BENEFIT of Mr. D. MCKENZIE.

TO THE MUSICALLY INCLINED,

And to those desirous of Learning Music!

Mrs. WHITE, of Rochester,

TEACHES Robbins' American Method for the Piano-forte, which is so far superior to the old method of teaching the Piano-forte, Melodeon or Organ that its full importance can scarcely be estimated. It is a century ahead of all other methods for the Piano—Pupils acquiring a knowledge of Music in an almost incredibly short time.

References to and letters of recommendations from the most eminent Professors of Music in the East.

Mrs. WHITE is stopping at the TOWNSEND HOUSE for a limited time, where she can be found, and full particulars learned. Private tuition given.

A CARD.

To the Inhabitants and purchasing Community of this Territory:—

Owing to the great decline in the prices of goods in the Eastern Markets (being determined to keep IN RATIO with them,) I have made a further reduction in the prices of goods, which upon examination will speak for themselves. I have also on hand a great many articles that I will sell, REGARDLESS OF COST, even lower than the present rates in the Eastern Markets will permit of; viz: Table and Pocket Cutlery, Spades, Shovels, Scythes and Snaths, Bake Skillets, Locks and Latches, Tea and Table Spoons, Carriage Bolts, Cast, Blister and Plough Steel, Soap, Lye, Tobacco, and an immense variety of other goods, which are necessities for every day use. Farmers and Country Merchants would do well to call and examine the stock and prices, and as Greenbacks are scarce in the country, I will take for pay, Cattle, Wheat, Flour, Barley, Oats, Pork, &c., for which I will give a price that will guarantee satisfaction.

WARM CLOTHING.—In choosing a warm dress, get it as light as you can. Think how lightly animals, which have to endure great cold, are clothed. What is lighter than feathers and fur? The bear can thus teach us a lesson of civilized silence, and a goose can impart wisdom. The principle of the advice given by the wise man, "Go to the ant, thou sluggard," might well be extended to the example of the way in which the Creator clothes the dumb animals he has made. They are not heavily laden, unless, indeed, it is necessary to protect them with armor, but even then the material used is remarkable for its combination of lightness with strength. The tortoise is shielded more by the arched shape of its shell than by its thickness. There are some animals which float in the water, which are covered heavily, but the weight of their clothes facilitates their movements in the element in which they are intended to live, inasmuch as it enables them to sink to the depth necessary to subsist in. But for warmth, weight is needless, and for equable warmth it is a positive hindrance, since a heavy dress adds the heat of pressure to that of protection to those more prominent parts of the figure upon which it rests. If you want to be warm, choose a material that is not only thick but light. And when you wish to be protected from wind as well as still cold, wear under or over a woolen or furry fabric, the thinnest impervious texture you can get. Then you have an arrangement similar to that with which the animals of cold climates are provided, viz., thin skins and thick feathers or hairs.—Leisure Hours.

A WONDERFUL WOMAN.—Till within a few years previous to the commencement of the present century a complete specimen of the hardy Celtic race remained, who inhabited a cottage on the borders of the Llanberis Lake. This was Margaret Uch Evan, of Penllyn, the greatest hunter, shooter, and fisher of her time. She kept at least a dozen or two of dogs—terriers, greyhounds and spaniels—all excellent in their kinds. She killed more foxes in one year than all the confederate hunts did in ten; rowed stoutly, and was queen of the lake; fiddled excellently, and knew all the old Welsh music; nor did she neglect the mechanic arts, for she was a very good joiner; and, notwithstanding she was 70 years of age, was the best wrestler of her time, few young men daring to try a fall with her. For many years she had a maid of congenial qualities; "but death, that mighty hunter," as Pennant remarks, "at last earthed this faithful companion."—Land and Water.

THE SOCIETY OF WOMAN.—No society is more profitable, because none more refining and provocative of virtue than that of a refined and sensible woman. God enshrined peculiar goodness in the form of woman, that her beauty might win, her gentle voice invite, and the desire of her favor persuade a man's sterner soul to leave the paths of sinful life for the ways of pleasantness and peace. But when woman falls from her blest eminence, and sinks the guardian and cherisher of pure and rational enjoyments into the vain coquette and flattered idolater of idle fashion, she is unworthy of an honorable man's love, or a sensible man's admiration. Beauty is then but, at least,

"A pretty plaything."

To be our companions, women should be fitted to be friends. There are many such, and that there are not more is rather the fault of our sex than their own; and despite all the unmanly scandals that have been thrown upon them in prose or verse, they would rather share in the rational conversation of men of sense than listen to the silly compliments of fools; and a man dishonors himself, when he seeks their circle for idle pastime, and not for the improvement of his mind and the elevation of his heart.
