON COMMENTS ON CONTROVERSY.

London, Sept. 7.—The honor of planting the national flag at the north pole is undoubtedly ours to America. Lieut. E. H. Shackleton, the English explorer said today:

"The news within a week," he continued, "that two men had reached the pole is an extraordinary coincidence. We will wait to hear of Commander Peary's arrival some time during the month and we sincerely hope that the result of his years of effort and struggle would be crowned with success."

Peary undoubtedly got to the pole between him and Dr. Cook, the pole certainly has been reached. It is said that Peary reached the goal April 6, 1909, and would be interesting to know how far he went to get to the pole. Peary's speed coincides with Cook's; his fact will go far in the eyes of the world, to clear up the question whether such distances as claimed by Cook can be covered. The ice conditions around Peary's camp in 1909 should approximate somewhat the conditions observed by Cook.

It is remarkable, unlikely that the metal cylinder left at the pole by Dr. Cook would be found by Peary because of the drifting of the ice. If Peary took a more easterly line there is a possibility of his coming across the cylinder, but such a find would be extraordinary for a fall of snow would be sufficient to hide all traces of this tube.

Peary, from what I know of him, would be the first to give credit to anyone who succeeded him. Peary deserved his success, and devoted his life to arctic exploration and probably has a wider knowledge of arctic travel.

In conclusion Lieut. Shackleton said:

"While Peary's success will stop attempts to reach the north pole, there is a lot of scientific work to be done in the arctic regions which it will be impossible to carry out on marches to the pole, on account of the quickness of travel."

The question of the ownership of the land near the north pole is to come up again. Mr. Parker has given notice of his intention of asking Premier Asquith whether this territory is not considered as belonging to Canada, and if Dr. Cook has planted the American flag there, whether or not this act gives the United States any right of possession over the region.

Mrs. Charlotte Decker Relates Experience Following Dinner Party.

Mrs. Charlotte C. B. Decker, a guest at a dinner party at the Bristol cafe last June, fled suit this morning against Ray & Harvey, who were then the proprietors to recover $1,365 for personal injuries sustained while going down the back stairs. According to the complaint she fell several steps, injuring her foot and was unable to walk for several days. She was compelled to pay her household duties for 60 days. In the complaint she charges the proprietors of the cafe with negligence in constructing the stairway.

NEW JUDGE HOLDS COURT.

Alexander McMaster Sits For First Time on Juvenile Bench.

Judge Alexander McMaster of the Salt Lake Juvenile court held his first session of court at 2 o'clock this afternoon. A number of cases were called and disposed of. Several boys were made wards of the court, and released on their promise to do better.

A Judge Commands Pure Food

A Judge of a Colorado Court said: "Nearly one year ago I began the use of Grape-Nuts as a food. Constant confinement indoors and in the arid climate of Colorado had so weakened and impaired my mental powers that I felt the imperative need of something which neither doctors nor food specialists seemed able to supply."

"A week's use to Grape-Nuts twice each day convinced me that some unusual and remarkable virtue was contained therein. My mental vigor returned with astonishing rapidity; brain weariness (from which I had suffered) quickly disappeared; clearness of thought and intellectual health and activity which I had never previously known were to me the plain results of a few months use of this food."

"Unquestionably I commend Grape-Nuts as the most remarkable food preparation which science has produced so far as my knowledge and experience extends."

The judge is right. Grape-Nuts food is a certain and remarkable brain builder and can be relied upon.

That's a reason."

TESTED & PROVEN

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months Deseret News readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. Not another remedy ever produced such convincing proof of merit.

J. W. Browning, 341 22nd St. Ogden, Utah, writes: "I believe the exposure I underwent at different times during my life caused my kidney complaint. About ten years ago I first noticed the trouble, then being a pain in my back, especially severe when I overexerted myself. About five years ago the doctors told me I had diabetes, and I believed this to be true, as my kidneys were failing. I have had a number of attacks of diabetes since, but have been able to control them with Doan's Kidney Pills. I began their use and felt tired and listless. My back pain disappeared in my limbs. A few months ago I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills I began their use and before long was in good health. I have induced several of my friends to take Doan's Kidney Pills and I know of one case where the contents of two boxes effected a complete cure." From statement given Mar. 7, 1907.

ADDED PROOF.

Mr. Browning was interviewed on July 28, 1909, and he said: "Although I have not had my health for many years, I have never had an attack of kidney trouble since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me. Whenever I have the opportunity, I give this remedy as endorsement, as I consider it to be a specific for kidney and bladder disorders."
