TRADE CONDITIONS VERY UNCERTAIN.

Investment Circles Are Uneasy Over the Trend Towards Socialism.

WALL STREET CONSERVATIVE.

Price of Silver Has Materially Advanced Since Mexico Went on Gold Basis.

New York, April 1 .- Aided by relief for the money market, the stock market continues to recover from a depression which became unduly sesvere. How far the upward movement will extend depends not so much on the momentary conditions as on the level of prices which January buyers of stocks will now take, after having sustained great losses. The market has been hammered so persistently that it is unreasonable to assume the existence of weak holdings. The tendency of the last month has been so much toward liquidation that no ordinary fresh speculation could have tightened money more than it has

The exchange situation has worked itself out. Gold is being imported, but apparently without much profit to the importer. It arrives at a time when it importer. It arrives at a time when it is sentimentally welcome, but not especially needed to save either the nominal money rate or the actual supply of funds lendable on call. Paris is drawing on London for gold in connection with preparations for the financing of the new Russian loan, and as London Berlin and Paris will have the burner of helping the Russian government. don, Berlin and Paris will have the burden of helping the Russian government, it is not likely that foreign bankers will be willing to send large amounts of gold to the United States unless conditions at this point should develop a ost urgent need for assistance of this

There has been a hig reduction in quotations from the best prices of the quotations from the majority of issues are not year, but the majority of issues are not considered cheap by the conservative elements in the street, and despite the fast that certain persons are trying to galvanize the market into a bull affair galvanize the intract into a bull district the character of current movements does not suggest interest in speculation, by the public or by the substantial operators whoses transactions were the chief influence in the activity in the earlier part of the year. Insurance in-vestigation, the exposure of corporate misdeeds, and the agitation against industrial and railroad concerns are still factors that serve to check the placing of funds in Wall street operations. There is no denying the fact that instment circles are uneasy over the trend toward Socialistic propaganda, as evidenced in recent legislation. With a exception of the coal situation this the exception of the coal situation this is the most adverse factor, tending to keep Wall street sentiment conserva-tively inclined. The present wave of sati-corporation agitation under normal circumstances might be expected to ran its course with the adjournment of the legislatures, but it must be borne mind that only a few months inter-me before the congressional and state elections, which promise to be unusual-

General conditions continue to favor the spirit of hopefulness, railroad earnings, with few exceptions, showing good increases, suggestive of active business throughout the country. It by hesitates over the coal strike pros-pect and a let-up in its phenomenal activity would not be surprising. The winter wheat outlook is the basis for much gratification since the open winthe announcements of new issues of securities, which, from the viewpoint of the monetary situation, arrive rather inopportune, have their bright side, since they mean the expenditure of millions of dollars in new enterprises, giving employment to thousands, and thus keeping business active.

Heavy railroad orders for equipment and motive power are the best possible index of commercial prosperity. The demand for funds in all parts of the country is extremely active, owing to the prosperity in all lines of business, and the willingness of borrowers to pay the current stiff rates for loans indi-cales extreme confidence on the part of business men in the future of trade. There is an active inquiry for money in connection with the opening of spring engagements in the business world and the beginning of the planting season in the agriculturel sections. Corporate issues of securities have been coming on the market on an un-been coming on the market on an un-precedented scale since Jan. 1. and these latter issues, together with a mulitude of small issues, have given rise to many doubts concerning the future of the bond market. It has been variously calculated that since the beginning of 1905 there have been au-thorized for issue, securities amountthorized for issue securities amounting to $600,000,000. This includes stocks and bonds of companies whose tredit is of the best or securities bearing the imprint of a substantial banking house. While the manufacture of securities continues at a rate that is ecurities continues at a rate that is almost without record, bond dealers amost without record, bond dealers report that there is a complete stagnation in the absorptive powers of the market. With each successive anhouncement of further bond issues or rapital creations the question how the money market is to take care of these heavy obligations is becoming an inobligations is becoming an interesting one to Wall street.

Owing to the gold basis established by the Mexican government, the Mexican dollar, for many years the best conterion of the state of the silver market, has been largely raplaced by the ket, has been largely replaced by the Spanish silver dollar, which has a world-wide use and is especially the circulating medium in Cuba, which has no coinage of its own. Thirty days ago $1 in American money would have bought $1.40 Spanish. Now the quotation is shout $1.15. The writes of ellipse. bought $1.40 Spanish. Now the quota-tion is about $1.15. tially 20 per cent. This being the case evident that the price of gold have gone down, although the extent cannot be measured. A decline in the price of gold, however, is in-variably sooner or later reflected in an advance in the prices of all properties and Wall street property is more sus-ceptible to fluctuation than almost any

WANT CITIZENSHIP.

New York, April 1.-Gov. Beekman Winthrop of Porto Rico, arrived here today from San Juan and proceeded at once to Washington, where he has been summoned by Secy. Taft to appear be-fore the insular affairs committee of fore the insular affairs committee of the house of representatives in relation to Porto Rican questions. Gov. Winthrop said he would endeavor to give the committee all the information it desired as to affairs in the island and the general feeling of the natives on questions of public policy.

The chief demands of the people of Porto Rico are American citizenship and a more representative form of government in the shape of an elective ernment in the shape of an elective senate instead of an upper house composed of six Americans and five natives, appointed by the president as at present. The six Americans now serving in the senate are also heads of departments.

The island administration, it is said, is opposed to the elective senate idea on the ground that the island is not yet ready for such a step. Full American citizenship, however, is advocated by all and was suggested by President Roosevel in his message to Congress Dec. 5, 1905.

PRISONERS TRANSFERRED.

New York, April 1.—Under orders from Washington 118 prisoners who have been confined at Fort Jay, Governor's Island, for some months past were sent to the rehabilitated military prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, today. The transfer from the prison to the train was made under a strong guard and without the slightest disorder. Fort Jay for years has been considered, officially, no more than a place of detention.

The National Society of the United States, Daughters of 1812, state of Michigan, purpose to erect on the Washington boulevard, in the city of Detroit, a statue of the general of heroic size. The models were originally sent to the Detroit museum of art, where they were to be judged by a commission of three experts, comprising Charles P. McKill, Daniel H. Burnham of Chicago and Augustus St. Gaudens. In order, however, to suit the convenience of Mr. McKill and Mr. St. Gaudens, the models were brought to New York recently and stored at the Metropolitan museum of art.

It was said yesterday that the vote of St. Gaudens, as sculptor member of the commission, would undoubtedly determine the winner of the commission. St. Gaudens, however, has only re-cently left the hospital and may not be able to come to New York for a month. As the models may have to be moved soon from the museum, it was said yessoon from the museum, it was said yes-terday that St. Gaudens might call up-on Daniel C. French to act in his place.

ANARCHISTS COMMEMORATE LIFE OF JOHANN MOST

New York, April 2.—The Grand Central palace was crowded yesterday with anarchists and sympathizers gathered to commemorate the life of the late Johann Most.

Lucy Parsons, widow of Albert Par-sons, one of the executed Chicago an archists, was present and spoke. The speakers were many and of many lan-guages. Red banners, red feathers in red hats of many women, red neckties and red badges for the men and the blue coats of more than 100 policemen gave color to the assemblage. The re-porters were denounced as the hire-lings of the capitalistic element. Abraham Isaacs presided, and in his opening address declared:

"Most loved justice and truth, an for no other reason he was hounded and persecuted. Had he lived 2,000 years ago he would have been cruci-fied. As it was he only got 10 years prison

Mattery, a Franch aeronaut, yesterday fought for his life while 5,009 people watched the struggle.

The engineer of the train saw the aeronaut less than 206 feet in the air above him, descending directly before his train. He applied the air brakes, but knew that unless Mattery conquered the air currents he was powerless to save him from death. The aeronaut fought with every muscle in his body. He swung himself back and forth on his little trapese, he kicked, and made every effort possible to swerve his parachute away from the path of the train. Suddenly the parachute sank quickly to the ground just as the train rushed by. Thousands of people ran to the scene expecting to find the mangled body of the balloonist. The parachute was crushed, but Mattery, by flinging himthe balloonist. The parachute was crushed, but Mattery, by flinging himself from it at the last moment, had escaped death under the engine by two feet. He rolled down an empankment and arose unhurt physically bankment and arose unhurt physically, but suffering from the strain of the battle through which he had passed. Mattery and W. H. McKinney, another aeronaut, had entered into a balloon race at Sixty-seventh street and Stony Island avenue. The winner of the novel contest was to be the one who remained in the air the longest. A $1,500 purse, the contribution of Chicago aeronauts was the reward to Mattery, the winner.
