COLUMBUS, O., 22.—The special legislative committee appointed to investigate the late Ashtabula disaster, submitted their report, to-day, accompanied by a vast amount of testimony, which was ordered printed. The committee, after go-ing into details, showing the imperfections in the bridge, report the following conclusions: First, There were from eighty to

The impression is generally pre ralent this afternoon that as a re sult of the cabinet conference an executive order for the withdrawal of the troops from South Carolina, or that some other action distinctly favorable to the Hampton government may be shortly expected, fails to obtain official confirmation this evening. The fact seems that al-though two sessions of the cabinet were held to-day on this subject the discussion afforded no reliable indications as to the ultimate decision that will be reached, and it is positively known that no official action was taken decisive of either the withdrawal of the troops or temporary reference of the subject to the commission. All the quesions involved went over for possible decision to-morrow. It is, how ever, confidently stated by a gen leman here in Hampton's interest that the cabinet are unanimous against sending a commision to South Carolina, and that a majority have expressed themselves in favor f withdrawing the troops from any direct support of the Chamberlain government. This is understood to be all Hampton asks. In contradiction of an impression that Gov-ernor Hampton intended coming to Washington, he telegraphs that he will come if the President desires

The President has appointed ex governor John C. Brown, of Tenues-see, a member of the Louisiana commission, and he will serve. It is intimated, to night, on very good authority, that the southern commission will not include in its membership any Senator or Repres entative in Congress, and that Vice-President Wheeler will not be a at length the circumstances culminating in the defeat of Tilden, discussed the present situation, de-claring that the hope of the south lay exclusively in material development. He advocated a southern railroad to the Pacific, and said that if the Mississippi ran through New England it would have been leveed up to the moon long age. He spoke temperately of the President, prom-ising that the South would give non-partisan support to such of his measures as were just. As for the democratic party, it would not be discouraged or divided. Hayes might strengthen the republican party in the south by a genuine policy of reconciliation and referm. The speaker hoped the President would, for it needed improvement, and Watterson wanted to see is good enough to respect. imperial magnitude. He said the noble Lord protests against an understanding which he says we are on the evening of concluding. If he knows this he knows a great deal mere than I do. Lord Derby maintained that a European war would produce far greater horrors than those which occurred in Bulgaria. The wording as well as the conditions under which the protocol shall be signed, if signed at all, are still under the consideration of the government. The ministers are acting on their own responsibility as advisers of the crown, and when steps have been taken will submit them to Parliament without an hour's unnecessary delay. Lord Derby condemned the language as calculated to irritate the Russian people against a policy which the Russian government to its honor was disposed to adopt; language calculated to increase Russia's difficulties and postpone, if not defeat altogether, a solution of the problem. He concluded by warmly defend-ing and praising Sir Henry Elliot, challenging his assailants to bring the question forward in a form which would enable Parliament to express its opinion.

AS LIGHT REGULATORS. BY DR. E. L. PLANT.

The diseases prevalent at this season, both for the young and middle aged, as well as those of mature age, require the use of herbs properly administered under the direction of a practitioner of well-known ability, who combines from Nature's own variety of shade the variegated colors produced by Nature's own sun rays.

All medicines, simply considered, are hot, cold, moist, dry, or temperate. The qualities of medicine, when understood, require to be regulated suitably to the physical condition of the patient.

Culpepper's idea of the astrolegical influence of the planets upon herbs is now recognized as exploded. Modern experience has taught us that herbal medicines must be used properly, in accordance with climatic surroundings, as experimental sishave discovered in the present progressive age.
