IN MEMORIAM.

St. GEORGE, June 12, 1882.

On the above date, at Washington, the last respects were paid to the venerable President LEVI W. HANCOCK, by his friends and relatives.

He died on Sunday morning the 10th inst., after being confined to his bed for upwards of six months. He passed away quietly and peacefully, having suffered but little—a literal wearing out of the body, rendered only unfit as a habitation of the spirit by age, he being 79 years old last April.

For the last fifty years he has been an ardent laborer in the Kingdom of God, for seven years of which he has been a member of the Quorum of the First Presidency of the Seventies.

He was one of that valiant band who in 1831 went out to drive the alien from the inheritance of Israel, to redeem Zion; one of those who being led by the Prophet of God, had the courage to face the forces of a whole State who felt that he could "run through a iron and lean over a wall" one who felt that nothing could stay him short of the consummation of the command that God had given.

In 1846 he responded to his country's call and marched with his comrades against Mexico. He was chaplain of the Battalion.

The funeral services were held in Washington meeting house, President J. D. T. McAllister and counsel, Presidents Henry Harrison and Jacob Gates, and others being present on the stand.

Pres. J. D. T. McAllister made some interesting remarks in relation to the life and labors of the deceased, spoke of his humility and integrity to the cause of God. Said that although he had been tried severely by hardships and poverty, he had stood firm to the end. He read a short account of the organization of the Seventies, and referred to the fact of Brother Levi being one of those who was called by the direct command of God.

Pres. Henry Harrison stated that Brother Hancock was the last of those first chosen to fill the quorum of the First Presidency of the Seventies. His labors were known throughout Israel, and his works praised him. He thanked God that he knew that his body would come forth in the first resurrection.

Bro. James Pace, a companion in arms in the Mexican war, gave many reminiscences of his (Bro. Hancock's) life while in the Battalion, related a circumstance that happened, showing the susceptibility of the man to the spirit of inspiration. A stranger, by the consent of the Battalion, joined the company and soon after requested baptism. Brother Hancock, in company with others of the brethren, took him down to the Missouri and performed the ceremony. On raising him from his watery grave he said as if wrought upon by the spirit, "If I have baptized a murderer I will do him no good." His words had such an effect upon the stranger that he soon made a confession that he was a murderer having killed his brother.

Bro. Edson Barney, D. D. McArthur, and Solon Foster made some very interesting remarks, speaking of the faithfulness of the deceased. They were certain that he had made his election sure.

President Jacob Gates had been acquainted with Brother Hancock for nearly half a century, and for the last twenty years of that time had been a co-laborer with him in the quorum of the first presidency of the Seventies. Brother Levi, like many others, had desired to live to see the yoke of bondage broken from the necks of the Saints, but his hopes had not been realized. He knew, however, that he was a man of God, and would inherit the blessings in store for the faithful.

Bro. Frank made a few closing remarks, after which the remains were exhibited to those present.

Thus ends the earthly career of another valiant man, who has spent his all for the spread and maintenance of the Gospel. May he rest in peace.
