

NEWS NOTES.

Edmond About calls France a sick soldier of God, needing to be cured through the lapse of time.

It appears to have been decided in Lycoming county, Pennsylvania, that tavern licenses can only be granted to married men.

Robbinstown, Me., boasts that it is so healthy that within a few years it has actually starved out four doctors.

Victoria Vokes knocked a man down with an umbrella on Broadway, New York, the other evening, because he threw his arms around her.

A party of Fiji Islanders are to attend the Centennial. Sealed proposals for supplying them with roast missionary during their stay should be sent in at once.

In some parts of the South the drought is so severe that there isn't water enough in the rivers to keep the fish from getting sunburnt on the back.

Peaches are so plentiful in Baltimore market that hundreds of boxes of them were given away and many more left on the wharves, Aug. 18.

A man voluntarily surrendered himself to the New York police recently as an embezzler, from Philadelphia. He had spent all his money, and sought in vain for employment.

An English clergyman has just been sentenced to five years' penal servitude for causing false entries to be made in the church register concerning the death of one of his parishioners.

Miss Susan Augusta Fennimore Cooper, daughter of the novelist, is devoting her life to the support and training of little homeless boys and girls, the orphanage being situated on Otsego Lake, near Cooperstown, New York.

"Sixteen brothers in a bar room, all stepping up to the counter at once and calling for whiskey straight," was one of the notable incidents of the day of the hanging at Tazewell, Tenn.

"The particular curse of the poor man is paper money," in the opinion of the Cincinnati Commercial. If that's true, there isn't a cursed poor man in Missouri—although crowded with people who want to be.—St. Louis Times.

Croquet is so popular at Oak Bluffs, Martha's Vineyard, that a clergyman who was called upon to lead an afternoon prayer meeting the other day, replied, "Let them go ahead, and I will come as soon as this game is done. I will get there before the meeting is out."

A colony of the Waldenses, the laborious and quiet people holding special religious tenets, and dwelling in the valleys of the Po and Pinerolo, has settled in the southwestern portion of Missouri. It has laid out the plan of a future Waldenses city, called Verona, and already containing four hundred inhabitants.

At the Newport, England, Assizes, the other day, Wm. Weaver, a youth, was found guilty of burglary at Abergavenny. It was shown that the prisoner, who was respectably connected, had studied "Dick Turpin's Life," and had procured a six-barrelled revolver to successfully carry out his exploits.

A number of the residents of Pittsburgh have requested the newspapers of that city not to chronicle their departure from town for the summer vacation, as the burglars in the neighborhood are thought to take advantage of such publications to make attacks on houses left without defenders.

Absence makes the heart grow fonder. Listen to the plaint of the love-lorn Rochester Democrat man: "The man who shot Dan Anthony has deprived Rochester of the presence of Susan B. Anthony for at least six months. Perhaps Dan will forgive him, but we never, never can."

Lucy Stone writes to Mr. Loring asking that the President of the United States shall, on the 4th of July, 1876, conduct Lucretia Mott, Lydia M. Child and Frances D. Gage upon the centennial platform under a black flag, commemorating the fact that women are ranked with idiots, felons and ignorant men.

The old parish church of St. Martin's, Birmingham, dating from the latter part of the thirteenth century, has been "restored" after three years' labor. It was formerly a hideous brick-enclosed structure, but it is now a stately edifice which contains nothing of the former building save its most modern feature, the tower.

Seventeen brass bands recently gave a grand band picnic at Lake Pleasant, Mass., at which over 10,000 people were driven nearly wild before they could get home again.

Senator Morrill, of Maine, was presented with $500 during the late session of Congress, by a New York firm as a token of their appreciation of his action in a matter affecting their business interests. Mr. Morrill returned the money by the next mail, intimating to the mercantile gentlemen that he was not that sort of a Senator.

Mr. Chubb, the English lock maker, in whose locks so many of his countrymen place implicit faith as a protection against thieves, has lately written a book in which he admits that no locks can resist the efforts of accomplished thieves, and extols the small terrier dog with a sharp bark as the best possible protector against burglars.

When Raoul Rigault was at the head of the Communistic Police Department in Paris, an old friend came to request the favor of the release from prison of a man supposed to be a reactionary. "Impossible," said Rigault, "impossible. But I'd be happy to do you any other favor; and if there's any other man in Paris you want locked up you have only to name him."

There has been no increase in the paper circulation of England since the passage of the bank act in 1844, more than thirty years ago. The business transactions of England have quadrupled within that period, but the same amount of currency is not only found to be adequate, but money is sometimes such a drug that it can be borrowed at two per cent.—Ex.

A woman was lately found sick, destitute, and clad in a single skirt in an unused cellar in New York, which was half filled with water. She had fever, ague and cough. She said her name was Annie Barton; that she was a serving girl, and becoming sick and deserted by her friends, had crawled into the cellar to die. Her clothes and shoes had been stripped from her while lying on the couch. She had not eaten anything for three days.

Over two hundred guests attended the wedding of George O'Nan and Miss Osborn, in Owen county, Kentucky. Thirty pounds of crackers, a big cheese and fifteen gallons of whiskey were swallowed. Then came the first fight, in which an artery was severed with a knife; but the second one, when they commenced stabbing each other in the abdomen and sawing off arms and legs, was the main feature of the evening's entertainment.

The accusations of Nelson Magee, that while in the Asylum for the Insane at Flatbush he was treated with shocking cruelty by the keepers, who, he says, put him in a straight jacket which was so tight that he could scarcely breathe, and who kicked him in the stomach and knocked him down, have attracted Mayor Hunter's attention, and yesterday the Mayor wrote a letter to Magee saying that the case must be thoroughly inquired into, and asking Magee for a personal interview.—N. Y. Sun, Aug. 18th.

The Rev. Father Remy, a missionary, has just arrived in England from Thibet. The Pall Mall Gazette says that he made a number of conversions there under rather peculiar circumstances. He was condemned to be quartered, and his legs and arms were attached to four horses. But either the abbe's limbs were uncommonly strong or else the horses were uncommonly weak, for he resisted all their efforts. Struck with admiration at his heroic conduct his persecutors embraced the martyr and his religion; certainly a signal triumph for muscular Christianity.

An immense bank of pink coral has been discovered on the coast of Sicily, and 600 boats belonging to the different guilds of coral fishers of Torre del Greco and Schiana, are squabbling over the bank and fighting naval battles with such fierceness that the government has been compelled to send the Explorator and another steamship of war to compel the disputants to keep the peace. But their intervention is confined to the surface; they cannot prevent the divers from fighting under water, an amusement in which they appear to indulge with inveterate animosity.

Notice to the Public!

THREE YEARS' EXPERIENCE HAS TAUGHT US THAT WE CANNOT DEAL IN TWO different makes of wagons with satisfaction to the manufacturers, ourselves and the public.

Therefore, we shall hereafter only buy and sell the

FISH BROTHERS WAGONS.

They have been so steadily and deservedly growing in favor, that we find it next to impossible to sell any other wagon. Ask any person who has bought one for the last two years, and he will tell you he has never had a tire or spoke loose, or a wheel broken or out of repair. He will tell you that the Fish Brothers Wagons run the easiest, and are the best in all respects.

The balance of our stock of Mitchell Wagons on hand we offer for sale at cost.

We thank the public for its generous patronage in the past, and shall try to deserve your kind favors in the future. We know from the letters written us, and the thousands of words of commendation received from purchasers, that in offering you the FISH BROTHERS WAGON we offer you

The Best Wagon on Wheels!

NOTICE TO AGENTS.

We sell no wagons on commission. Fish Brothers' Wagons don't need to go round the country begging for purchasers. We can sell outright all the wagons the manufacturers can furnish us and supply their other demands, and when a wagon leaves our yard, it is sold.

Yours very respectfully,

JOHN W. LOWELL & CO.
