

DID HANNA HAVE A PREMONITION?

Rep. Alden Smith Relates a Touching Incident Indicating that He Foresaw His Demise.

PRESIDENT IS MUCH GRIEVED.

Elaborate Preparations for the Funeral—Cleveland Ready to Receive Body—Pallbearers Selected.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16.—Representative William Alden Smith of Michigan related at the White House today a touching incident of a recent conversation he had with Senator Hanna. He went to Senator Hanna in the senate chamber one day and invited him to attend, as one of the distinguished men of the country, the semi-centennial celebration of the founding of the Republican party, to be held at Jackson, Mich., on July 6, next.

"I don't know where I will be then," was the senator's pathetic reply to the invitation.

"Why, you will be right here, of course," returned Mr. Smith, reassuringly.

"No," replied Mr. Hanna. "I am afraid I won't."

"I walked to the rear of the senate chamber," said Mr. Smith, "and, looking back at the senator, wondered if he had a premonition that he might not live long. The impression made by his words never left me."

At the meeting of the cabinet today the death of the Ohio senator was lamented deeply. All the members entertained for him the profoundest regard and respect.

The opportunity afforded by the meeting was embraced by all present to pay personal tributes to their dead friend. Little business was transacted. The members decided to assemble at the White House at about 11 o'clock tomorrow to accompany the president to the Capitol to attend the senate funeral services.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Washington, Feb. 16.—At the White House today the president and all the attaches shared in the general sorrow over the death of Senator Hanna. President Roosevelt, the members of his cabinet, senators and representatives in Congress, and callers of all classes sadly paid tribute to the memory of the dead statesman.

From the entrance of the lamented McKinley into the White House Senator Hanna was a conspicuous figure at the executive mansion. Both before and after he became a member of the senate, Mr. Hanna was a frequent caller at the White House, and his visits have been frequent since Mr. Roosevelt succeeded to the presidency. President Roosevelt entertained a cordial regard for Senator Hanna, and the senator reciprocated that feeling.

While they differed at times, as strong men may differ, their personal relations never were endangered by the differences. Indeed, so high was the regard in which the president held Mr. Hanna's ability as a political manager and as a potent force in national affairs that a few months ago he requested him urgently, in the event of his nomination for the presidency, to assume again the duties and responsibilities of directing the national campaign. While it was feared Mr. Hanna's ill health might induce him to decline to again accept the chairmanship of the Republican national committee, he had not returned at the time he was stricken by his fatal sickness, the final answer to the president's request.

THE DEAD SENATOR.

Washington, Feb. 16.—All that is mortal of Senator Marcus A. Hanna lies today in the room at the Arlington hotel where, after the long brave struggle, he yielded to death. The remains are being prepared for burial. Thus far only a few of the most intimate friends of the Hanna family have been permitted to enter the death chamber to view the body. In appearance the features of the dead statesman are very lifelike. They indicate little emaciation and, on account of the oxygen used during the last days of the senator's sickness, there is an absence of the ashen color peculiar to the dead.

An atmosphere of profound sorrow pervaded the hotel throughout the day. Men conversed in subdued tones and the name of the distinguished dead was on every lip.

FUNERAL ARRANGEMENTS.

At a council of the members of the Hanna family and some intimate friends of the senator held today, arrangements were made for the funeral. Besides the senator's son, Daniel R. Hanna, and his brother, H. M. Hanna, there were present Gov. Herrick and Gen. Dick of Ohio and Elmer Dover, the senator's secretary.

During the conference H. M. Hanna visited President Roosevelt. He was accompanied by Postmaster General Payne.

PALLBEARERS SELECTED.

The pallbearers here have been selected as follows: Gov. Herrick, Judge W. B. Saunders, Andrew Squire, J. B. Zerbe, C. A. Grasselli, B. Hough, William J. McKinnie and Samuel Mather.

The final resting place for the remains has not yet been decided upon. It is probable, however, that the body will be placed temporarily in a vault at Lakewood cemetery, where the bodies of President Garfield and other distinguished men are interred.

Flags were flying at half-mast today on public and private buildings throughout the city and the one topic of conversation on all sides related to the death of Senator Hanna.

THE CITY'S SORROW.

At a conference of representative citizens held in the city hall this afternoon it developed that the funeral of Senator Hanna is likely to be one of the most magnificent displays of affection that has ever been shown an individual. Veterans of the Civil war, Spanish-American war veterans, and perhaps all of the several military companies of the city will participate in the funeral procession.

During the time the body remains in the chamber of commerce auditorium the guard honors will be alternately of civil war veterans and members of the Fifth regiment.

Mayor Johnson will issue a proclamation tomorrow suggesting the suspension of all business during the hours of the funeral, and this suggestion will be carried out.

President Andrew of the Cleveland Electric company stated that he would order the cessation of all streetcar service in the city during the funeral time.

HANNA A G. A. R. COMRADE.

Senator Hanna was a comrade in Memorial post, G. A. R., and that organization will be prominent in the funeral procession. The proffer of military assistance to maintain order was respectfully declined by Mayor Johnson, who is confident that the local police will be ample for the occasion.

No formal invitations will be sent to any organization to participate in the procession, but all those who wish will be permitted to do so. The representative of the United Trades and Labor council, Peter Hansen, stated that undoubtedly thousands of workmen would be part of the funeral escort.

Admission to the church will be by card. The body of Senator Hanna will not be taken to the family home nor to that of his son, but will be in the hands of the committee of public men from the time it arrives in the city until the final ceremony in Lakewood cemetery.

VALUE OF THE ESTATE.

The value of the estate left by the late Senator Hanna is estimated from $7,000,000 to $8,000,000. It is stated that he owned at least 15 per cent of the stock of the Cleveland electric railway, capitalized at $23,000,000. In addition to being largely interested in vessels and iron mining properties, he has a direct interest in the Union National bank, Guaranty Trust company, the People's Savings and Loan company of this city and Cleveland & Pittsburgh railway. He was a large stockholder in the American Shipbuilding and the Pittsburgh Coal company. He owned the Euclid opera house in this city.

Preparations are being made to drape the hundreds of streetcars operated by the Cleveland Electric Railway company in mourning colors. Senator Hanna was a director and probably the largest individual stockholder in the company at the time of his death.

The committee appointed by the Hanna family at Washington met tonight and requested Mayor Johnson to issue a proclamation that all business in the city be suspended between the hours of 12 and 2 o'clock on the day of the funeral Friday, Feb. 19, and that the residences and business houses along the route, Euclid avenue, from the station of the Pennsylvania railroad to the chamber of commerce building, be draped.

The catafalque that was used in the lying in state of the late President McKinley at Canton has been secured for a similar purpose for Senator Hanna, and the catafalque will arrive here in the morning.

The burial will be in Lakewood cemetery, the final ceremonies being held in Wade mortuary chapel, a beautiful structure in marble and mosaics but with such a limited seating capacity, perhaps 30 or 40, that the cemetery service will be private.

The body will be placed in one of the receptacles in the chapel until spring. Bishop Leonard will conduct brief services at the chapel. The seating capacity of St. Paul's church—800—will limit the attendance there. The Ohio state legislature is expected to attend in a body.

The congressional delegation, senate and house, will be taken care of at the Hollenden hotel.

The committee suggests that throughout the state, on Friday afternoon for 15 minutes, from 1 until 1:15 p. m., all business, railroad traffic and street car service in every town be suspended as a mark of respect to the deceased.

LABOR'S TRIBUTE.

John Mitchell Sends a Personal Telegram to Mrs. Hanna.

Indianapolis, Feb. 16.—President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America has sent a personal telegram of condolence to Mrs. Hanna, saying that in Senator Hanna's death labor has lost a sincere friend. Mr. Mitchell said today:

"The death of Senator Hanna is a distinct loss to the cause of industrial peace. For many years of his life he was given to the promotion of the work of reconciling the interests of employers and employees. I enjoyed the friendship of Senator Hanna and his confidence in matters of this kind, and I know of many things he has done, of many sacrifices he has made, in the interest of organized workmen, for which he neither sought nor received credit. His efforts as chairman of the National Civic Federation brought him into close relationship with nearly all the trade union movements and he had the respect of all men."

William Huber, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, said:

"The death of Senator Hanna I feel that this country has lost one of its greatest statesmen and leaders, one whose loss will be felt among all men, one who dared to do and say what he thought was right, irrespective of what the opposition might contend for."

President Lynch of the International Typographical union, said:

"Occupying such a commanding position in public life, Senator Hanna wielded an influence that was prolific in results, and his tolerant and reasonable attitude on questions that are causing strife between capital and labor created a better feeling and a better understanding on the part of the disputants and the public generally. The sentiment that created will not die with Senator Hanna. It will live longer than the remembrance of his political victories."

EX-SENATOR CARTER.

Helena, Mont., Feb. 16.—The Record prints the following:

Marcus A. Hanna had few more intimate friends than former Senator Thomas H. Carter of Montana. Senator Hanna succeeded Senator Carter in 1894 as chairman of the Republican national committee.

"The week before last I happened to occupy a room next to Senator Hanna in the Arlington hotel in Washington," said Mr. Carter, "and spent a portion of every afternoon during the week with him."

"Senator Hanna was not a candidate for the presidency in opposition to President Roosevelt at any time. Last summer I spent a day with him at his house at Cleveland, and in the course of conversation he said to me emphatically that there was no warrant whatever for the use of his name as a candidate; that he believed the interests of the party required the nomination of Roosevelt, and that there should be no division in the ranks upon the subject. I know that 10 days ago his mind was unchanged on that question."

He said to me that if the field were entirely open he was not sure that President Roosevelt would be even his tenth choice, but that he did not regard the field as an open one; that while Mr. Roosevelt was not his personal choice, he was the logical party candidate, and as such he would support him. He believed that the well-being of his country would be best advanced by the success of his party, and it was not in him to hamper that success for the gratification of any personal feeling. He was the soul of loyalty. God bless his memory."

VACANT SENATORSHIP.

Columbus, O., Feb. 16.—The general assembly met today and adjourned until Monday, out of respect to Senator Hanna. At that time the two houses will be formally notified by Gov. Herrick of the death of the senator, and two weeks later, on March 14, a ballot will be taken for a successor in the senate.

The political situation is very unsettled at the present time, and whom the Republicans will agree on is beyond conjecture.

Gov. Herrick is spoken of, but political alliance makes it almost impossible for him to accept the honor. Congressman Dick, chairman of the Republican state executive committee, is also mentioned as a candidate. Judge Taft is considered by many as being the race, and other names are mentioned.

The Republican leaders are making a strenuous effort to prevent a contest over the election of a successor to the

GET A HEARING.

House Judiciary Committee Listens To Arguments in Behalf of Women's Rights.

THEY MADE A GOOD SHOWING.

Mrs. Grenfell, Colorado's School Superintendent, Recounted Her Experience in Politics.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The National Woman's Suffrage association was given a hearing by the house committee on judiciary today. A delegation numbering over half a hundred women, headed by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the association, arranged themselves around the committee room and enthusiastically applauded the points made in their behalf and of a sixteenth amendment to the Constitution, by the various speakers, whom Mrs. Catt represented.

Members of the committee asked the several women speakers from Colorado as to the reason of Mr. Shafroth's action in resigning his seat in the house yesterday because of fraud at the polls.

Miss Ellis Meredith, who made the first answer to the question, said the fraudulent vote on this occasion was confined to certain Denver precincts. She exonerated the women voters from participation. She said that 55 per cent of the voters of the state were men and 45 per cent were women, while 42 per cent of the actual vote was the vote of the women.

"Showing," remarked Representative Littlefield, "that the women vote as frequently as the men."

Mrs. Mary C. Bradford, also of Colorado, said that in testifying to the benefits of woman suffrage through twenty-seven states she had found that the greatest bugbear to be met was the seeming dread of the polls. The general impression was that the polls were places where all the women were compelled to go and stand in line with all the bad men, who occupied the time in swearing. As a matter of fact, the men met at the polls were the husbands, brothers and friends of the women.

Mrs. Helen L. Grenfell, state superintendent of schools of Colorado, told of her experience in running for office. She had canvassed the state several times and said she had met with just as much "chivalry" as in her school work or in society. As to the election frauds, Mrs. Grenfell asserted that only one woman "repeat-er" had been found.

Ex-Gov. Alva Adams of Pueblo gave the committee his hearty endorsement of woman suffrage. It was, he said, not a question of expediency but a question of right and justice. He said he was personally acquainted with 10,000 women voters in Colorado and was prepared to assert that the right to vote did not detract from their womanly instincts as mothers and wives, nor mar their feminine refinement. The delegation was given a hearing by the senate committee on woman suffrage.

GREEK ARCHAIC CHARIOT.

It is Now in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

New York, Feb. 17.—Although not specially mentioned, it is supposed the Greek archaic chariot of which the Americans have been the subject of interrogations in the Italian chamber of deputies is now in the Metropolitan museum of art in this city. It was unearthed by peasants digging a foundation for a farm house at the foot of "El Capitan Hill," beneath which the road from Monteleone leads to Narda, the ancient Etruscan city of Nuri, 14 miles from Vieste.

President Rhyneland, of the Metropolitan said: "The 'biga,' or chariot, is one of our most valuable pieces of ancient art, and thought to be the only specimen of that early period in existence. It is a Jacob Rogers, the millionaire locomotive manufacturer, purchased it for the museum shortly before his death."

Rome, Feb. 16.—Deputy Barnabè, formerly director-general of fine arts, interrogated the government in the senate chamber today concerning the alleged surreptitious exportation to the United States of a Greek archaic chariot, which was discovered in the department of Umbria. He said this chariot was most valuable; that it dated from six to seven centuries before Christ and that it had carved upon it pictures of events of great historical interest. The loss to Italian archaeology was incalculable. The chariot had been bought for $20,000 by a wealthy American man, a manufacturer, who had presented it to a museum in New York.

Signor Pinchia, under secretary of public instruction, said in reply that the inspector whose negligence had permitted the sale had been dismissed and that strong measures have been adopted to prevent a repetition of the occurrence.

Russia Will Not Exhibit.

St. Louis, Feb. 16.—Surprise was expressed today in world's fair circles when information of the action of Russia's commissioner was conveyed to exposition headquarters.

The excavation for the Russian building was completed last week and work has been a steady one since Saturday, awaiting materials. The building was to be erected at a cost of $100,000 appropriated by the government. And although the government appropriated money for a railroad exhibit in the transportation building where 10,000 feet had been reserved.

Other space reserved for Russia in various buildings aggregated 25,000 square feet.

While in St. Louis last fall, Commissioner General Alexandrovsky leased a dwelling as the official residence and recently negotiations were opened for the leasing of another residence. He was to arrive here by March.

No More Bachelors of Art.

Chicago, Feb. 17.—The faculty of the college of liberal arts has decided that the degree of bachelor of philosophy no longer will be conferred at Northwestern university. The requirements for the degree of bachelor of arts and sciences have been changed so as to demand only one ancient language, Latin or Greek. The effect is to unify the requirements for the two degrees and the latter is discontinued.

CARDUI WILL CURE YOU.

846 Mission Street, SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF., May 28, 1903.

A few months ago I found my health in a state of total collapse. I was run down and nervous. In fact I had to give up my work as I was physically unable to go on. At one of my periods I had taken cold, which had stopped the flow and caused all the trouble. Where to turn and what to do I did not know. Luckily for me I was advised to try Wine of Cardui. A friend of mine who was visiting me from the South told me how universally it had helped women there and praised it so highly that I felt that it must be good and began to take it. A half dozen bottles was all that was needed for my case and at the end of that time I was able to go back to work and haven't known a sick day since. That is what Wine of Cardui did for me and I am very grateful indeed.
