The Eastern Question.

The Marquis of Hartington, addressing a public moeting at Keighley, yesterday, said however much he might oppose the policy of some of the Government measures relative to the Eastern Question, he at had not been such as would generally commend themselves to the good opinion of the English people.

The Russia-Turkish armistice is egarded as highly favorable to Russia, because it gives her time to export her wheat crop, and put her finances in a better condition. An effect on the European wheat market naturally suggests itself. The Turks can only suffer by the en-forced delay. The best opinion is not become general unless provoked by subsequent immoderation on the part of Russia, which is not
