who has heard them, must be satisfied of their truth. It is always a sause of foy to me that, in the providences of God our Heavenly Father, the sacred records we have, which have come down through so many ages, and which are recognized by Christendem to be the words of God (at least acknowledged by Christendem to be the er they believe it or not); I say that in the providence of God these records have come down to us in as pure condition as we find them. Because it is a comfort to a people like we are, whose names are cast out as evil, and who are derided and visited with avery kind of continuous as we find them. visited with every kind of contumely, accused of every conceiva-ble crime, to know that the doc-trines and ordinances that we believe in have a similarity to and of this truth, I thank God that I was ever will be made public shortly in con-

gave to the inhabitants of the ship this day; this chaste, this grand, this Western Continent his word, and they both agree. He has also given to us, his people in the last days, his word. By these with agree, or these three discoverying agreeming ourselves and one for us, in addition to that which I have alluded to, it gives me deeper gratitude still in knowing that in all the revelations three witnesses, or these three di-vine records, his word is corroboratvine records, his word is corroborated and maintained. Having received the word of God from these various sources, we can rejoice this day in the great truth that the dectrines we teach, the erdinances we have submitted to and that have been made, for we could not been and are being administered to us, and that our lives when we live us, and that our lives when we live partake of the same blessings we had respect that the isone concerning the destiny of our dead who have our dead who have passed away without a knowledge of the gespel. There would have been something lacking in our joy had this revelation not been made, for we could not have contemplated our own happiness in the eternal worlds with any degree of satisfaction, if we had been disturbed by the thought that our ancestors could not partake of the same blessings we had respected that the isone string the last fiscal year was 150,000. It is expected that the isone for the current fiscal year will sue for the current fiscal year will be about 180,000,000. The number required during the next contract term will probably reach one billion at least, but the contractor must furnish all that may be reas we should, are in strict accordance with these three records which we know to be the word of God; but particularly in accordance with the Bible, which the Christian world acknowledge to be true. This has always been a great cause of joy to me, and I have been thought that our ancestors could not partake of the same blessings we had received. But God in his mercy has revealed his purposes to us, so that there are none that understand the gospel who can not enter into this house and glorify God in his heart because of the fulness of these blessings, and because we know the Lord possesses all the glorious attributes we have ascribed to him.

This has always been a great cause of joy to me, and I have been greatly strengthened in knowing that no reference could be made to any part, or to any doctrine or principle of the Bible, which was not believed in and practised by the Latter-day Saints to the extent of their ability; that is, so far as the doctrine or requirement was applicable to them. Of course, where distinct revelations were given to people under peculiar conditions and of a peculiar character, as for instance, Noab or Abraham, or the disciples when they were commanded to flee from Jerusalem, the common sense of all men would suggest that such requirements selves should hear the voice of the sulphtened men of Christendom respecting their dead and they dead and they readily acknowledge it to be a subject they know nothing about. We need not go to the Book of Mormon and the Book of Doctrine and Covenants alone, for the proofs of the truth of the work we are engaged in; for in appealing to those books we only appeal to a corroborative testimony showing that God's words and dealings with the children of need are the same in all ages of the world. While he gave his revealed word to the ancients on the Eastern Continent, he also gave to the inhabitants of the
