

WESTERN PACIFIC BIDS NEXT WEEK.

Large Numbers Are Expected to be Presented to Engineer Bogue.

CONSTRUCTION NEXT MONTH.

Dirt Due to Fly Within the Next Four or Five Weeks, Says Official.

According to advice from San Francisco the announcement was made on Friday that July 26 is the day on which bids for the construction of the Western Pacific will be received by Chief Engineer Virgil G. Bogue.

The various contractors who contemplate bidding on the work had previously been asked to have their bids ready for submission to the company by today, but at the request of a number of contractors who desired a little further time in which to go over the work with the engineers, the date for the reception of the bids has been extended.

A large number of bids are expected to be presented to Engineer Bogue, covering the various grading and soil proposals on the stretch of railroad between Oroville and Salt Lake City.

Members of representatives of a dozen contracting firms have been on the coast for several weeks studying the construction specifications with the engineers or gains over the surveyed route of the proposed road. It is understood that Engineer Bogue will receive the various bids and then submit a report to the directors who will be called upon to make the official awards of the work.

The construction of the Western Pacific ought to be well under way, according to present prospects, within the next four or five weeks, said an official of the company. No one's time will be lost in awarding the contracts after the bids have been received, and the construction work will then begin as quickly as the contractors can get their men and materials into the field."

SAND RIDGE CUT-OFF.

Work is Swinging Along on O. S. L. Grade Improvements.

Work is swinging along in earnest on the cut-off of the branch of the Rock Line in the vicinity of Ogden. Thirty-three four-horsepower scrapers, two steam shovels and 200 men are working 16 hours a day on the proposition and making the dirt fly in great shape. Two trains of eight cars each are kept busy hauling away the sand that is scooped up in three-yard quantities at every dip of the grade.

The Salt Lake Route has taken an option on some property at Eureka, presumably for the purpose of creating a cut there.

UTAHNS IN DENVER.

Some Local Men Who Are Now Located There.

That Salt Lake is the school for railroad officials has been an accepted fact for years past. There is hardly a large city in the country that numbers its railroads on its roster of railroad officials. This fact was the cause of considerable comment among the visiting traveling passenger agents in Denver last week. In running over a list of some of the Salt Lakers located in Denver the following names were brought up by way of illustration: J. H. Young, general superintendent of the Denver & Salt Lake; D. Gates, auditor's office; C. & E. John Reed, chief clerk to the general manager of the D. & R. G.; F. A. Wadleigh, assistant general passenger agent; D. & R. G.; W. H. Paul, chief clerk to general traffic manager; D. & R. G.; Rate Clerk Scott, in the same office; H. E. Koslow, manager of the Mo. & St. P. Pacific; James H. Davis, city passenger agent of the Colorado Midland; General Agent Lounsherry of the Maple Leaf; Jack Riddle, clerk, D. & R. G.; Mr. Brown, secretary to Vice President Schlaucks, and so on.

Among other Salt Lakers encountered there is Mr. Reiter of the Wilson, now at the Savoy; Clark Dusenberry at the Albany, and Hull on the Denver Post.

SPIKE AND RAIL.

Two hundred Greeks are due to arrive in Ogden today to go to work on the Southern Pacific supplanting the Japs, who have been employed on the sections for some time past.

Commencing today the Burlington resumed a daily passenger train service between Ogden and Cody, Wyo.

The city ticket office of the Salt Lake Route has received a consignment of potted palms which greatly enhanced the appearance of the office.

EAGLES FLY HIGH.

Parade the Streets Before Going Out to Saltair.

The Order of Eagles, as represented by delegations from the larger cities of the state, made a creditable parade through the principal streets of the city this noon. They are enjoying themselves for the remainder of the day and evening. Over 200 men appeared in line in neat uniforms of white duck caps and pants, part of the parades wearing bright blue sashes instead of coats, and a detail attired as harlequins costumed in a broad-expansive smile. They were there in pairs with 20 men. Many of this city, Nicholia of Ogden, and the Provo band, W. G. Mahan of this city was grand marshal, with Ether Hall of Salt Lake and J. F. Smith of Ogden as sides. The delegations marched in separated columns of twos, with ribbons, canes, and bugle guitars, and the display looked quite gay. A platoon of mounted police led the column.

J. H. WARD DEAD.

Well Known Editor of German Paper Passes Away After Long Illness.

J. H. Ward, for some years a well known school teacher of this city, but latterly editor of the German weekly "Die Beobachter," passed away Saturday night at his home, 17 North West Temple street. Mr. Ward had been failing for a long time, but up to a few days ago frequented his accustomed haunts and attended to the publication of his paper. In the early eighties he taught school in the sixth ward and other places and was regarded as a man of more than ordinary intelligence. The funeral will be held at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon in the Fourteenth ward assembly hall. Friends are invited.

Joseph Harvey Ward was a native of Canada, being born near London in the province of Ontario, Aug. 16, 1846. He was converted to "Methodism" while reading Church works and was baptized in May, 1873, by Elder Harry Hill and came to Utah in 1876. In 1880-81 he performed a mission to the United States and Canada, laboring principally in Ontario, Canada, and the states of Michigan and Ohio. He baptized nine persons in the mission. In 1882 he was first among the number. On his missionary travels he was exposed to considerable persecution. In 1888 he left Utah on a mission to Europe where he labored principally on the British Isles and in Germany and Switzerland. During his sojourn in Europe he wrote a number of articles which were published in the "Deseret News." Through "The Hand of Providence," "Gospel Philosophy," and "Ballads of Life," works all written by him, his name has become universally known among the Latter-day Saints and others. For many years he has been the editor of "Die Beobachter," a weekly newspaper published in Salt Lake City in the German language. For the maintenance of that periodical he struggled hard financially and otherwise until the very last.

WILL SELECT SHOOTERS.

"Europe wants to end the war," says the paper, "as Russia's preoccupation in the far east destroys the political equilibrium. Austria is in danger from Germany, which seeks a thoroughfare through the Balkans. France is in danger from Germany, which has pretensions now which she would not have dreamed of before the Russo-Japanese war. It is evident from the Morocco incident that Europe must stand in order that Russia may safeguard her against German aggression."

Prince Okhtukhony, editor of the St. Petersburg newspaper, has his suit against the Novaya Vremya and M. S. Sinaikovsky for slander. M. S. Sinaikovsky, in the Novaya Vremya, has not been sparing in his attacks on M. Prince Okhtukhony, the former writer of the paper, who is accused of being a fool, but recalling Victor Hugo's observation that "every man has a right to be a fool he should not abuse the right."

Prince Okhtukhony was also arraigned for alleged subsides which he received from the government and for his interest in railroads and fantastic Mexican mines, which compelled him to give up his post of ambassador to the Chinese government.
