

FRAGMENTS.

The Theatre box office opens tomorrow for the sale of tickets for "Pinafore."

The circus procession made it necessary for some of the schools of the city to take a half holiday, as not enough pupils attended to enable the teachers to have recitations.

The game of baseball which was announced to take place this afternoon between the Nationals and Buffaloes for the benefit of the Charleston sufferers, will not be played, because it won't be all we can do about it.

An exercising device for musicians has been patented by Mr. Julius Cesar of New York City. It is a device which has any connection with the circus callopie or the plain accordion, it may be regretted that Brutus did not flash his job.

While the circus show was going on yesterday afternoon, a caning affair occurred in a side tent. Mr. Wooster, chief of staff of Cole's detective force, being the victim. Col. A. E. Richar, in the presence of a few who had been invited, handed the detective the appendage, which was gold-headed, making a neat presentation speech in doing so, to which Mr. Wooster replied in a happy vein.

LOCAL NEWS.

The "Exponent"—The last number of the Exponent contains some fine articles among them are "Decline of Population in Rural Massachusetts," "Essay on Utah," and a number of communications. The number is a good one.

Stack Burned.—J. A. Marchant, writing from Poca, Summit County, says that on the 20th inst., lumbermen of G. J. Marchant set fire to his father's hay stack. In a few moments a crowd of women and girls had gathered at the fire, with buckets, and they soon extinguished the flames. The damage was not great.

Information Wanted.—Information is desired that will lead to knowledge of the whereabouts of Miss Eva Elizabeth Almquist, who came with the last company of immigrants from Sweden. She is about ten years of age. The last heard of her she passed Nephi going south on the Utah Central railroad. The information will be thankfully received by John Green of Fountain Green, Sanpete County, Utah.

Police Court.—J. R. Nelson was charged with an assault, but the charge was withdrawn and costs taxed against the complainant.

Mrs. Wilson, drunk, profane and disturbing the peace. Defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $25.

John Doe, drunk, plea of guilty and fine of $5.

Andrew Taylor, drunk and profane, plea of guilty, $10.

John Jones, drunk, pleads guilty and is fined $5.

Frank Hazen, escaping from custody, pleaded guilty and was taxed $10.

A. Larsen, vagrancy, pleaded not guilty. Trial and found guilty. To be sentenced Saturday.

The Jones-Treseder Case.—In the Third District Court today, Arthur Brown, counsel for N. V. Jones and Frank Treseder, asked that an order be made by the Court directing Marshal Dyer to bring Treseder in from the penitentiary and permit him to consult with his attorney and co-defendant.

Mr. Dickson objected to allowing Treseder to converse with Jones without the officer being present.

The Court said an order would be made to have Treseder brought in and allowed to consult with his counsel, but he could not permit any conversation with Jones without an officer being present.

Mr. Brown took an exception to this order, remarking "That is the first time I ever heard of a case where two defendants who were jointly indicted were refused the opportunity of consulting together with their counsel."

Searching for President Taylor.—About seven o'clock this morning Marshal Dyer and a couple of his deputies visited the Garbo House. The Marshal stationed himself inside the building close to the door, while one of his aids guarded the rear. Deputy Smith then made a careful search of the house, entering every apartment from roof to cellar, looking into every nook, corner, cupboard, under beds and every place in which it was possible for the smallest "human" from a boy to a full grown man, to be secreted. President John Taylor was the object of solicitude, but it was scarcely needful to state that he was not found. The officers were quite gentlemanly in their deportment.

Shortly before the same hour the residence of Mrs. M. Barratt, in the 12th Ward, was visited by four deputies, and subjected to a similar process. This search was likewise futile.

The Circus.—The enormous pavilion covering W. W. Cole's thrice-ringed circus was crowded to its utmost capacity, which means at least 8,000 persons, yesterday evening, and it is said that some 1,000 more were turned away from the door. Of course the first of these was because of the reduced rates of admission, though the reserved seat division, for which the customary dollar was charged, was also filled completely, not a empty seat being visible anywhere. So many people never before congregated at any place of amusement in this Territory, and that is saying a great deal.

The performance as a whole gave decided satisfaction. The bareback riding, while not superior to some we have had before, was as good as any; the trapeze and swinging feats of the Silbons were almost marvellous, greatly surpassing anything of the kind we have yet seen; the shooting of Dr. Carver was akin to the miraculous, though his "Wild West" as a whole is better adapted for eastern than western representation; and the show itself, together with the numerous performing what it advertised, than most of those now on the road.

The last exhibition takes place this evening, after which the show goes west, the proprietor taking with him a "basel of money" as the result of his visit to Salt Lake.
