

opposite the Palais de l'Industrie. The men threw themselves upon the ground and the Parisians, mostly of the lower classes, gathered about them, went up to them and examined their accoutrements and conversed with them. The fears of pillage, which had been sedulously circulated, the Parisians now believe to be entirely groundless.

According to a correspondent, at Washington, the counter claims of Great Britain, for damage to property of Englishmen in this country, during the war of the rebellion and Canada for injuries received by the citizens of the New Dominion during the Fenian raids will probably be insisted upon and pressed, in mitigation, by the British members of the high commission, at least, of the Alabama bill. In that event the total of damages from those sources on their side will run up considerably more than the total on our side.

WASHINGTON, 4.—The Senate went into executive session about five o'clock this morning and confirmed, among others, the following nominations: Geo. A. Black, Secretary of Utah Territory; Cornelius Hedger, U. S. Marshal for the District of Montana; G. A. Balteman, assessor of internal revenue, State of Nevada.

Both Houses at a few minutes past twelve, proceeded to the organization of the new Congress. The President and the members of his Cabinet, with his private secretaries, occupied the President's room near the Senate Chamber, where the President signed all the bills which were presented to him, with the exception of nine, among which was an act for the relief of purchasers of land.

After organizing the Senate adjourned till twelve o'clock on Tuesday.

NEW YORK.—Additional dispatch to the Herald:—The evacuation commenced last night, though it was not generally known at six in the morning. It began in regular order, with the cavalry and artillery in advance and on the side-walks. The Prussian and Bavarian infantry faced the road-way.

At 8:30, the first men of the main body passed through the Arc de Triomphe, with bands playing and colors flying. Right under the arch the obstacles had been removed. At the side of the column, General Schackeyer, commanding the eleventh corps, received the salutes of the men passing. Many men bore evergreens on their helmets. One regiment bore laurels.

At nine o'clock the Bavarian infantry and artillery, proceeding with full bands, a few minutes afterwards, at the head of the Prussian column, reached the arch, marching in column sections. The morning hitherto had been foggy, but the sun now burst out, making everything appear grand. The troops cheered loudly, and the tattered appearance of their colors, borne proudly, attracted the attention of the French.

Next came some dragoons, then the eleventh regiment of the jager's guard, and the Prussian artillery.

FOREIGN.

VERSAILLES, 1.—The Herald's correspondent, just returned from Paris, gives the following account of the Emperor's review of the French troops at Longchamps:

Exactly at half-past ten the Emperor drove up to the back of the grand stand, in an open carriage, attended by his dragoons and the great officers of his household. Alighting on the steps of the grand entrance he took horse, and cantered across the field towards his general staff, which had followed along the line. As the Emperor appeared the bands played a German national air, and all the troops saluted him. The Emperor looked exceedingly well, and rode dashing, despite his lingering indisposition. As he rode down the front of the line flags were dropped and the men gave three ringing cheers. The Emperor kept his hand on his helmet, and smiled upon his soldiers. Passing Bismarck, he waved his hand in a friendly manner twice. Having passed up and down the lines the Emperor galloped across the field to a point 100 yards to the right of the grand stand, where he took up a position in front of the Crown Prince, sitting erect on his charger, and surveying the troops for a moment with deep emotion. The order was then given to march. The bands struck up, and with splendid step, twenty thousand men marched past in so perfect a manner that each battery presented a profile as if only one gun. The Emperor leaves for Germany on Saturday, instead of Monday. The ratification of the treaty of peace is expected here to-night; if it comes the Germans will evacuate Paris to-morrow, but if not the twelfth corps will probably take its turn and enter Paris.

LONDON, 3.—The evacuation of Paris terminates at 11 o'clock on Friday morning, as agreed by the convention.

VERSAILLES.—Favre has notified Bismarck of the vote of the Assembly. Bismarck replied that he was ready to exchange ratifications. The Emperor has already signed the treaty.

BORDEAUX, 3.—A dispatch from Paris on the evening of the 2nd, says the ratifications of the treaty of peace are exchanged to-day. Favre has returned from Versailles. Paris is tranquil. The Prussians evacuate to-morrow.

VERSAILLES, 3.—The preliminaries of peace, arranged by Bismarck and other plenipotentiaries with Thiers and Favre, are as follows: Article first specifies the line of demarcation; article second provides that France will pay Germany five milliards of francs; one milliard, at least, in 1871, and all the rest in the space of three years from the ratification; article third provides that the evacuation is to commence on the ratification of the treaty by the Assembly, that the German troops will then immediately quit Paris and the left bank of the Seine and also the Departments of Cher, Indre, Loire and Seine. The French troops will remain behind the Loire till the signing of the definitive treaty of peace, except those in Paris, where the government is not to have exceeding forty thousand troops. The Germans will evacuate the right bank of the Seine gradually, after the signing of the definitive treaty and the payment of half a milliard of francs. After the payment of two milliards the Germans will only hold the departments of Marne, Ardennes, Meuse, Vosges, Meurthe and Belfort. After the payment of three milliards the Germans will only keep 50,000 troops in France but, if sufficient money and guarantee be given, the Germans will evacuate completely at once, otherwise the three milliards will carry interest, at five percent, from the ratification of the treaty; article 4th provides that the German troops will make no further requisitions, and that the French government will find food for the army of occupation. In the ceded department favorable arrangements will be made with the inhabitants and time given them to move, if they please, and that no obstacle will be placed in the way of emigration; article 5th provides that all prisoners be immediately liberated on the ratification of the treaty and that the French railways will lend Germans carriages and engines, at the same prices as to French government; article 6th provides that the treaty be definitely signed at Brussels, immediately after the ratification; article 7 provides that, after the ratification, the managers of all the Departments occupied will be handed over to the French officials, subject to the German commanders and in the interest of the German troops; article 8 provides that it shall be well understood that the Germans have no authority over the Departments not occupied by them.

A Versailles special dispatch, to the Times, says the Germans evacuated Paris to-day, and Prince Frederick Charles retires immediately behind the Seine. The Emperor and Crown Prince will leave, in a few days, for some point near Paris on the right bank of the Seine. The Parisian populace wreaked vengeance on several men and women who were seen communicating with the German soldiers.

THE GOLD DISCOVERY AT OGDEN.—The following account of the gold discovery at Ogden was received by Deseret Telegraph line this morning:

OGDEN, 3. Ed. Deseret News.—The inhabitants of Ogden have been cutting a road for the last two weeks, from the Utah Central street through the bench by the White House; and the material taken therefrom has been used for raising Main street. Having put as much as was necessary, and wishing to grade or finish off with gravel, they commenced hauling from a bed of gravel in the rear of Fife's lot, on Saturday last. Curiosity led a man to wash some of the gravel, and color was found. On Monday the same result was obtained. On Wednesday, while quite a number of men and teams were engaged picking and hauling, an excitement was raised, and several commenced washing. Among the number was Marshal W. N. Fife, who, from two or three wash-basins, obtained dust of the value of a dollar and a large nugget, half as large as a dollar. Yesterday morning stakes were stuck, with quite a number of names as claimants. Washing was going on yesterday, color being found in shovels, etc., and as much as seventy-five cents to a pan taken out. The diggings yielded small rubies, and all indications of gold, at least so it is asserted by miners, though their success has been various. A talk of it being salted is going the rounds; but if so, it has been well shot in, and is being kept up, as color has been found. Numerous tests have been made half-a-mile east, on the same bench, and two stakes are on the bed, one containing about 20 names. Jesse Brown found a nugget, which he sold for a dollar; McCoy found another, which he sold for five dollars. All the dust, grains and nuggets found are exactly similar in color. This morning a shaft is being sunk, and digging has commenced in earnest. It is wash ground gravel, containing red sand and black emery. Jesse Brown was the discoverer. A company has been organized, and there is a prospect of litigation respecting the claim. Depositions can be obtained to clear all doubts respecting the finding of gold, and that the ground had not been salted. A company started this morning from Ogden House, with a view to examining the country near the mouth of the canon; they were equipped with picks, shovels, pans, etc. More anon.
