Vipous and Spirituous Liquors a Product of the Farm-New Bills Introduced. The only playhouse that was not closed yesterday afternoon was that located on the fourth floor of the joint building and known generally as the lower house of the Legislature. The piece presented was in the nature of a farce and the characters were all more than ordinarily well sustained. The

When the matter had been discussed pro and con, the amendment failed, whereupon Hopes moved to strike out the enacting clause. This caused trou-ble. Wootton was recognized by the chair and took the floor. "It seems to me," said he, "that every measure in-troduced here in the interests of the emmon people is regarded as uncon-sificational. This bill is intended to pro-tee the poor farmer, and in doing so emmon people is regarded as uncon-stitutional. It is a measure calculated to do away with the pernicious activity of the middle-man and sive the people the product of the farm at a fair figure. TO EXCEPT LIQUORS.

At this point Joseph moved an amendment, exceputing from the oper-ations of the act the sale of vinous and miritous liquors, so as to exclude Dixie wine. This precipitated further discussing, this precipitated further discus-sion, some contending that the amend-ment was perfectly proper and others that it was not at all germane to the subject under consideration. Despite this conflict. Speaker Pro Tem. Miller permitted the discussion to go on, and finally the amendment was put to a yote and lost.

FARMERS WIN.

Simons, the author of the bill, made the closing speech in favor of the measure, and after repeated attempts by Joseph to draw the session to a close the bill was passed by the following vote:

Every Woman May Have It By USING CUTICURA SOAP

Mrs. R. Reichenberg, wife of the well-known jeweller of 146 Fulton St., New York, says: "I had a friend who was justly proud of her complexion. When asked what gave her such a brilliant and lovely complexion, she replied, 'A healthy woman can be sure of a fine skin if she will do as I do, use plenty of Cuticura Soap and water.' She insisted that I follow her example, which I did with speedy conviction. I find that Cuticura Scap keeps the skin soft, white, and clear, and prevents redness and roughness."
