

FLOATING FRAGMENTS.

Below zero at 11 a.m.
 Pleading fair to medd ng.
 High Council meeting to night.
 Rice's Surprise Party will play "Pop" at the theatre to night.
 Hear the sledges with their bells.
 Silver bells. Let them slide.
 Now the wicked stand in slippery places—some of them—the others fall.
 Beware of clatters at street crossings. They are nearly as dangerous as falls and limbs as sawmills.
 The "liberal" thermometer showed 77 degrees below zero at 12 m. with no appearance of a mistification.
 The Mr. Cannon reported killed in a fight with a man who has frequently visited this city as a commercial traveler.
 Mr. Tyon has just finished an old street winter scene. It is a telling one, with splendid powerful effects. It is an artist, by nature as well as cultivation.

Remember the concert and ball to night, in aid of the Masonic Library, at the Opera House. Mrs. Carless will sing, which is always a leading feature of attractions.

A wag attributes last night's cold wave to the freezing process produced in the "liberal" ranks by the speech from Washington about John T. Caine obtaining his seat in the House of Representatives.

Mr. Fred. Auerbach, of F. Auerbach & Bro., left here on this morning's train, for Chicago, New York, Boston and Portland, Me., to make purchases of spring and summer goods for their well known house.

On Saturday, 13th inst., a son of Mr. Isaac Sorenson, of Mendon, was suffocated down a hill on his sled, which had become obstructed in the road and was thrown with such force on the frozen ground as to break one of his wrists. He was taken to the hospital by Dr. O. G. Ormby, who set the injured limb. —Logan Journal.

LOCAL AND OTHER MATTERS.

Transferred.—The case involving the right of proprietorship to certain iron mines in Southern Utah, Cullen et al. vs. Taylor, have been transferred from Beaver to Salt Lake City.

An Ice Item.—The continued spell of cold weather has not only given a good first crop of twelve inch ice, but a second crop, now even to eight inches thick, is forming, at which the ice dealers rejoice.

Measles at Brigham.—The measles is so prevalent in Brigham City that, according to a report from that place, there are only a few families free from the complaint. A few deaths have occurred from that cause.

Haverly's Salt Lake Theatre.—Rice's Surprise Party give their first performance at the theatre to night. It is described as one of the most efficient companies that ever crossed the continent. Go and see them play "Pop." You may count on a treat.

A Ten Dollar Scratch.—A journalistic scribble was the victim of an assault last evening. The attacking party tried to play into the face of the Faber's pasher with his nails, but owing to the mammoth character of his cheek, only a slight impression was made on it. The man who made the onslaught was fined ten dollars to-day.

Improved in Health.—Some time since Brother C. W. Nibley, of Logan, was compelled, on account of ill health, to seek a change of air, and betook himself to the milder climate of Southern Utah, which has greatly improved his condition. His numerous friends will be pleased to learn as we do, from the Journal, that he has returned to his northern home, comparatively well.

Involuntary Velocity.—A young man came down a stairway in the Hooper-Eldredge Block quite rapidly to-day. Though he came down quickly it was not on his feet. When he landed on the bottom and looked as if he wanted to treat the matter as a joke, but his smile had a somewhat sickly hue. Probably for a day or two he will feel inclined to take his meals in a standing position.

A Hard One.—Last night was probably the coldest of the season. We didn't get up to look at the thermometer in the night, but gaged at the lactical chunk in the milk picher this morning. How pleasant it would be if nature would furnish us with ice cream in the heated term instead of giving surplus when the temperature is such as to enable the humanity to dispense with the luxury.

An Able Address.—The address delivered in the Thirteenth Ward Assembly Rooms by President Joseph F. Smith, last evening, was of a most interesting and instructive character. It bristled with gems of truth which went straight to the hearts of parents and children, as its object was to define the practical duties of every day life, which was clearly and directly done. Such addresses should be delivered in every part of the Territory.

Destroyed by Fire.—About eight o'clock on Tuesday morning, a house immediately north of the Hot Springs, occupied by A. L. Black, a shoemaker was discovered to be on fire. Fortunately the section hand of the U. C. R. R. were in the vicinity, about to begin work. With their aid the furniture, or most of it, was removed in time to save it. The clothing and other personal effects of the family, Brother Black's tools and other property were destroyed. It is a heavy loss to the occupants. The building, which was totally destroyed, was the property of Brother David Evans, of the Seventh Ward.

A RAILROAD INCIDENT.

A PLUCKY CONDUCTOR COOLS THE COURAGE OF A CAVALRYMAN.

The Boomerang furnishes the following description of a scene on the western bound U. P. express train of Monday last:

"In the second class car were three soldiers, cavalrymen and regiments, en route from Fort Sidney to Fort Washakie, Wyoming. The one in charge, named Daig, was somewhat under the influence of liquor, and making so much noise that he was a nuisance to the other passengers. Mr. N. A. Heath, finally told him to shut up. The fellow answered back in an impudent manner, but finally subsided. When the train reached Sheridan he lit a cigar and walked into the first-class car. Mr. Heath informed him that smoking was not allowed there, in the presence of ladies, but Daig said he didn't care a d—n whether it was or not. He was told that he must throw away his cigar, or it would be taken from him, and he suddenly dropped his weed and reached for his revolver—which was in the holster on the belt around his waist—and inquired whether there was anything the Heath wanted. The conductor told him that now he had thrown away his cigar he would not be molested if he kept quiet. The fellow then, grown colder, drew his gun and said if Heath wanted anything more he would "fix" him with that; but Mr. Heath leisurely walked away, as though he had let the matter drop. Reaching the baggage car, he took the shotgun, which is always kept on hand in case of an emergency, and seeing that it was in good order pulled the bell cord. When the train slackened up he dropped off, catching on the rear platform. He then opened the door of the car in which the belligerent Daig sat, and cocking both barrels of the shotgun, walked forward a few steps, leveled it at the fellow's head and cried: "Hands up!"

Daig turned and seeing the open mouth of the afore-said weapon staring him in the face, threw both hands up so quickly that he almost jerked it from his pockets. While in this position he was disarmed—he revo ver being found on the seat beside him.

On the arrival of the train Daig was taken to the Lehi mill on North Temple street. The boiler is in place and the engine will be ready in a short time for active operations. It is the intention of Mr. Armstrong to use this mill entirely for custom work.

He purposes erecting a much larger steam flour mill, on the land immediately west of the present one, having recently returned from the East, where he investigated all the newest and most improved milling machinery, and purchased a fine fifty-horse power steam engine—intending to have the boiler made here; also purchasing the necessary complete apparatus, to enable him to make one hundred and fifty sacks of flour per day. He is already hauling building material on to the site, and will have the new mill going as soon as practicable.

Another Mill.—A few days ago, we mentioned that Mr. Francis Armstrong had commenced to put in a steam engine and boiler, with which to run his grist mill on North Temple street. The boiler is in place and the engine will be ready in a short time for active operations. It is the intention of Mr. Armstrong to use this mill entirely for custom work.

He is already hauling building material on to the site, and will have the new mill going as soon as practicable.

Worried Sanitizer.—Somebody has raised the blue in a Sanitary correspondent of the Provo Enquirer, else he wouldn't dip his pen in vinegar and write after this fashion:

The bullfrogs, strutting bantams, would-be great politicians, pugilists and lady-like politicos with which communities are afflicted—seem known wherever they go. A philosophical survey is necessary to reveal their true characters. They are known by the way they kick and flounder when an attempt is made to keep them from the public view. They are, in their own estimation, great lawyers, but are known to excel in only two things, viz: pleasing the office through any channel, and annoying every one they meet with their vain, unbearable babbling. We think it is time these tenacious cockroaches and backwood politicians should be warded and society relieved accordingly.

Ogden's Palace Hotel.—The Broom Hotel, at Ogden, was opened on Monday evening, in fine style. Among the guests were people from Salt Lake, Logan, LaSalle, Terrace, Park City and other places, besides those of the Junction City. Between seventy and eighty couples attended to the banquet at the first dinner, which was a second time until all had amply satisfied the demands of the interior man. At 10 o'clock the delectable part of the programme was cleared away, the balance of the time being spent in dancing.

The Ogden Herald describing the gay scene, speaks of the "smooth and elastic floor." Probably that adjective is but a descriptive stretch, else what material is the floor made of?

Shameless Vandalism.—We observe by the Ogden Herald that some faithless miscreant have willfully injured or destroyed the monument which marks the burial place of the late J. L. Gillingly, in the cemetery of that town. No right-minded person can do other than deprecate and condemn such a proceeding. Should the offenders be found they should be severely punished. If they be grown persons they must be of that class that does not know of the existence of anything in the shape of magnanimity.

A Buried Bubble.—Butte's exciting mystery about the mysterious disappearance from that town of Paul E. Bean, is exploded. Instead of being foully murdered, mutilated and buried in a lonely gulch, the fate to which the imaginations of his fond friends consigned him, he is hearty and well. He was seen a few days ago on Market Street, San Francisco, by a Mr. Warrington. A woman with whom he has become infatuated, and financial difficulties are given as the causes of his strange conduct.

Kicked Out by His Friends.—The following is from a Brigham correspondent:

"Our Presbyterian friend, Gillespie had a row with the 'liberal' crew of Bozthe, C. Ray & Co., the other day, resulting in his being kicked out of the store with his pocket office fixtures, and the very same day he had been slandering him, by fixing up a room on the jail premises, and allowing him permission to use it until he could do better."

Shot by a Chinaman.—A week ago yesterday a six-year-old John Smith, who had been working on the railroad, was passing the Chinese quarter of Boise, Idaho. Just then a boy threw stones at a shantie occupied by some celestials. The inmates came out and fired several shots, one of which took effect on Smith, the bullet entering the hip near the socket. The wound will disable him for several weeks.

Young Ladies.—The regular monthly meeting of officers of the Y. L. M. I. A. will be held next Saturday, 20th inst., at 2 p.m., at the residence of Mrs. E. B. Taylor, one and a half blocks west of Cliff House. All interested are invited to attend.

MARY A. FREEMAN.

Utah's crystal reservoir of snow are considerably augmented.

A Pleasant Incident.—Our Nephi correspondent writes:

We had a good time yesterday in our Sunday School. Superintendent Geo. T. Aardale was presented with a beautiful picture of the First Presidency and Twelve as a token of love and respect we have for him. He has labored diligently for the benefit of the Sabbath School in the Jubilee Association for the few years he has been with us. We will not have his presence as much in the future, yet his teachings will ever be remembered. In the afternoon he called on our aged fathers to tell them the Saints, the speaker having seen their four score years.

Logan Smallpox Cases.—The Journal states that on Saturday "A new case was found opposite the first ones, and an eight year old boy named Hanson was supposed to have chicken pox, was found to be down with smallpox. The latter lives a block and a half from the first case. Since then the wife and a ten year old son of Walter Cole's—also an old son of Walter Cole's—also at first supposed to be chicken pox—are afflicted with the worse disease. An eight year old son and the baby of Mrs. Soune are afflicted."

These make six new cases that have broken out.

Mr. Williams' Funeral.—The funeral of the late W. D. Williams took place this morning, being conducted by the Knights of Pythias, who marched in procession from their hall in the Opera House building, preceded by Olsen's Band of music, and followed by the hearse, pall bearers, employees of Walker Bros., and numerous carriages containing mourners and friends. The stores of Walker Bros. were closed from 11 a. m. to 3 p. m., as mark of respect for the deceased.

Another Mill.—A few days ago, we mentioned that Mr. Francis Armstrong had commenced to put in a steam engine and boiler, with which to run his grist mill on North Temple street. The boiler is in place and the engine will be ready in a short time for active operations. It is the intention of Mr. Armstrong to use this mill entirely for custom work.

He is already hauling building material on to the site, and will have the new mill going as soon as practicable.

NEW METHOD OF MUSIC.
 Mr. B. Pratt, of this city, has now in type what he considers a valuable accession to the musical department. It consists of a new and original method of music notation, for the organ and piano. It has no staff neither sharp or flat, and will play any kind of music, the common method. He claims it is so simple that members of almost every family will find themselves able to teach each other, and thus attain proficiency free of charge. Sent with a good teacher, in the course of three months excellent attainment is insured. These notes are in most respects unlike any ever produced. He is willing that the verdict of the public shall rest entirely on the merit of the book, after a full and careful test has been had. He claims that those of superior talent can learn tones, fast and slow, in half a dozen lessons. The book will be got out in the best typographical style on the best of paper. Price 35 cts. to any part of Utah. Other Territories 40 cts. Send orders by mail. Address

Akron, Ohio, May 7th, 1890.—Some three years ago I had a nore become very lame from a spavin. I treated it with Kendall's Spavin Cure with marked success. Since then I have sold a good many bottles, and have heard of cures resulting from its use. I am frank to say I can cheerfully recommend it as an honest remedy. Yours truly,
