

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY, JUNE 30.

Normals.—Those who wish appointments as normals from this county, will please meet with the Board of Examination, in the 20th district school-house, on Monday, July 10th, at 10 o'clock a.m.

T. B. Lewis,
County Supt., Salt Lake County.

Denver & Rio Grande.—This company are actively engaged in ballasting and putting in sale condition the 100 miles of track now in operation from this city outward, and it is confidently expected that in about two weeks they will be prepared to freight coal, etc., from Pleasant Valley to this market.

The Utah Extension.—Information from Gunnison City, Colorado, states that steel is daily arriving and track laying on the Denver & Rio Grande Utah extension is progressing lively. Trains are now running daily to Kezar, fifteen miles west, and the road is expected to reach Black Canon in a few days.

A Fatal Termination.—The News gave an account of a serious accident that befel David Pierce, at Adamsville, near Beaver, a week ago last Wednesday, his left hand and wrist having been terribly lacerated and mangled. He was, as previously stated, taken to Fort Cameron, to be attended by the post surgeon, who purposed performing the operation of amputation on Monday last. A number of his friends had arrived at the Fort to be present at the ordeal, but the unfortunate man showed signs of weakness and expired shortly after his friends reached him.

A Colorado Robbery.—A man named Jones, from Denver, while traveling from Boulder, Col., to Longmont, on Wednesday, on horseback, was attacked by two highwaymen. They first fired two or three shots at him, and this so frightened his horse that it jumped and Jones fell from him, and the horse stepped on his face, cutting it open. The robbers then took a gold watch from his pocket, valued at $50, and about $25 in cash, and left him penniless. He was taken to Longmont in an insensible condition but shortly afterwards regained the use of his faculties.

Silk Reeling.—We received a call this morning from Father Graves, of Provo, a member of the Red Ribbon Army. This veteran is a genuine enthusiast on the question of Utah silk production and manufacture. He informs us that the Legislature having failed to appropriate money with which to establish a Territorial silk-reeling factory, Utah County has taken the matter in hand, and will have an institution of that kind for itself. Father Graves has secured the services of a lady who will do reeling and teach the art to others.

A Southern Visit.—The recent visit of Sisters E. B. Wells and Elizabeth Howard to the south was pleasant but somewhat arduous and fatiguing. They attended several general meetings of the ladies associations, notably a conference at Richfield, Sevier County, besides meeting with many of the branch societies. They not only made the tour of Sevier County, but also of the settlements of Grass Valley and Rabbit Valley, in Plute County, through which they were accompanied by Brother A. K. Thurber. Besides giving instructions of a general character, the visitors made a special point of drawing attention to the Deseret Hospital enterprise, and advocating the necessity of sustaining it.

Acts of Kindness.—One of the most pleasing features of the "Old Folks" affair, was the readiness which all classes of citizens manifested in contributing to the comfort of the aged guests. To enumerate all the notable acts of kindness of this character would be impossible. We cannot refrain, however, from alluding to the active solicitude displayed by Mr. Abram Gould, who not only gave the use of his fine teams to convey the old folks to and from any desired points, but yesterday, at the Park, personally attended to the loading up and unloading of the old people. He was so anxious none of them should get hurt that instead of allowing vehicles to be driven in among the old folks, he led the teams in by his own hand. Mr. Gould has evidently a soft place in his heart.

DESPERATE AFFRAY AT BUTTE.

ONE MAN KILLED AND ANOTHER WOUNDED.

About one o'clock on Wednesday morning there was a desperate affray at Butte between a couple of officers—Carroll and Vennor—and two suspected burglars. The latter were arrested by Carroll in the act of tampering with the front door of a house. On the way to the jail the prisoners attempted to run away, and the officer blew his whistle, bringing Officer Vennor to his aid, the latter taking charge of one of the burglars.

The Miner makes the following statement of what occurred afterwards:

When they reached the Caplice building, without a moment's warning, the man who was with Carroll turned suddenly on the latter, knocked him down by a quick blow over the head and jumped on his prostrate body, at the same time drawing a 38-calibre Smith & Wesson revolver. Cocking his weapon and placing the muzzle against Carroll's body, the prisoner, now no longer a prisoner, was preparing to send Carroll into eternity, when the latter said hurriedly, "You don't want to kill me. There's no money in it. They'll get the best of you," and at the same time called out, "Vennor, for God's sake where are you?" While this was being said Carroll had been drawing his own pistol, and just as the murderous ruffian, with an oath, pulled the trigger of his pistol, Carroll and Vennor, the latter of whom had come running up, both fired. The three shots happened simultaneously, and a desperate struggle followed, during which Vennor's prisoner escaped. In the next minute eight or ten shots were fired, Carroll escaping with a wound through the cartilage of the nose, Vennor not being touched, and the robber coming out with two wounds, one through the fleshy part of the left leg, above the knee, the other a downward shot through the right groin, which did not however, prevent his attempting to run away. In the murky darkness, lit momentarily by the pistol flashes, the two officers who had so miraculously escaped with their lives, searched for the prisoner.

Just at this moment some other parties hurried to the scene, and as they came up heard groans in an area back of Alex. Ralston's house. Mr. Carroll immediately approached the spot where they had heard the groans. There was the wounded man, standing up, and seemingly in pain. As Carroll cautiously approached the desperate and almost dying wretch, levelled his pistol again, and Carroll in turn fired two more shots at him, without effect, however. There was no farther firing, the man immediately falling to the ground and soon asking for water, as if in the agony of death. His pistol was removed and found to contain three balls, while around the thigh of the wounded leg was discovered a string tightly fastened, evidently to stop the flow of blood. Dr. Holmes was at once sent for and probed the wound in the abdomen, not finding the ball, but judging that it rested probably over the neck of the bladder. A ladder was made to do duty for a litter, and the wounded man was removed to the Workingmen's Hospital, where he was yesterday. While writhing on the ground in agony, and just as the water was handed him, he was asked the names of himself and companion. At first he refused to answer, but afterwards, seeming to feel that he was mortally hurt, he said his name was Fred King, and that he was a railroad man from Buffalo, N. Y., adding that his companion's name was Frank Lester, and that he also was a railroad man and that they had followed the railroad together from Colorado.

Keel died at half-past five on Wednesday evening. Lester was subsequently re-captured and lodged in jail.

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY, JULY 1.

The Fire Fiend.—Already this year there have been, in this city, twelve fire alarms, and the aggregate damage amounts to $12,000. During the whole of last year there were twenty-five alarms, and the value of property destroyed amounted in all to $3,000, a portion being covered by insurance. This was the best fire record of any city of the same size in the United States for 1891.

Releases and Appointments.—

From the Millennial Star of June 12th:

Elders S. Van Dyk, David Spillsbury and H. H. Tracy are released to return home with the June 21st company.

Thos. W. Horsley is appointed to succeed O. C. Ormsby in the presidency of the Birmingham conference; A. N. Macfarlane to succeed R. R. Irvine in the Glasgow, and Joseph A. West to succeed Stephen Tucker in the London conference. Willard F. Smith and Joseph A. Smith are appointed traveling Elders in the Leeds conference; Thos. L. Obay, Matthew McCune, Wm. G. Nowers and Charles C. Harris, in the London; Charles Weatherston in the Newcastle; Joseph Wild in the Manchester; James Melkie in the Glasgow; George Croft in the Sheffield, and W. S. Tanner in the Liverpool conference.

Suicide by Poison.—The Ogden Herald contains an account of the suicide, in that town, at noon, yesterday, by poison, of Charles Bune. It is believed he first swallowed some other poisonous drug, and completed the work of self-murder by means of a large dose of laudanum and expired shortly afterwards notwithstanding the combined and skillful efforts of Dr. Carnahan and Dr. Powers.

The deceased, Charles Bune, was born in Holland, in August, 1854, and would have been 29 years of age, had he lived until August next.

He came to this country in 1866. About five years since, while working as brakeman on the C. P. R. R., he met with an accident by which he lost his left arm.

For some time past he had exhibited signs of despondency.

Fatal Case of Lye Poisoning.—A most lamentable accident occurred in the Seventh Ward at 10 a.m. yesterday. Mrs. Mary Alice Woodbury had occasion to use some concentrated lye, and laid it upon the floor to attend to her infant son, to whom she gave a piece of candy. It appears that the little fellow ran behind his mother, stuck the sweet into the lye and then placed it in his mouth. The child made a peculiar noise as if he was choking, when the alarming character of the situation flashed across Mrs. Woodbury's mind. Assistance was at once procured, the usual remedies applied, and every possible effort made to ameliorate the sufferings and save the life of the infant, but all to no purpose, death ensuing at 2 o'clock this morning.

The deceased, George C., son of Thomas H. and Mary Alice Woodbury, was born Jan. 18, 1881, and was consequently about 17 months old.

The mother of the child is sorrow-stricken at the deplorable accident and its sad results, and the estimable lady has the earnest sympathy of many friends.

Horrible Train Accident.—This morning about 3:30 o'clock, as freight train No. 11 was passing the stone quarry between Tie Siding and Laramie, the conductor, William En-tricker, who was lying on a seat beside an open window, heard a cry as from some one in great pain. He sprang to his feet, and finding that the rear brakeman had also heard the cry, signalled the engineer to stop. He then sent two brakemen back with lanterns, who found a man lying beside the track, his right leg torn almost to pieces below the thigh and his left foot crushed. As soon as they approached, the injured man begged them "for God's sake to kill him; that he was no longer of any use in the world, and was better dead. They picked him up and carried him to the caboose, and on reaching Red Buttes, the conductor telegraphed Dr. Harris, to meet him at the train, which he did. A hasty examination, however, convinced the doctor that he would die, and in this he was correct, for the unfortunate man expired about 6 o'clock this morning.

—Laramie Boomerang, June 29th. A subsequent investigation proved that the unfortunate tramp had fallen from a brake-beam, on which he was riding. His name was Thos. Loftus, aged 22 years and was on his way to the Oregon Short Line Railroad.

FROM MONDAY'S DAILY, JULY 3.

The Third Company.—By dispatch from Brother James H. Hart, dated at New York, we learn that the third company of the season's emigrants from Europe, in charge of Elder Robert B. Irvine, landed at that point yesterday. They were to leave for Utah to-day.

Lacerated Hand.—A severe accident occurred in Sugar House Ward on Friday. William Clark had his right hand accidentally caught in a revolving rake. The member was very badly lacerated, but fortunately no bones were broken.

Young People's Conference.—Sisters E. B. Wells and Elmina S. Taylor were up at Centreville yesterday, attending the Young People's Conference of Davis Stake. The meetings were presided over by Stake Superintendent of the Y. M. M. I. A., Anson V. Call. Several Bishops and other leading brethren were present and instructive addresses delivered.

Death from an Unusual Cause.—A little girl (one or two years old) daughter of Frank Benedict, of Brigham City, on Thursday morning last, while chewing some coffee beans, commenced coughing, and taking a deep inspiration, swallowed or rather inspired into her lungs the whole mass of finely ground coffee. From violent bronchitis and consequent suffocation she expired the following morning.—Ogden Herald

Deputy Appointed.—The Beaver Usonian says that ever since the appointment of Mr. E. A. Ireland to the United States Marshalship of Utah, there has been a friendly contest between certain gentlemen of Beaver County for the position of Deputy Marshal for the Second Judicial District; this rivalry has at last, however, been definitely settled by the appointment of Mr. Jas. Lindsay, of Frisco, to fill the position.

Reported Smallpox.—J. F. W. makes an important statement. In a letter written at American Falls, Oregon Short Line Railroad, dated June 29th, he says:

"Smallpox is on this line. One man has died at Kilpatrick's camp and one at Smith & Hale's. Five others are down at the last named camp. The company's engineers said, to-day, they did not want to have these facts circulated, but the public health is of more importance than the R. R. Co's wishes."

To-day Mr. Stevens, of the R. R. contracting firm of Collins & Stevens, informed us that a man named Kegan who arrived from American Falls yesterday, asserted to him he had been all along the line and that there was no smallpox in the camps, but that measles had made its appearance among the graders.

We give both statements on the subject as they come to us, leaving the public to use that caution that is suggested by discretion and wisdom.

FUNERAL SERVICES.

THE LAST RITES OVER THE REMAINS OF MRS. MARY ANGELL YOUNG.

The funeral services over the remains of Sister Mary Ann Angell Young, relict of the late President Brigham Young, were conducted at her late residence in the 18th Ward, at 12 o'clock yesterday, June 2d.

The opening prayer was offered by Counselor D. H. Wells.

President W. Woodruff, of the Quorum of the Apostles, delivered the opening discourse. His remarks were comforting and instructive. Besides passing a high eulogium upon the character and faithfulness of the deceased, he showed that, considering that she had secured her title to eternal glory with her husband in eternity, the occasion was in reality not a cause for mourning. He spoke also of his long acquaintance with Sister Young, having known her through the scenes of Kirtland and Nauvoo, during which trying times she had never swerved from the line of duty.

President Taylor was the next speaker. His remarks were in a similar strain to those of Brother Woodruff. He stated that he had known the deceased for many years, and he had no recollection of anything during the whole of the time, occurring in her life, that could in any way reflect to her discredit. She had been faithful and true to her God, her husband and her family. She had received every ordinance pertaining to salvation that had been obtained by any of the children of Abraham, and would reign a queen with her husband in eternity, where the family ties established here would be perpetuated. The speaker had visited the deceased during her illness, when she manifested much anxiety regarding her children, desiring that they should keep the faith of the Gospel. He made some remarks relative to the comprehensiveness and far-reaching character of the plan of salvation.

President Joseph F. Smith spoke of the sacrifices that Sister Young had made for the Gospel's sake. She had, for this cause, denied herself the gratification of almost all that is precious to the heart of woman, and he expressed a hope that her children's children, even to the latest generation, would emulate an example so grand and noble in its character.

The closing prayer was offered by President A. M. Cannon. The large body of mourners passed around the casket and took a last look at the face of the deceased. The body was then carried to President Young's private burying ground, where it was laid near that of her husband, Apostle F. D. Richards, offered the dedication prayer.

A body of select choristers, led by Brother C. J. Thomas, rendered the singing exercises.

The services were conducted by acting Bishop Robert Patrick.

THE COMING BIG SHOW.

JOHN ROBINSON'S GREAT CIRCUS AND MENAGERIE COMING.

The great show coming here on the 14th and 15th of this month is the most extensive in new features and novelties that has ever been placed on the road. Wherever a menagerie or circus tent has been spread within the borders of the United States, the name of "Uncle John Robinson" is as familiar as the best known man in the section, and the people have become so well acquainted with his always faithfully executed promises of what is to come, that at each and every point that is so fortunate as to be favored with the "Big Show," the immense canvass can hardly hold the crowds that gather to do honor to the old veteran and get the full value of their money. This season Uncle John has the biggest thing under canvas, or succession of canvasses, that has ever been exhibited in this country. He has added a number of special novelties in both the menagerie and circus departments, to specify which would require more space than the columns of a newspaper, and as a sort of a crowning feature "Old Dan Rice" will appear at each performance. Besides the immense menagerie he has a triple circus company that perform at one and the same time in separate and distinct rings, and wherever the big show has been the press is loud in praise of every act, particularly those of Miss Emma Lake, Miss Minnie Marks, Miss Christine Stickney, Miss Alfredo, Mr. Robert Stickney, Mr. Geo. Holland, and the jolly mirth of the three clowns, particularly Mr. John Lowlow. No doubt our city will be crowded on the days of the exhibition. It
